BREEDERS OF ENTHUSIASM.

The commercial club has inaugurated a system of fellowship banquets in order to have the membership keep in better touch with the work of the club, and assist as a body in the promotion of different things that shall come up before the club. Probably in no other way do men work together better than at the table and after a good meal. There is something in the informal association that promotes good will and fellowship. The great need of the day is getting together and staying together in striving for whatever shall build up the community. Many a project fails because of a lack of enthusiasm over its merits, and many a project has been made a success because of the general and united enthusiasm for it. What every community needs is an enthusiasm breeder. The banquet helps. One will be held tonight, when matters will be considered. Just now the Albany club is warm after the Growers association without a discord in the effort. The success of this movement will probably mean more for this part of the state than anything that has yet been attempted, something of far-reaching influence for better conditions.

ALL MADE OF DIRT.

That everything on top of the earth sometime came out of the earth is an intensely interesting fact. Not a thing but what was in the earth originally. When God made man it was from dust. There is not an element in the physical part of man but what is in the earth beneath us. The same is true of the birds of the air and the beasts of the field. They were created out of the things of the mud and dirt underneath us. It is not easy to conceive of a Chinese pheasant with his bright plumage being constituted of elements of the earth and water under ground, and yet it is a demonstrated fact, and in keeping with the Creator's plan. Physically, whether plant or bird or animal or human being, there are many of the same constituents in each, and yet how wonderfully different. The plant keeps its place, sending forth its fruit or fragrance; the bird flies wherever it will, wanting to be left alone and allowed to live its own life; the animal runs about often appreciating the fellowship of man; but man, even though constructed of about the same elements, has what nothing else has. Lifting him up into a sphere of his own—a soul. It is this that makes him distinct, above everything else that has come up out of the earth, and it is the only thing that never returns to the earth to come again with the elements of it, for it has an individuality of its own, eternal in its character. These are interesting facts connected with our existence and worthy of thought in this electric age. They should also make us appreciate the fact that one person has no right to claim any superiority over another because of blood of wealth, that the only thing after all that counts in the analysis is character.

MISFITS

An address on trusting the people has a good title to it anyway.

One sometimes wonders just who can be trusted in this world anyway.

Some one calls it the battle of Havana. Unfortunate Havana.

During March business gained in the U. S. $115,000,000, and figures never live—sometimes.

Reports are that way from all over the U. S. anyway, and people ought to help keep it going.

Don't growl is a good motto for people generally. El Bede can't keep it for editors alone.

No better sport in the world than fishing, and it's catching.

Now it is learned that there is a war trust, and that the gov. has been cheated right along in army supplies. Someone has been getting rich.

Gee, but we would like to have this war end.

A man should live well enough so that he is wanted around even if he has a few faults.

The milk of human kindness sometimes gets awfully sour.

Life isn't long enough to spend it with Grouch.

Old people do well to keep in touch with youth and have a frolic once in awhile.

Blue Monday; but every day is just what you make it.

Great Battle Continues.

(By United Press Association)
Berlin, April 10.—With the French directing vicious attacks along the St. Mihiel-Etain line, a great battle between the Meuse and Moselle rivers continues with "undiminished violence," the war office announced. Between the Meuse and Orne rivers, the enemy suffered severe defeats, it is stated. Attacks between St. Mihiel and Pont-A-Mousson, where the French suffered enormous losses, is now less violent.

Railroad Divorce Ordered.

(By United Press Association)
Washington, April 10.—The interstate commerce commission denied the plea of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railway for extension of ownership to The Dalley, Portland and Astoria Navigation company. The commission found that the latter company "does and may compete" with the former and ordered them divorced.

CRABTREE HAS BI-WEEKLY BOOSTER NEWSPAPER

An Interesting Production That Covers the Crabtree Field Well.

The Booster has at last reached the Democrat office, from Crabtree. The date is April 9. The announcement is made that the paper will be sent out every other Friday. The name of the publisher is not given, but an item indicates it is by a local merchant for advertising purposes. The advertisers are S. M. Wirt, who buys veal, hogs, etc.; the Burdall Co., general miter; Union Meat Co.; Mrs. Nelson, with her Mt. Hood Ice cream; W. J. Turnidge, dealer in furniture, harness, etc.; and M. M. Parr, dealer in hunting and fishing licenses.

We condense a few items: Crabtree wants a bank and incloses a blank for subscriptions to it. Crabtree wants a band.

Farmers Union will meet at Crabtree July 3 for a big celebration.

Fred Dodson will open a saw mill this week on Clyde Reilly's place.

Here's a poem signed by Mrs. Parr, that is a good one for any town, big or little:

If you want to live in the kind of town,

Like the kind of a town you like,

You needn't slip your clothes in a grip

And start on a long, long hike.

You'll only find what you left behind,

For there's nothing that's really new.

It's a knock at yourself,

When you knock your town,

It isn't the town, it's you.

BAGGING A HIPPO.

How It Is Done and How the Flesh of the Animal Tastes.

There are two ways of bagging a hippopotamus, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, and neither is justified unless the sportsman is sorely in want of food, for its meat is very poor indeed and wants a good deal of preparation to be palatable to any one except the starving. It has a taste I can only describe as fishy, something what beef would taste like after being wrapped up for a couple of days with a Scotch haddock of doubtful freshness.

The hippo may be shot in water. When mortally wounded he will sink and will not resurface for a time. For several hours, consequently a firing lookout has to be kept for the carcass. If he is only slightly wounded he may charge, but more often he will flee and lie in the reeds to serve as food for scavenger birds or crocodiles.

The other and more sporting way is to shoot him on land. This is, as a rule, only possible at night or late in the evening and early in the morning. It would not be wise to find oneself between the river and the wounded hippo, for he at once makes for the water by the shortest route, and he goes so fast that getting out of his way requires pretty speedy feet and great compass of nerve.

FORCES OF NATURE.

Soft Their Touch, but Constant and Effective Their Work.

What adds to the wonder of the earth's crust is that the millstones that did the work and are still doing it are the gentle forces that career above our heads—the sunbeam, the cloud, the air, the frost. The rain's gentle fall, the air's velvet touch, the sun's noiseless rays, the frost's exquisite crystals, these combined are the agents that crush the rocks, pulverize the mountains and transform continents of sterile granite into a world of fertile soil.

It is as if baby fingers did the work of powder and dynamite. Give the clouds and the sunbeams time enough and the Alps and the Andes disappear before them or are transformed into plains where corn may grow and cattle graze. The snow falls as lightly as down and flows almost as lightly, yet the crags tumble beneath it; compacted by gravity, out of it grew the tremendous ice sheet that ground off the mountain summits, that scooped out lakes and canyons and modeled our northern landscapes as the sculptor his clay image.—John Burroughs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cooper went to Salem yesterday afternoon.
