A REAL HOME.

If anything prettier than the following by Florence Van Cleve, first published in the N. Y. Times, has been written lately, we haven't seen it.

CHANGE OF FRONT.

A few days ago the editor of the Seattle Times was in Kansas City and on being interviewed on the question of prohibition in Washington said:

MISFITS

We feel better now, Schwab says that he has a war making plant at Bethlehem that is 50 per cent larger than the one of Krupp at Essen.

And yet, some people say that the U. S. is not prepared.

Don't you ever thing that the U. S. won't be on hand with both feet planted wherever needed.

A modern joke: T. R. uniting any party.

"You contemptible coward—you curl!" is the manner in which one Corvallis editor refers to another.

In the 60's the then editor of the Democrat once referred to his enemies in the following language: "Cut throats, assassins, murderers and their vagabond allies."

Value of Peanut Butter.

A Linn county farmer has introduced a new method of fattening hogs. Peanut butter he finds, not only produces desired results but finds favor with the porcine epicures.

An ex. objects to doing away with the death penalty so long as men sing Asleep in the Deep.

Hit Again.

A hundred years from now the Sons of the Revolution won't be half as fashionable as the Descendants of the Ford Peace Party.—Mail.

Things haven't been going on just right down at Bandon according to the Agitator. Recently a married woman was seen spooning with a man.

When smallpox broke out at the pen, did it get out, that's the question.

In Justice to Albany, Or., it should be stated that Boss Barnes is a resident of Albany, N. Y.

Ford and Overland met in a fierce combat at Roseburg. Ford's eyes were mashed and Overland's props put out of commission.
