SOUTH AMERICA POOR PLACE FOR YOUNG MEN

St. Louis, Sept. 17.—Youth of St. Louis, gazing with eyes of romance and yearning in the general direction of South America has received warning from E. G. Berrien, of Callao, Peru, a business man, that your typical South American seldom throws away real money and does not gravel his garden with butter-colored suggestions. The locals of the tale of King Midas may have been South America but, Berrien reminds, the neighborhood down there is rather large and the exact scene of the old King's gold-touching had not yet been found. Berrien's information, received in correspondence here, was timely, for St. Louis being in touch with South America by way of the Mississippi river, romantic stories of fabulous wealth to be acquired by youths of snap and fire had begun to cause vacant chairs at some of this city's family tables. Young men here were said to believe that the approved way of becoming rich in South America was the poker-dice-and-gin-rickey-on-the-veranda method, with natives doing the work in the broiling sun. Of course all Americans down there wore pith helmets and duck suits and had whole companies of native dancers and bonjo plunkers working continuously for their entertainment. In fact the life of the young man down there was very soft. Berrien has kicked the props from beneath many an air castle. White men have to work in South America according to his statements and salaries for clerks are not as high as a rule as those prevailing in American cities. "Young fellows who cannot speak Spanish have scarcely any chance," he said, "and scores of young men are 'down and out' depending on the charity of their countrymen. The only way to be sure of a good salary and position is to go to South America under contract to some good American firm." He added that work and perseverance are just as important as they are in the United States.

A very peculiar accident happened at Eugene yesterday. Roseburg Boy's Motor Experience.

John Tisdale, a 16 year old Roseburg boy, this week had a live motorcycle experience. On going down one of the hills of the city at a fast speed the break refused to work. He shot off the power and did everything possible to stop; but the speed was terrific. He just missed a barn, and finally struck a curb and rider and machine plunged through the air for 30 feet, the machine landing on the front wheel and going end over end. He was unconscious for some time. It was thought to be fatal, but he will probably recover.

GOD IS PARTICULAR ABOUT OUR CONDUCT

"There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death"—Pro. 16:25, was the text which formed the basis of the subject, "Unpardonable Sin," presented by Evangelist Meikeljohn last night at the Cotton Tabernacle on Seventh and Ferry streets. "It may seem a little strange," said the evangelist, "that one could actually come to that place where he will think that he is on the road to life whereas in reality he is traveling the road to perdition." To show that there is a sin which cannot be forgiven, the speaker read Matt. 12:31. Matt. 7:21-23 was read to show that one may be religious and still be in that condition. The speaker then asked "How is this sin committed?" and in reply he read 2 Thess. 2:8-11 showing that people are deceived by strong delusions because they receive not the love of the truth. "The next question will be, how will one know when he has committed that sin." As long as one feels in his heart a desire to lead that nobler life, a desire to walk in all the light which God gives him, by the help of God, regardless of what that light may be, if we are determined that we will walk in that light, we may rest assured that we have not committed the "Unpardonable Sin." For that is evidence that the spirit is still working with one which it does not do after one has committed that sin. The evangelist went on to say that our greatest danger is in thinking that God is not particular; we think that he will overlook the little things we do. But God is particular. The speaker brought forward numerous Bible illustrations, among which were the expulsion of Adam and Eve from the garden of Eden; Annanias and Sapphira, etc. In conclusion he said, "God is particular; He demands that we do the best we can to live up to all the light He gives us; Doing this, we shall be saved, failing we shall be lost." A call was then made for those who were willing to do this even to the keeping of God's Sabbath, to rise to their feet. Fully half of the audience stood to their feet. The subject for tonight's discourse is "Christian Baptism—Is It Necessary to Salvation."

Home from Calif.—
W. H. Worrell has returned from San Diego, where he went to attend the national convention of the post office clerks. He was also across the line in Mexico without being shot.

The exhibition is intended to show the whole of the northwest under one great roof. More than 75,000 square feet will be devoted to exhibit space and Oregon, Washington and Idaho counties and communities have been invited to take part. The management of the exposition is this year giving free space to land products displays and a grand prize is to be given for the best county exhibit.

ONE OF FOUR MINISTER BROTHERS AGAIN INSTALLED

Dr. Wallace Howe Lee and Dr. E. M. Sharp returned yesterday from Newberg, where they assisted in the installation of Rev. Geo. H. Lee as pastor of the First Presbyterian church there. Dr. Lee delivered the sermon, Dr. Sharp gave the charge to the pastor and Dr. J. R. N. Bell the charge to the people. It is an interesting fact that the closing hymn was written by the father of the pastor, Rev. Wm. B. Lee, D. D., who died in 1901, for his son's installation in 1860, and has since been used for the installation of all of his sons, the others, besides Rev. G. H. Lee and Rev. Wallace Howe Lee, being Rev. E. Trumbull Lee, late of Pittsburg, Pa., and Rev. Lewis Earl Lee, of Cincinnati. The first verse of the hymn will show the spirit of the entire hymn of four verses:
Lord of all the wide creation!
Seated on thy Father's throne,
Sending heralds of salvation
Far as guilty man is known;
Giving pastors for the feeding
Of the flocks that need thy care;
Now, while Thou art interceding
Boy we here in praise and prayer.
