HOME PHONE CO. TRYING TO HAVE RATES RAISED

Appeals to Public Service Com. to Make Pacific States Raise Rates.

Asserting that the defendants' rates in Albany are inadequate and unreasonable in that they are not sufficient to pay the necessary expense of operation and maintenance and economically conducted to provide for depreciation and pay a reasonable or any return on money invested, the Home Telephone and Telegraph company filed a complaint with the state public service commission today against the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and ask that an order putting into effect reasonable and adequate rates be made.

The Home company asserts that it would be impossible under the charges made for telephone service in Albany for the Pacific company to operate if the business in that city was not supported from other sources.

The Home company also says that it will be impossible for it to advance its rates to a reasonable figure unless the Pacific is forced to act.

FULL OF MEXICANS.

Fifteen Hundred Mexicans Live in City of Antonio, Texas, Opposing Forces.

It is an interesting fact that San Antonio, Texas, is the headquarters for a crowd of prominent Mexicans, presenting an interesting feature to the situation of a very striking character. For three years it has come pretty close to being the capital of Mexico. There the juntas of the Carranza and Villa forces have plotted and intrigued. From San Antonio most of the financial aid so desperately needed by both sides at various times in the ups and downs of their fortunes has been negotiated and from there munitions have been bought and supplies forwarded.

Today there are over fifteen hundred prominent and formerly wealthy Mexicans living in San Antonio. Every one of them is vitally interested in the success of either Carranza or Villa. Many of them are men who in the last few years have held the highest official positions in one or the other of the shifting governments that have held temporary sway over the southern republic, or parts of it.

Four cabinet ministers of the old Huerta regime, the most prominent being Manuel Garza Aldape, ex-minister of agriculture and Ricardo Gomez Robelo, attorney general for Huerta and the man who guided the old Indian warrior in the tortuous legal phases of his conflict with President Wilson.

Closely associated with them is Salome Botella, ex-governor of the state of Nuevo Leon under Huerta. This group is now reputed to be interested in Villa's campaign.

The Mexican Catholic church is represented by four archbishops and about thirty bishops who have been driven out of Mexico by the various warring factions. With them are a large number of priests who also were compelled to flee from the country.

Then there is a sprinkling of adherents of the ex-cultist Felix Diaz, who always has a revolution ripe for picking if he can secure support; and also there are some supporters of Zapata.

The interests of Carranza are officially administered by Teodilo R. Beltran, Mexican consul general for the south western United States.

Connected with his office in an official but very important capacity is Sam Belden, a San Antonio attorney, who has a title of chief advisor of the consulate. Belden is reputed to be close to Carranza and one of the men who in dealings with the United States government the First Chief is first to turn to for advice.

There are seven Mexican newspapers published in San Antonio to serve the needs of the forty odd thousand native Mexicans who live in and about the city. All are bitterly partisan in backing their factional interests and several have very fair circulations.

SECONDHAND GLASS.

Interesting Methods of a Business That Is Quite Extensive.

The salvage glass industry is of such importance and extent that many dealers in secondhand glass specialize in one branch or another. Some, for instance, handle only plate glass that comes to them by reason of the demolition of old buildings, razed to make place for new structures. Salvage glass of this sort brings prices not far below those of new glass.

A considerable quantity of the salvage glass dealer's stock emanates from the plate glass insurance companies. The methods of these companies in taking over glass vary. One concern may keep no stock on hand, simply buying whatever is required to replace a broken pane, enough remains to be sold to the salvage dealer. Sometimes a company will have a warehouse of its own, to which it will remove broken glass that may still be in condition to use. Frequently it will happen that only one corner has been broken from a large pane and that this may be cut down to fit a smaller window.

Most plate glass is insured, but there is much that is not. In the case of an uninsured plate that is broken the owner must, of course, go to a dealer for a new plate. He will sell the broken plate to the salvage dealer. It follows therefore that from insurance companies, from building wreckers and from owners of uninsured glass the salvage glass dealers accumulate great quantities of secondhand plate glass. Much of this is in such a condition that it may be reset anywhere. Should the injury consist, for instance, of simply a deep scratch in the center it is easy to make that plate salable. The secondhand dealer cuts out a strip containing the scratch and thus have left two smaller plates, quite suitable for smaller windows.

When injured plate glass is too much scratched to be available for windows it is sometimes made into ground or frosted glass for office partitions or doors. Salvage plate glass too small for use in windows is employed for the glass doors of refrigerators, and larger pieces are utilized in the making of glass table tops. Small fragments go to the making of hand mirrors, although only clear pieces may be so employed. Other pieces, too small for other purposes, enter into the manufacture of glass signs.

Eventually, when the last piece of unworkable glass has been cut from the damaged piece, there remain the scraps and fragments accumulated in the cutting. Even these have their uses, although they do not bring much. They are melted and used in the manufacture of bottles.—Washington Star.

Men Who Fear Opportunity.
In the American Magazine Hugh S. Fullerton says:
"Thousands of us who are making fairly comfortable livings for families pass plain turning points, refusing to turn or to attack the opening, through sheer timidity. There is no class so thick as the man with a family, who refuses to change because he fears he will risk the small sum he has accumulated to educate the children and provide for the family in case of his death. Ninety-nine out of a hundred men in this class keep straight ahead when they see a turning point clearly."
