PERSONAL MENTION FROM FAYETTEVILLE

Fayetteville, Or., Oct. 9.—N. H. Millard and Chas. Barton, were Albany visitors on Wednesday afternoon.

Louis Schultz and H. C. Schultz accompanied by their wives, motored to Albany last Monday on important business.

W. J. Dunlap of Shedd, was a Fayetteville visitor early Wednesday morning.

F. G. Davis the dairy man shipped five dressed hogs to Portland Tuesday morning by express.

Ernest Marquade, of near Fayetteville, has moved to eastern Oregon, leaving here last Tuesday evening with a var of stock and household goods.

I. M. Saxton, the ticket agent of the O. E. had business calling him to Albany early Thursday morning.

Miss Eva Stokes, T. B. Cane, and Moss Lamar, of Peoria, were Albany visitors on Thursday.

W. W. Bailey of Brownsville was a visitor at the home of Louis Schultz.

Those who were Albany visitors on Saturday were Chas. Barton and son Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schultz, E. G. Pugh and daughter Laura, and about 20 Russians.

Mrs. Chas. Barton and Miss Eva Stokes boarded the Saturday morning train for Portland for a few days visit with friends.

Why the Prince Laughed.

When King George of England was in the navy, as a young man, an American of some consequence obtained permission to visit the ship on which he was serving. The ship was coaling at Halifax, and when the American clambered aboard a young officer, with a very grimy face, was told off to show him around. After making his tour of inspection the American rowed back to shore in company with the captain of the vessel. "Well," he said, "I have only one complaint and that is that I did not see the prince." "But you have been talking to him for the best part of an hour," answered the surprised captain. "What?" said the American. "Was that grimy fellow the prince? Sakes alive, no wonder he laughed so heartily when I asked him if he kept his royal highness in cotton wool while the coal dust was flying about!"

The Harm of Damp Houses. It is dangerous to health and even to life in a damp, moldy house or one built over a moldy cellar. Many years ago the London Lancet in an article on diphtheria traced the disease in certain cases to the presence of certain molds and fungoid growths which seemed to be breathed into the throat. Remember, one of the best disinfectants is lime. Moldy cloths, such as shoes and other articles that are unfit for use, should be destroyed at once.

Cold Baths.
A few years ago the remarkable discovery was made by Professor Winterlitz of Vienna that general cold baths have the effect of increasing the number of active cells in the blood to a very remarkable extent, the increase sometimes amounting to one-fifth or even more. This is one of the ways in which the cold bath increases the resisting power of the body, and rallies the blood cells, so to speak, calling them out from their hiding places and preparing them to fight with vigor the battles which must be waged every moment in defense of the body.—Good Health.

Barrister's Fees.
The barrister's fees are irrecoverable in law, but he can pick and choose his customers and can also insist on cash in advance. Until recently every barrister had on his table a gentle reminder in the way of a fee bowl. In earlier times the client used to drop surreptitiously the money in a little bag at the back of counsel's gown. A trace of this receptacle still figures in legal costume.—London Chronicle

WAR PICTURES WILL SHOW AT ROLFE TOMORROW

Direct from the Irving Place Theatre, New York and the Pabst Theatre, Milwaukee, the first genuine German motion pictures of the European war will be shown at the Rolfe Theatre Thursday only. The pictures were taken by permission of the general staff in Berlin, with the approval of the kaiser. They were taken near the real battle as to give startling effects. These are the first motion pictures of the European war to show real life in the trenches, real battlefields, and to give truly vivid illustrations of the conflict. They tell the plain truth about the war, and show the frightful struggles on the fields of battle. This wonderful story picture of the most appalling struggle in history, depicts actual, living, moving scenes. Mr. Fred Topken, traveler and lecturer, will describe the scenes and battles in detail.

Cheerfulness.
To be free minded and cheerfully disposed at hours of rest, of sleep and of exercise is one of the best precepts of long lasting.—Bacon.

Superfluous.
Mrs. Crawford—Do you tell your neighbor all your family affairs? Mrs. Cranshaw—It isn't necessary. She's on the same party line.

Judges' Wigs.
The wig is only worn by English barristers to give them a stern, judicial appearance, and no one can say that it falls in this respect. The custom was originated by a French judge in the seventeenth century when, happening to don a marquis' wig one day, he found it gave him such a stern and dignified appearance that he decided to get one for himself and wear it at all times in court. This he did, and the result was so satisfactory from a legal point of view that not only judges, but barristers also, took up the custom throughout Europe.—London Graphic.

Warship Pennants.
The commission pennant on United States war vessels goes up when the vessel is placed in commission and is flown continually while she remains so. The jacks have many pet superstitions based on the way this bunting behaves.

It Sure is.
Patience—Do you ever look back over the past?
Patrice—Why, bless your heart! That's the only way one can look at the past.—Yonkers Statesman.

Disguised.
Customer—I'm going to a masked ball, and I want something that will completely disguise me. Customer—Certainly, sir. I will give you something nice.—Pep Mele.
