MOVIE FLICKERS.
And News of the Local Photo Play Houses.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" brought the highest gross receipts of any photoplay that has ever appeared in Albany. Nearly 1800 people saw the production, which is truly a remarkable spectacle.

Now we are ready for "The Birth of a Nation" so that we may make a comparison ourselves.

Marguerite Snow, the Metro star, last seen in "A Corner in Cotton" and "The Upstart," has been making a personal appearance at from four to five theatres in New York every night. In several instances the police were called out to rescue her from an enthusiastic crowd of admirers.

When will Albany get a chance to see Billie Burke in "Peggy," the play that we are hearing so much about just now? Portland, Pendleton, Eugene and now Salem have seen it and pronounced it fine.

Rupert Hughes' Pullman car pleasure in five sections, "Excuse Me" is the Globe attraction for Friday.

J. Warren Kerrigan, Universal's handsomest man, appears at the Hub Wednesday and Thursday in "Pools of Flame."

Charlie Chaplin will soon be seen here on the regular Mutual program. He is now at work near Los Angeles on his $250,000 job, in which he is to appear in one two-reel comedy a month.

Also the new Metro-Drew one reel comedies will be coming in the near future.

The Hub has booked a fine service in the World-Equitable Corporation, which will show here on Sundays and Mondays starting April 2. Some of the world's greatest talent appears in the casts of these plays.

Carter and Flora Parker De Haven are the stars appearing in the Bluebird feature, "The Wrong Door," at the Globe Wednesday and Thursday.

After an absence of a long stretch of weeks Theda Bara comes back to Albany, commencing Friday, in "The Serpent," a play said to excel even "A Fool There Was."

As a vampire Theda Bara stands at the head of the list. It is pleasing to know, however, that in real life she is of the very opposite disposition and nature.

What'll be surprised to see Paramount films shown in Albany some of these days. Certainly are fine productions.

"Damaged Goods," the sociological play of the same name written by the famous French author, Eugene Brieux, will probably appear in this city the second week in April with Richard Bennett, who first put the play on the spoken stage, heading a strong cast.

Butter, butter, who's got "The Birth of a Nation" just at which theatre is it going to play?

"Along the Deschutes River," is the subject of one of the Pathe "Picturesque America" series. They can sure get good scenery in Oregon.

Among forthcoming Fox Feature releases is Hal Caine's great play, "The Bondsman," in which William Farnum, the $100,000 star is featured with Dorothy Bernard.

"Pools of Flame."
If you have read any of Louis Joseph Vance's Tellhene O'Rourke stories you have some idea of the play, "Pools of Flame," at the Hub Theatre tonight and Thursday. Terrence O'Rourke, the handsome, witty, always ready Irishman is portrayed by the handsome actor, J. Warren Kerrigan, and the role of the Indian princess is taken by Lois Wilson, one of Universal's prettiest. The play is not, as the name might suggest, a fire, blood and thunder story, but a mystery and love drama, the plot of which is woven about the famous ruby which is called "The Pool of Flame."

Liverpool, March 29.—Ten thousand dockmen struck over a dispute in reference to overtime pay. Trans-Atlantic shipping is threatened.

Allies to Strike in July.

(By United Press)

London, March 29.—In July the allies will strike simultaneously everywhere, in attempting to force the Kaiser to his knees and end the war by Christmas, it is reported as a result of the war council at Paris. The Germans may anticipate them. It is reported they have taken advantage of the lull at Verdun to shift their forces on the offensive elsewhere.

The Wrong Door

"THE WRONG DOOR" was opened by Carter De Haven in the film story which will be revealed at this theatre tonight in Bluebird Photoplays. The exciting consequences incident upon entering an apartment house instead of a Turkish bath constitutes one of the most sensational films of the season. "The Wrong Door" is a mystifying play filled with unexpected developments, coming in rapid sequence, and constituting a rivetly woven chain of intense interest containing many sensational features.
