SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS.

It is practically necessary to start these thoughts on something about the big war, or else they would not cover the events of the week; for, as much as we close our ears the war predominates first in all the transpiring events of the world. This week there has been some interest in air fighting. A few years ago that would have sounded crazy enough. Down on E 4th street thirty or more years ago an Albany man spent some time trying to make a flying machine, and people sometimes said he had wheels in his head; but he had more than that. He had an idea; but he didn't have enough of one. He lacked the gasoline for one thing. Now we have a wonderful machine, not only a flyer, but a fighter.

Another phase of the war has been the failure of the Russians to fight their way through the passes of the Carpathians into Hungary, obstructed by bullets and snow, the soft stuff about as much of a handicap as the lead. This was really a crucial battle, and had it ended in favor of the Russians would have played a very important part in bringing the war to an end. Some thought it would have caused Austria to give up.

This week without any warning two Arizona dams gave way and several people in the way of the rushing flood were drowned. The Johnstown flood has never been sufficient of a warning to keep people from in front of big dams, bound to gradually weaken under the stress of the awful weight of water. No one knows when something will come down from up stream in the path of life and wash one out of existence.

That was an odd kind of a robbery hack near Buffalo, N. Y., when twenty men with ten auto trucks stole $50,000 worth of silks from a freight train and escaped. Depend upon it that was all figured out before. The men are no doubt silk experts, in the business.

Just a movie actor but in the press reports going all over the U. S. That is John Bunny, the fat fellow with the odd expressions, known to everyone in the country. Few people who have not watched the antics of Bunny, getting rid of many a grouch, going away feeling better natured, with a better taste in the mouth, refreshed after the wearisome struggles of life.

The people of Multnomah county did a great thing this week when they voted bonds for about 70 miles of hard surface roads. This road will go east up the Columbia through one of the prettiest sections of the world, and will work wonders as an advertisement for Portland. Seattle has been doing a great many things like this, and, for some time it has attracted wide attention on account of the famous boulevard and other auto-ways. Now it will have to take notice, for Portland will have just as pretty a run for the gasoline.

A good many Albany people this week have been interested in a series of addresses on Bible subjects by a man with a national reputation in his special line of research. A deep student of the greatest of all books he sets people to thinking and investigating, and that is what everybody ought to be willing to do along all lines of study.

MISFITS

Columbia the gem of the N. W.

Wallace Struble, a former Albany booster, is proving a great booster for the Columbia, a regular cyclone.

Albany's commercial club should be given the universal support of the people of Albany. Now is the time to make a hummer of it, the real thing.

Take the five years life of the commercial club out of the city, and it would leave a vacuum. It has been worth more than it has cost. It should be made many times more.

There was never a more opportune time for hustle than now.

We need more small factories. First, though, the furniture factory should be set to whirling.

Looks like good crops. The farmer makes the wheels go round.

When he loosens up a little more watch renewed life.

The old countries are going to be too exhausted to quarrel with the U. S. even if there was occasion.

Uncle Sam is liable to have the biggest merchant marine in the world if those subs keep up their job.
