The Law Governing Saving Deposits in This Bank.

Any bank combining any of the business of a commercial bank, trust company and savings bank shall keep separate books or accounts for each department, and shall keep all moneys received as such deposits, and the funds and securities in which the same are invested, at all times segregated from and unmingled with the other moneys and funds of the bank, and all bonds, warrants, notes, mortgages, deeds and other securities of every nature of such savings department shall be marked, stamped or labeled "savings department," or some similar words. All funds, investments and other assets of the savings department shall be held solely for the repayment of the depositors in said department and shall not be liable for, pledged as security for, or used to pay any other obligation or liability of the bank until after the payment in full of all depositors of said savings department.

The savings deposits of any bank maintaining a savings department may be invested only in bonds, warrants and mortgages.

FEARS NEW DISEASE MENACE FROM WAR

Health Officer Says We Need
Closer Watch on Ships.

New York.—In his preliminary annual report, just sent to Governor Glynn, Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell, health officer of the port, says the revenue earned by his department for the twelve months ended Sept. 30 is the largest in the department's history, being $291,044.36. In the preceding year it was $148,440.35. The expenses at the department this year were $40,070.36, against $26,078.60 last year.

In closing his report to the governor Dr. O'Connell says: "I feel it my duty to refer to the probable consequences of the deplorable war now being waged in Europe. This is a subject engaging the earnest attention of quarantine authorities all over the world. We are compelled by what we know of the pathological conditions of war during all history to conclude that this vast and desperate struggle, involving so many nations and extending over so great an area, must bring in its wake some terrible epidemics. The concentration of the thought and power of civilized governments upon destructive measures, weakening the sanitary service on the one hand and the conditions of war favoring the spread of disease on the other hand, bring us face to face with a situation extremely grave.

"Unfortunately these conditions are reinforced by the malice consequences of the recent Balkan war, which left eastern Europe cholera stricken. The epidemic had not been stamped out in Europe when this new war began, and the reports each day of cholera infection in southeastern Europe as among the troops engaged on the territory of the Austro-Hungarian empire grow darker with malice significance.

"It is the duty of those charged with the protection of the public health of this country and particularly with the protection of its greatest port to erect every safeguard against what all this implies. European nations are already taking steps in this direction. England is organizing a special cholera corps, and Italy has adopted stringent quarantine measures against all Austrian and east Mediterranean ports."
