SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS.

Same old war, same old stories, old ups and downs, ending about the same as it began. It is a great trench affair, with some water acts on the side.

Americans have had a big trial for damages, of a character that has attracted attention, because the defendant is an ex-president, the plaintiff a political boss.

When a boy the first of May was always an event with the writer and his companions. Then the May basket was hung on the door of one's best girl, or some one else's best girl, and the hanger ran; but he didn't run very fast.

Attention has been called this week to Albany's school facilities by the laying of a corner stone of new building, one the people of the city will have reason to be proud of.

The Weather—"Fair tonight and Sunday," says the weather man. The temperature yesterday ranged between 29 and 55 degrees.

MISFITS

The heathen Chinese used to get credit for slippery ways; but now he has to hustle to keep up with some whose flesh is not yellow.

If both Barnes and Roosevelt were to be fined the crowd would not object.

Speaking of Roosevelt, it transpires that he did not originate the word "bully," so frequently used by him; but Mr. William Shakespeare was ahead of him.

Banquets give one an opportunity to show one's capacity for patient waiting.

It takes a smart person to converse with the same person for an hour and not repeat.

Judging from the records of the circuit court life is full of misfits.

According to the dictionary slang is a new word for a sentence without any reason for it.
