SAYS FORD SUCCEEDED.

Engene Register: Miss Grace DeGraff, of Portland, one of the members of the Henry Ford peace party, is a sister of Mrs. Ella Guifford, who resides at 1888 Patterson street in Eugene. Miss DeGraff was expected back to Portland yesterday. She left the Ford Peace ship, visited in Brockton, Mass., and expected to be home in Portland for the opening of the new school term.

According to a statement made by Miss DeGraff during her stay in Brockton, Henry Ford succeeded in his purpose. On the same authority it is declared that the reports given out regarding the trip were wrong. The correspondents on board the ship were severely scored by Miss DeGraff in addresses made before the teachers of Brockton last Tuesday.

Of the reports sent out and their authors Miss DeGraff is quoted as saying: "The public has been greatly misinformed by garbled and twisted reports of the doings on board the ship. Few accurate reports were made of the conferences and it is not surprising when a great many newspaper correspondents were cringing all night and were not in a condition to see or hear anything right."

"It is a mystery to me why editors sent men to cover such a trip who, I do not believe, could report accurately, the activities in their own home town."

Of the alleged quarreling among the peace people, Miss DeGraff declared that there was no dissension among the real peace delegates, but that the trouble was caused by a number who from the first had intended not to enter into the effort designed by Mr. Ford, but who were just going along to get a free trip.

Henry Ford's claim to success, according to Miss DeGraff's statement, lies in the fact that through his efforts, six delegates have been placed in The Hague, where they will fight for peace on neutral grounds.

ADULTERATIONS.

"There are three kinds of adulteration," says an exchange. "First, the mixture of food with cheaper but not injurious articles; second, the use of substances that injure food qualities, to improve the color and appearance; third, the removal of valuable or necessary ingredients."

"The purity of baking powder, ketchup, vinegar, flour, and canned goods is difficult for anyone but a trained chemist to determine. The safest way to buy such articles is to get standard brands."

"While spices are generally adulterated with starchy substances, and the starch can be detected by adding a drop or two of tincture of iodine to a water solution of them, it is best to buy standard brands. The starch test can be used with cloves, mustard, and cayenne."

"To detect coloring matter in tea put a teaspoonful of tea in a sieve, shake over a piece of white unglazed paper, crushing a little if tightly rolled. Then crush the sifted dust on the paper with a spatula or a case-knife, drawing it along on the paper."

"If colored, streaks of various colors will be mingled with the uniform color of the tea dust."

"Coffee is adulterated by adding chicory, various cereals, peas, and beans. In coarsely ground samples the coffee will have a dull surface, while chicory is darker and gummy-looking, and the beans and peas have a polished surface. A magnifying glass will make these differences plainer. For further test put a level teaspoonful in a small bottle of water, shake, let stand a moment; most of the coffee particles, being oily, will float; unless very fine, the substitutes will sink to the bottom."

MISFITS

An X says that N. G. stands for Neutral Ground.

The Medford Sun has discovered that in four speeches President Wilson made this statement: "We are in the midst of a world that we 'd not make and cannot alter." Well, what's the matter of that? It's worth repeating some more.

If the government has any problems it should send them to Minneapolis. A fellow there has figured out that there is just 14,000,000 pounds of snow on the ground in that city.

That old saying of years ago, that if you could buy some men for what they are worth and sell them for what they think they are worth you could make a fortune, continues to hold good in the world.

Back in the middle east, covered with snow, they have begun their anti-campaign, on high gear.

The time to strike is early in the game.

Geel! But it is hard to tell what a day will bring forth.

Ball will roll for assessor of Lincoln county.

Bert Geer is willing to be sheriff some more of Lincoln county. A high gear fellow, ready to start at once he deserves to be kept going.

An exchange wants to know in what part of Oregon Portland is anyway. It is charged with trying to absorb all the rose glory of the state, always referring to the Portland rose instead of to the Oregon rose. Just as fine roses in Albany as in Port.

One of the humorosities of the newspaper business is having people expect a two or three line item to have the most important position in the paper. It can't be done.

There isn't any in the Democrat. Any old place is read; but it is a strange experience that one can rarely ever find a thing hunted.

My, but they've been having bad weather elsewhere.

These silver thaws have a mighty good name for such monstrosities.

The Democrat can say: "We told you so," in reference to the government owning the locks at Or. City, making any difference in rates. An immense sight of cheap oratory was wasted on the proposition by men hunting for office.

Marshfield is going some. It has a $50,000 newspaper plant.

PERSONALS FROM SHEDD AND THAT VICINITY

W. L. Jackson, county superintendent, visited Shedd school today, and gave a very entertaining talk to the students.

Mrs. Freeland's room in Shedd school has won the 4th monthly half holiday for the highest percentage of attendance.

Harry Sprenger of Shedd went to Albany today to attend the funeral of his cousin, Fred Powers.

Shedd high school basketball team was greatly disappointed last Saturday because the Eugene Business College team failed to keep their appointment. The Eugene team tried to come in an automobile and got stuck in a mud a mile and a half above Halsey.

Mrs. Chas. Troutman went to Albany today on a business trip.

The Italian orchestra will play at the Hamilton theatre Thursday night. Prepare for a treat.

The new Eagle Boy Scout patrol took the tenderfoot examination Tuesday night. Examination proved satisfactory except that Stewart Arnold was found to have ingrown toenails. But really, this only proves him a genuine tenderfoot.

Miss Matt Pehrfit of Halsey, was visiting Miss Mina Arnold yesterday.

Was at Portland—

Rev. W. P. White last night returned from a business trip to Portland, where he spent the day. He declared Albany a Garden of Eden just now compared with Portland during this storm. It was a sight worth seeing, though not one to appreciate. Business houses generally had to be closed and traffic was demoralized. People walked in the street for fear of falling icicles and snow from roofs. Snow along the sidewalks was up to one's shoulders at places where they dared to walk on them.
