

SEMI-ELASTIC BANDLETS

The bandlets, inside the corset are concealed, and by a novel form of lacing they can be quickly adjusted to fit the figure.

This easy adjustment of the bandlets uplifts the abdomen and its vital organs, and holds them in normal position, preventing and curing ills.

No. 322—This is a Nemo self-reducing corset, for average full figures. It was designed for women who desire a moderate degree of abdominal support, and a high degree of figure reduction. Made of white coutil. Price $3.50

No. 330—The model illustrated is a Nemo, self-reducing corset. The material is white coutil, it has embroidery trimming, six host supporters and body training military belt. A splendid model for medium figures. Price $3.50

No. 556—This model is for slender to medium figures. The new semi-elastic bandlets reduce the figure without compression. The excess fat is reduced. Price $5.00

No. 554—If you have a short, stout figure this Nemo will be just right. It has the wonderful bandlets and many other good features. Price $5.00

A regular fitting room is maintained in our corset department. A graduate corsetier services are free to customers. Be fitted correctly.

DEATH OF PIONEER WOMAN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hale, at Sodaville, a Resident of Albany for Many Years.

Elizabeth Hale, who died recently at Sodaville, was a resident of Albany for many years, mother of Mrs. Frank W. Watson, of South Albany. The following sketch of her life is given by the Lebanon Express-Advance:

Elizabeth Hale (nee Grady), was born in Indiana July 3, 1834, being 81 years, 9 months and 24 days old. She was married to Andrew Hale April 21st, 1850. To this union were born six children preceding her to the world beyond. She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters—Mrs. Nora Hill of Sodaville, Oregon, with whom she made her home, Mrs. Alice Streitel of Big Eddy, eastern Oregon; Mrs. Amy Watson of Albany, a granddaughter Mrs. Vivian King and great grand son, Richard King, of Sodaville, besides a host of friends and neighbors.

Grandma Hale was a pioneer, crossing the plain with her husband by ox team in 1852, and enduring many hardships of pioneer life without complaint.

She was converted in early Presbyterian church of Albany 22 years ago. She and Mrs. Hill moved to Sodaville six years ago. Three years after she united with the United Evangelical church of Sodaville, to which she remained loyal to the end. Grandma Hale was a woman of unusual piety and honor. She was one of the most agreeable persons it has ever been our pleasure to meet. She was never too busy to stop and shake hands and be friendly. She was courteous to one and all alike, loving all she knew, and receiving love and honor in return from those she met day after day.

SOCIALISTS TO HAVE TICKET.

Will Hold County Convention July 15 and Name Entire County Ticket.

Lebanon E. A. The Albany Socialist local, Harlan Talbert organizer, is behind a movement to put new life into the Socialist party in Linn county.

In a letter to members of the party in this county, the local says in part: "We lost our state representation as a political party last election. We must work hard to poll the necessary 5 per cent at the coming election and regain our standing. We need 12,000 names. Our state convention was held April 1 at Portland and a state ticket was nominated and the platform will soon be ready for distribution. It is necessary to hold a county convention soon and only party members are eligible for nomination. We suggest that the convention be held July 4 and make it a gala-day gathering of the comrades, their families and friends."

Market Report, Portland Union Stock Yards Co.

Cattle—The market opened for the week rather slow. As usual pulp fed steers brought $9. No change in the rate on grain fed stock. Cows, heifers and bulls were very scarce, although there was no change in prices. The first California grass stuff arrived today. Calf receipts are continually increasing and prices are very good.

Hogs—Receipts were fairly good. The bulk of sales were made at $9 and $9.05, some of the choicest bringing $9.15 and $9.20. The market closed strong.

Sheep—Sheep are beginning to move a little more freely, although the receipts were only 300 head. All classes are in great demand and top prices are still being realized.

Western Oil Wins on Duncan Hill.

One of the most significant features connected with the sensational Duncan street hill-climbing contest pulled off in San Francisco recently, and the feature that probably means most to Pacific Coast motorists, said T. G. Sudell, special agent of the Standard Oil company, is the fact that, with few exceptions, the cars that successfully negotiated that now famous fifty per cent grade, had their crank-cases filled with oil made from western asphalt-base crude.

"Every prospective car buyer in that neck of the woods had his eye on the machines that went out to conquer Duncan Hill. And no one was more awake to the fact than were the motor car dealers themselves.

"So, when they saw to it that their test cars were filled with Western Oil, there was a great deal more back of it than any mere feeling of loyalty to home industry. One dealer is reported as having said 'any inferior oil would have proved disastrous.' Evidently most of them considered western oil as the best bet."

The Race With the Ram.

In Morocco the strange season of the Mohammedan new year, beginning March 9, is generally called "Al-el-Hanwela," the rain feast. The people of Morocco pay more elaborate attention to the item of sacrifice than any other Moslems. In every town a supreme offering of a ram or he goat takes place at the door of the principal mosque. Immediately after it is struck by the official imam in presence of the multitude it is flung on the shoulders of a stalwart Moor, who, exerting his utmost strength, runs like a deer through the narrow streets, pursued by a rabble. The poor animal is pelted with stones by boys and is leered at with execrations from every house, as it is reputed to be carrying the sins of the people. The man rushes along with his burden till he reaches the door of the café's palace. If the animal is still breathing the augury is excellent, for good luck is to be expected all through the year. But if the ram is dead all sorts of evil prognostications are muttered.

Not Such a Fool.

"Here's a strange case," said Mrs. Spotter to her husband. "A man they called the town fool died, and they weighed his brain. It was heavier than the average."

"Is that all it says about him?"

"Yes—except that he was for many years entirely dependent on well to do relatives."

"Hub, he was no fool! If you have well to do relatives, why use your brains?"—Judge.

The Secret of Success.

"There has been altogether too much talk about the secret of success," says Dr. Russell H. Conwell in the American Magazine. "Success has no secret."

Her voice is forever ringing through the market place and crying in the wilderness, and the burden of her cry is one word—will. Any normal young man who hears and heeds that cry is equipped fully to climb to the very heights of life."

Sure of It.

"Did you post that letter I gave you this morning, John?"

"Yes, love."

"Are you quite sure?"

"Absolutely, my dear. I remember particularly I forgot to put a stamp on it."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

New Adaptation.

Young Husband (angrily)—I want you to understand that I intend to be master in my own home, and I don't want any back talk from you about it.

Young Wife (wearily)—Why, dear, that's just like the rows father used to make.—Baltimore American
