SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHTS.

This week has seen the blowing away of the clouds that showed up strongly on the horizon in the trouble between the United States and Germany over the sinking of the Arabic.

The Corvallis Gazette-Times says there is nothing to show for the watchful waiting of the president and his cabinet. That is as false a statement as was ever made, mere politics of the worst order.

That a man with a big reputation can make himself a menace to a country is becoming evident in the case of Mr. Roosevelt.

Bryan offers a wonderful contrast. The organized effort throughout the country in reference to safety first matters is resulting in big things for people who travel and work.

Another salesday here. Getting a little tired but still in the ring. These boys have proven a good thing and should be kept going.

Circus this week, with animal performers, one worth seeing. Nothing has yet been discovered that can efface the desire to attend a circus.

Oregonians want good roads; but not bonds.

The people will stick their stilletoes into bonds as a rule.

Give Mrs. Taft a good drink of lontanberry and let her yell. Keep these new drinks going.

About all this new industrial commission amounts to is the personal opinions of members, and they ought to have been secured for nothing.

By the way, Uncle Sam is as easy as Happy Hooligan; bites at everything.

The Petrograds had better tak to their cellars, Bill's nearly there.

Napoleon is liable to have to take a back seat in history.

Those Eugene movie actors are not in the Albany class. Billy Woods and Everett Cummings can give hem a block and beat them there.

Just now Lillian Walker is the movie girl that's gotten down into the bottom of Misfit's heart.

Never gets too warm for a swim.

What's become of the boy that used to sneak home with his shirt wrong side out.

Long time since we have heard of sleeves being tied into solid knots.

And yet some people say we are not getting more civilized.

Mr. Weather has certainly been good to the crop raiser this year.
