BRYAN ON WAR.

Following are fresh utterances of W. J. Bryan in reference to the U. S. and war:

Twenty-one million of soldiers are engaged in the unparalleled war now raging in Europe; what will be our quota if we are foolish enough to enter into it?

More than two million men have been killed thus far. What will be our toll if we take part?

Over five millions wounded. What will be our share if we become a participant?

The nations at war are now spending four hundred million dollars per week—more than twenty billions per year—what will our expenditures be?

Before we decide to "go in" at any cost" let some of the advocates of war give us an estimate. We are a great nation and can not be stingy with blood or money if we cast in our lot with the belligerents.

And what is to be gained by war? Protection of American rights? No, that can be secured without loss of life, money or honor; it can be secured without arousing hatreds which would last a century.

And what would we lose by entering into the war? Men? Yes, no one knows how many. Money? Yes, no one knows how much. But more than that, we would lose our place as the leader of the neutral nations and the opportunity to mediate when the time for mediation comes; we would lose the priceless privilege of using our good offices as a friend to assist in laying the foundations of permanent peace.

There is no excuse for war. Our grievances—we have them against both sides—do not justify war; and the treaty plan furnishes the machinery for maintaining an honorable peace. Those who talk war misrepresent the wishes of the people. You can no more measure the sentiment of the masses by the froth of the jingo press than you can measure the ocean's silent depths by the foam upon its waves.

The jingoes are now talking about spending three hundred million dollars on the navy and one hundred and fifty million dollars on the army, or four hundred and fifty million dollars per year getting ready for wars that ought never to come. Four hundred and fifty millions a year would amount to about five billions in eleven years! That sum would gridiron the United States with hard roads twelve miles apart, so that no citizen would live more than six miles from a good road which would enable him to go everywhere. It is estimated that a farmer can haul four times as much on a hard road as on a dirt road. What a boon it would be to a farmer to be relieved of the mud embargo! The sum above mentioned would in ten years revolutionize the road travel and traffic of the country, but half that sum would probably supply present needs. If we keep our army and navy appropriations, the benefits to business will be enormous. Good roads or frenzied preparedness.

MISFITS

The Democrat has received a copy of a little poem, the verses of which begin like this:

How shall I see no evil?
How shall I hear no evil?
How shall I speak no evil?
As evil exists we are bound to see it; we are also bound to hear it; but we do not have to speak it.

The sun diving through a filthy pool makes the dirt more plain.

The lark in the blue heavens may sing and hear only its own song; but let a hawk come squawking around and notice how quickly it hears the unwelcome sound.

Sentiment is one thing, facts another.

Here is the way the government prepares. It paid $25.26 for 47 inch shrapnel, for an article manufactured by a government owned arsenal at $15.45, a steel of approximately $10 on each shrapnel.

If the matter of war was left to the people there is no question about the vote.

Nor would there be any question about the unanimity of defense in case of attack.

The peace treaty plan should be used in the interest of peace.

The U. S. will be greatest as a mediator if it keeps out of the war and it comes to a settlement of matters.

Every city has to have a police force, and nations one too, but it should be just as small as circumstances will justify.

The strength of every nation is the reserve force existing in the people.

Are you going deer hunting? If so you need a good field glass. We have some especially made for deer hunting. F. M. French & Son.

These improvements will cost us this year $317,000 extra.

Yet this year also brought to Goodyear users an enormous price reduction, making 45 per cent in two years.

Note what Goodyear users get this year on tires in smaller sizes.

We have added 20 per cent to the air capacity. That adds immensely to your riding comfort, combats the blowouts and overloading that came to smaller tires.

We have added 30 per cent to the rubber in the side walls, where constant bending breaks so many tires.

We have made new molds—changed the whole design—because of newly-discovered ways to add to the tires' endurance.

Note that Goodyear tires, as made before, won top place in Tiredout. Never has another tire won so many users.

It is these tires—proved the best tires built—which we have bettered this year in every way that experts know.

Get these super-tires. Our mammoth output makes this extra value possible. Don't take smaller, thinner tires.
