KNOX BUTTE NEWS
AND PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler and family of Albany were guests Saturday at the James Smith home.

Church services were held last Sunday at Central church both morning and evening. Church services are held there now two Sundays each month.

A large number of people here attended Salesday Saturday at Albany.

Elmer Probst recently purchased a new buggy, Arthur Pearson a motorcycle, and Frank Smith and Frank Cornett each an automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chambers are the proud parents of a son born Wednesday morning. All are doing fine.

In mentioning Mrs. Maria Miller's guests last week, Mrs. Margaret Mallon and Mrs. J. W. Underwood should have been included.

Mrs. C. W. Houston and Mrs. Sam Knox were hostesses to the Embroidery club at the Houston home on Wednesday afternoon. A most pleasant time was passed and delicious luncheon served by the hostesses.

SOCIAL

Miss Mildred Brown celebrated her twelfth birthday today, by inviting several of her girl friends to her home. Games and music were the diversions furnished during the afternoon, after which dainty refreshments were served, the pink color scheme being carried throughout. Dainty May baskets were used as favors. The invited guests included Pauline Bloom, Stella Watson, Anita and Emma Gerdes, Pearl Henderson, Violet Pears, Fairley Henderson, Bertha Roselle, Katherine Burgaman and Oldine Prochnow.

CITY NEWS

Pheasants Meet Tonight—

The Albany Pheasants will meet tonight in the Hotel Albany at 9 o'clock to consider several matters about the suit and costumes, and the matter of holding a big Pheasant hall in the near future. The cane, decoration for hat, style of hat and other features will come up.

Gillard Case Continued—

Owing to the pitiful condition of W. H. Gillard, who was beaten up by his step-son, H. A. Weaver, Thursday afternoon, Justice Swan decided to continue the hearing of the case of Nettie Gillard vs. W. H. Gillard until 9 o'clock Monday morning. Judge Swan visited the defendant this morning and found him in no condition to appear in court. W. H. Gillard is made the defendant in a case by his wife, Nettie Gillard, who charges him with uttering a threat to kill and asks that he be placed under bonds to keep the peace.

Marriage Licenses Issued—

Licenses to wed were issued today by the county clerk to Liston A. Darby, 25, a farmer living near Scio, and Lora L. Conklin, 18, also of Scio; and to Argyri Villani, 32, of Mill City, and Baseleke Holia, 19, of Athens, Greece.

Urged to Sign Petitions—

The county court meets next Wednesday and all persons interested in the oiling of the Pacific Highway are requested to hunt up the petitions and sign them before that date. The lists are being well filled, and it is the desire of those advocating an oiled highway to have as many names on the list as possible. It is believed that this is the only way to hold the grades in place during the dusty, Summer with the heavy travel that will come this way. Petitions are placed at Tangent, Shedd, Halsey, and other places along the highway, and at the Albany garage in this city.

Returned From E. O.—

Miss Willetta Wright returned last night from near Burns, in Eastern Oregon, where she took up a claim, near that of her sister, Mrs. Nelson Wilbur, and which she expects to occupy.

Fire Boys Make Run—

An alarm turned in to the fire department about 8 o'clock last night brought the auto truck out in Sunrise addition. The alarm was given by a Mrs. Burkhart, who saw a blaze that she thought was in the U. B. Peters home, but when the company reached that place the fire seemed to be further out. Thinking it might be some farm house they went on for about a mile and discovered it was only a brush pile. However, the department is to be commended for interesting themselves in property outside of the city, as well as that in town. The chemical apparatus can handle small blazes and save much property in outlying districts.

AT THE THEATRES.

Judging from the way people turned out last night the show business is still a live one in Albany. Three excellent bills furnished amusement for theatre goers, and all were crowded all evening.

"A Fool There Was," at the Rolfe, is one of the best picture plays ever brought to this city. Theda Bara, as the Vampire, and Edward Jose, as the husband in cheerful, happy home until the coming of the Vampire, furnished an hour and a half of emotional acting that has never been excelled in any production seen here. The play deals with a phase of human life that caused the fall of Rome, the destruction of homes and the bankruptcy of wealth, industry and mankind. It is a picture that strikes all the chords of human emotions. It tells a story that carries a warning to every man and woman, and has a grip that is as unyielding as steel. It is a lesson that all should see. The same bill is shown tonight.

The return of the Frank Rich company to the Globe last night after an absence of over a year was welcomed by an enthusiastic audience. The cast is better than ever, especially the male portion. Geo. Burton and Cash Knight as the Dutch and Irish comedians kept the house in a roar of laughter, and Miller Evans and Frank Confer possess voices that are pleasing to hear. Miss Madge Schuler and Miss Dora Gardiner take the leading feminine parts with ability, and the chorus is better trained and better voiced than any of the preceding companies. The duet, "Birds of Paradise," by Miss Schuler and Frank Confer, was one of the best features of the show. Tonight they will present "The Girl from Panama," containing twelve song numbers. Two shows will be given, the pictures starting at 7:15.

The Hub drew its quota of the evening's crowd with Madge Messing in "The Blue Mouse." This is a big seven reel production, played by an able cast and is good throughout. It is one of the funniest things ever brought to Albany.

Next Wednesday and Thursday the Hub will show the final episode and solution of the Million Dollar Mystery.
