CITY NEWS

Woodmen to Elect Delegate—

The Woodmen of the World this evening will elect a delegate to the District Convention at Newport, which will be held during the summer. All members are requested to be present.

Grand Council at Corvallis—

The 35th annual assembly of the grand council of Royal and Select Master Masons will be held at Corvallis on the 12th, beginning at one o'clock. An old-fashioned chicken pie dinner will be served at 6 p. m. In the evening the Super-Excellent Masters degree will be given at the Crystal theatre, specially leased for the purpose. W. E. Larraway, of Hood River, is the Most Illustrious Grand Master, and W. R. Blyen of Albany, Illustrious Deputy Grand Master.

Roses in Bloom—

The editor of the Democrat today has been somewhat conspicuous with a fine white rose, from the yard of Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart, of East Albany. Mrs. Stuart has been having roses for over a week, before the Portland papers began boasting of having them in that city.

Odd Caller—

There was an odd caller this morning at the home of the editor of the Democrat. It was a young owl that flew into a bedroom window and made himself at home. He had been heard hooting in a tree nearby for several nights, and evidently thought it about time to follow up his talk with a personal call.

FREE MUSICAL AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO-NIGHT

The following musical program will be rendered at the Christian church tonight, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock. The public cordially invited. No charge for admission and no offering taken.

Piano and organ duet—"Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana"—Mrs. Meyers and Mrs. Watson.

Duet—"I Live and Love Thee," and "The Rose in the Bud,"—Mrs. Chas. Essex.

Solo—"Merry Maiden Spring" and "An April Girl,"—Mrs. W. H. Davis.

Duet—"A Rose and a Lily," and "The Rosary,"—Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Watson.

Solo—"Absent" and "Slumber Sea"—Mrs. M. H. Fagan.

Solo—"O Heart of Mine" and "My Spanish Rose,"—Miss Floy Filer.

Solo—"Now Welcome My Wood" and "The Lotus Flower,"

Following the program a twenty-five cent plate supper will be served in the basement of the church. There will also be an apron booth, a handkerchief booth, a candy booth, and a peanut and popcorn booth. Proceeds in aid of the piano fund.

THRILLING ROMANCE IN NEORA BY GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

How would you feel to be sailing away with the girl you love and were about to claim her for your wife when—crash!—your ship is caught in a typhoon, dashed to pieces on the rocks and you struggle in the darkness to save a girl you think your own, only to find yourself on a tropical island with an entirely different one. How do you think you would feel about it?

This is the basis of George Barr M'CUTCHEON's great story "Neora," which opens at the Globe theatre to-night for a two days run. In the principal roles are featured George Robert, Fania Marinoff and Margaret Greene.

Harrassed by their friends, Grace Vernon and Hugh Ridgeway decide to elope, and after thrilling escape in the night, a race for the steamship and boarding it in the ocean Hugh finds that Grace is greatly interested in another man on board, and that Lady Tenny is very much interested in himself. After the wreck and life among the cannibals on the island of Neora they are rescued just as the natives are about to force them to wed. Upon his reaching Grace's home he finds that she is married to Veatch and he also finds that he doesn't care a bit, and that he cares a great deal for someone else. So he makes another rush for Lady Tenny. For romance, M'CUTCHEON's stories are hard to beat.

BRILLIANT EMOTIONAL ACTING IN "THE RULING PASSION"

Photographed amid the tropical surroundings in the island of Jamaica, "The Ruling Passion," in which Wm. E. Shay and Claire Whitney are featured at the Rolfe theatre tonight, is one of the best efforts of the Wm. Fox corporation, and certainly does credit to that great director, Herbert Brenon, who has produced so many fine things for the Fox studios. Both Miss Whitney and Mr. Shay are well known to Albany people, for they have been seen here many times in the past.

"The Ruling Passion" tells the story of a little orphan girl, whose mother died in London slums, leaving as her only heritage the admonition to lead a straight life. Taken to India to live with an aunt she meets, and soon marries a young army officer. After a misunderstanding and reconciliation their lives run smoothly until Claire falls under the influence of Prince Ranjit Singh, a wealthy Indian potentate, who has a queer influence over both black and white women. Naturally this leads to further trouble, and the young husband finally leaves his home, his wife going to the

JOKING ABOUT ALBANY.

Corvallis Gazette-Times Has Some Fun Over Names of Albany Clubs.

G-T: The theatres were running in Albany Sunday which accounts for a large number of Corvallis people going over. The injunction against the Sunday closing law is making Albany a live Sunday town.

And the Lafalot club of Albany is probably tickled to death over it.

And we wonder if the Lafalot Club will line up for LaFollette on the ground of relationship.

Speaking of Albany clubs, there is also the Pax Tong and the Neous Numphe, sound like a Chinese laundry don't they, and the Liberty. When Albany got around to naming her clubs the regular names had been all used up. The Liberty Club is probably behind the movement to circumvent the Sunday closing law, and the Pax Tong to bring peace to the warring Chinese factions.

RARE MUSICAL TREAT.

Madame Foy, Grand Opera Soprano, to Appear for Benefit of Rose Festival Queen.

Madame Leonore Gordon Foy, one of the greatest grand opera sopranos, will sing before a local audience Wednesday night for the benefit of the Rose Carnival Queen.

Madame Foy, who is the guest of Mrs. Anna Hunt, has very kindly consented to give Albany the opportunity of enjoying her work. She is one of the most prominent grand opera vocalists in the country. Among her numerous musical successes, her best work has been with the Royal Opera of Berlin, National Opera of Paris and at the Manhattan Opera of New York City.

The fact that she is an American makes her many successes abroad the more pleasing to music lovers.

She has also appeared with the Walter Damrosch Symphony orchestra of New York.

BANNER EGG STORY.

Cottage Grove Has Hen That Lays Egg in a Mustard Bottle.

Cottage Grove Sentinel: Talking of egg stories, Mrs. Hamilton Veatch has the banner yarn. Some time ago she left an empty mustard bottle standing in the chicken house and some time later she found an egg in it. The throat was just barely large enough to admit the egg and she is still puzzled as to how the hen got the egg in there. She thinks no sane hen would use the top of a bottle for a nest, even if it could, and a biddy would have to be something of an acrobat to maintain a position on top of a bottle while laying an egg.

Gift to Library—

Dr. A. P. Howells has given to the Public Library a three years' subscription to the American Medical Journal, a weekly publication, and J. G. Crawford has donated the Oregon Historical Quarterly. The short story hour Friday at 4 o'clock will be on the subject of birds. Miss Mann will have charge of the class.

Advertised Letters.

The following advertised letters remain uncalled for in the Albany p. o. April 6: Mr. Joe Clifford, Mrs. Delia Holmes, Mrs. John Holloway, Mrs. H. L. Leidy, Miss Verma Puntene, C. H. STEWART.

harem of the brutal, fascinating prince. Here the dramatic climax is brought to a point and furnishes the opportunity for some of the best emotional acting seen on local screens. Both Miss Whitney and Mr. Shay's reputations bear out the belief that they acquit themselves creditably in these scenes and advance reports from other cities corroborate the statement.
