CONTEST IS NOW ON FOR ROSE CARNIVAL QUEEN

Albany to Be Represented in Contest By Fair Young Lady Selected Today.

Mrs. Anita Valentine, of the Rose Festival department, of Portland, arrived in the city yesterday and immediately began making arrangements for this city to enter a candidate in the contest for queen of the festival which is to be held in Portland in June. Out of Portland candidates will stand just as much show of election as those in the metropolis, where the voting will be more divided.

A committee of 12, composed of L. M. Curl, D. B. McKnight, R. M. Russell, C. W. Boettcher, W. H. Lee, E. D. Casick, Dr. C. V. Littler, A. C. Schmitt, Mrs. W. H. Davis, Mrs. L. E. Hamilton and Mrs. R. L. Burkhart, met in Mayor Curl's office at 3 o'clock this afternoon for the purpose of choosing a candidate for the endorsement of the Commercial club to represent this city. There was a petition being circulated which had many signatures, asking that Miss Helen Hulbert be appointed.

In the local papers will be a coupon for the next few days which will count in voting. Also votes will be placed on sale in a short time and can be purchased. The contest is now open and closes May 19th.

Miss Helen Hulbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hulbert, and representing Albany College, was nominated by the committee.

CITY NEWS

Piper to Speak—The presidents of the Albany Retail Association, the Library Board and the Commercial club met this afternoon and decided to extend an invitation to Edgar B. Piper, managing editor of the Portland Oregonian, to deliver an address on "Preparedness," in one of the local churches next Wednesday evening, April 5th.

For Rose Festival Queen—College students today circulated a petition that was generally signed, asking for the appointment of Miss Helen Hulbert as the Albany candidate for queen of the Rose Festival, with prospects of her selection, a good one.

Was Forty—The Democrat yesterday neglected to mention that it was the fortieth birthday of a prominent Albany banker.

Another Candidate—W. E. Chrisman, of Scio, yesterday filed his petition for county commissioner to run for nomination in the Republican primaries.

What He Saw—On his trip around the world, Dr. J. L. Hill saw some things of interest to everyone. He will tell of "Some things he saw in Egypt" tomorrow evening at the Christian church. Admission free.

Ten Cent Tea—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church will hold a 10 cent tea tomorrow afternoon. The ladies of all the other churches in the city are invited. A program will be given and there will be plenty of good things to eat. An enjoyable social afternoon is promised.

COLOR OF SEA WATER.

From Tropical Azures to the Vivid Greens Near the Poles.

Why is the ocean blue? Reflection of the sky, you say. This accounts for some of the color, but not all. It is well known that the tint varies greatly in different localities. Persons taking sea water baths on ocean liners are always surprised by the very noticeable color of their morning tubs.

Color in sea water is largely a matter of saltiness and density. In the tropics the tremendous evaporation induced by the blazing sun causes the water to be much saltier than in higher latitudes. For many miles north and south of the equator the water of the world's oceans is a deep blue which fades and changes to green the further one goes toward the poles. In the Arctic and Antarctic oceans the greens are almost as vivid as the tropical azures. China's Yellow sea derives its color partly from the muddy water poured in by its great rivers and partly from small organisms which exist there in numbers which exceed the 120,000,000 living creatures to the square mile found on the average.

The question of salt in water brings up our old friend the Dead sea, which contains 23 per cent of solid matter and, bulk for bulk, is heavier than the human body. Many believe, even in Jerusalem, that bathing in this famous body of water is harmful and swimming impossible. This is not the fact. The chloride of magnesium in the water possesses medicinal qualities if it is not permitted to get into the eyes. It is true that the density of the water renders fast progress in swimming difficult, but the impossibility of sinking more than makes up for it.—Agwi News.

Women and the Arts.

I believe that woman loves the arts better than does man. She is better ground for the development of a great artist, for she approaches art with sympathy, while the great bulk of men approach it with fear and dislike, shrinking from the idea that it may distort their self complacency. The prejudice goes so far that, while women are attracted to artists as lovers, men are generally afraid of women who practice the arts or they dislike them. It is not a question of sex; it is a question of art.—W. L. George in Atlantic.

The Mixture in Havana.

"Havana has just the right mixture of old and new," said one traveler. "I like medieval forts and sixteenth century cathedrals as well as anybody, but when night comes around it is pleasant to return to a cool, up to date hotel, enjoy a well cooked supper and spend the evening walking on the electrically lighted Prado, dancing at the Plaza or listening to the music of the roof garden movies."—New York Post.

Opie Read Next Week

Opie Read, great lecturer, literary genius, is to be in Albany April 4, a day ahead of the time first set. He will give one of his popular lectures, all of which are gems. Some of them are Negro Whims, Big Bill and Little Bill, and Shooting Out the Moon. It ought to take a big hall for Opie Read.

THE GAY STATESMAN.

A Tribute to the Versatile Genius of Alexander Hamilton.

Because no man can live exclusively to himself either for good or evil, with every mention of Burr's name the figure of Hamilton rises, an avenging ghost. Even before that precocious young native of the West Indies walked into our military history at Princeton, a lad only nineteen, lost in thought, a cocked hat pulled down over his eyes while his hand rested upon a cannon that he patted absentmindedly as if it were a favorite horse, he had done valiant work for American liberty with his pen. From the time he touched our shores to the July morning more than thirty years later when Burr's bullet laid him low he was a force to be reckoned with.

And his was one of those natures, keenly alive on many sides, whose astonishing maturity of intellect did not snuff out the zest of life. He became "my boy" to Washington very early in his service, worked willingly at headquarters day in and day out with a sober application equal to Washington's own, yet contrived to snatch from such never ending drudgery youth's dear and fleeting joys. He brought gaiety even to Washington's mess table, courted black eyed Elizabeth Schuyler under the muzzles of British aims and in the years of their married life together managed with all his prodigious labors to bend social graces as well as the solid qualities of his mind to enriching their days and nights.

Besides being a great statesman, he was "an enjoying gentleman." To use the quaint old phrase, Talleyrand, corrupt and appreciative, looked upon him with amusement. "Il avait divine l'Europe," he said, which, from a European of that day, about an American was near the highest praise. Hamilton's management of the treasury, without breath of scandal or self seeking, filled the Frenchman with even greater astonishment. "I have beheld one of the wonders of the world," he exclaimed—"a man who has made a nation rich laboring all night to provide his family with bread."—Helen Nicolay in Century.
