City News

How it Started--

John Catlin explains how the fire in the grass on the base ball ground, yesterday afternoon happened. Some paper and trash were taken out there and burned, being left before extinguished. Some hoboes who were camped near there saw the blaze and did good work extinguishing the flames before the fire department got to the place. Constable Catlin gave notice that more care must be used in the future.

Friday and the 13th--

Today is Friday the 13th, a good day for luck. Among those not superstitious enough to care are Mayor Corimer and wife, of Lebanon, who left today on train 13 for San Francisco. The Criterion says they will spend thirteen days at the fair, and thirteen days at numerous other places and are arranging to be home on the thirteenth of October.

Sherman at Work--

F. M. Sherman is working every day on the 1815 samples of grain and vegetables for the Willamette Valley exhibit at the San Francisco fair. He has much of it together already and by the end of this week expects to have it all in shape to forward. He has been very successful in the work of getting first class specimens and thinks he has a display that is even better than that sent out at the beginning of the fair.--Criterion.

From Olympia, Wash.--

Dr. Wayne Bridgford, a leading physician of Olympia, Wash., arrived last night on a visit with his folks, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bridgford.

The Lebanon Bridge--

Commissioner Butler returned last night from Lebanon, where he has been looking after preliminary work in connection with the new steel bridge to be built at Lebanon over the Santiam. It is expected that the work will begin on Monday.

Big Crops--

Clifford Harold, of the Averill Co., returned last evening from a trip out Brownsville way. He reports the crops great, something that will mean much for his house, which deals in farm machinery.

Of Bahrke's addition--

Mr. Bahrke, after whom one of Lebanon's additions is named, was in the city yesterday afternoon, returning home last evening.

Returned from Marshfield--

Dr. W. H. Lee, of Albany College, returned last night from a trip to the Coos Bay country, in the interest of the college. There are several prospective students there. Some of the college's best students have come from that country. He came out on the auto stage, making the trip of 92 miles during the day. Dr. Lee will spend the entire vacation season in the interest of the college.

What a Dollar Will Do

"Running An Account"

FOURTH STORY.

"I'm mighty glad to get back to Centerville," said The Rolling Dollar to the 1900 Dollar, "That Scott Valley is no place for me. Poor crops there this year, so the merchants have lots of business. That is no joke either. Those people send all their money away when they have any, and when there is no cash for money orders they still have to eat. Where do they go? Why, to the merchant they passed by when they had the cash.

"Four years ago there were twice as many stores in Scott Valley, but the mail order bug bit the people so the stores closed up. Everybody was busy saving money by buying from the catalog houses.

"Now crops are poor and cash mighty scarce. So the folks are going to the few storekeepers left and asking for credit--and getting it of course. Yet the merchant has to borrow money from the bank to pay his bills because he is carrying such a load of credit for a man who isn't patronized when you have the cash can't be expected to have much ready money when cash is short.

"The bank would not loan the most of them enough to live on for a year, or until the new crop came in, so the storekeeper is the only crutch to lean on. Where would those people be if the stores had closed up?

"Over on Plains Creek conditions are different. It is a new country, and like Scott Valley the farmers depend on one crop. But they realize that without the stores they would be gambling with little to gain and everything to lose. Public sentiment is all against buying elsewhere. If the merchant has not in stock what is wanted they expect him to get it for them. Consequently the merchant can carry the farmers until they get their crop money, and nobody suffers physically or financially. Plains Creek people know they would be cutting their own throats by patronizing the mail order houses and forcing their stores out of business. The storekeeper is really the banker of the community, but he is willing to be as long as he gets a fair shake.

"A catalog house has only two ways of selling, 'Cash with Order' and 'Collect on Delivery.' Where the farmer has to wait a year for his money and pay interest so that he can give those people what they must have until they get some cash again. And then he won't see them in his store again until the crop fails another year.

"I wish one of those Scott Valley people would ask a mail order house for a year's credit. The clerk who opened the letter would fall dead."
