LIBRARY NOTES

Next Sunday is Mothers' Day. On Friday at 4 o'clock there will be a Mothers' hour in the library.

Dr. W. H. Davis, the county health officer, will talk on the mother and physician. Mrs. Wallace H. Lee will suggest methods of interesting children in good books. The librarian will interest the mothers in the wealth of magazine literature and books for young mothers available on the library shelves. Opportunity for discussion will be given. Let every mother plan to attend.

Miss L. Woodin, instead of Mrs. A. H. Martin, was the donor of the 21 volumes mentioned in last "notes." The librarian rejoices over the aid given by Mrs. A. S. Hart in collecting clippings of a literary and historical interest for the Oregoniana. Her intelligent discrimination enables her to assist in a valuable manner and future "Research Workers" will rise up and call her blessed.

A lady of the library board strongly ly recommends Jean Webster's Dear Enemy for its suggestions as to sanitary methods of training children, encouragement for adopting homeless little ones, power of heredity and its wholesome sunny philosophy of life.

Who will cheer the children's room with some beautiful potted plants or palms?

A shelf of flags of all nations can be studied in the exhibit case.

One of the new books, "Good Stories for Holidays" is filling a need and in great demand.

At last, thanks to the Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, the library rejoices in the valuable Biographical Edition of the works of James Whitcomb Riley and the "Gold Gated West"—Poems by Samuel Simpson.

From La Grande—

Mrs. Carrie Ward Neal, of La Grande is here on a visit at the home of her father in the country, and brother, Fred Ward, of this city.

A new combine in the motion picture business has been made public. The Triangle, Famous Players, and the Jessie Lasky Co. have joined forces and will produce even a higher grade of pictures than the splendid things heretofore turned out.

Flickers acknowledges receipt of Motion Picture Magazine published at 175 Duffield St., Brooklyn, N. Y. This issue catches the eye from the front cover, with a beautiful color portrait of Ruth Roland, and holds the attention throughout. The June issue contains some fine pictures of noted movie stars, several stories of scenarios, and articles on the motion picture trade. It is attractive and well arranged. No person can be a good movie fan unless he or she takes a good movie magazine, and one is surprised how much interest he has in the business when he looks through the various books.

"The Precious Packet" is the title of the Pathe feature starring Lois Meredith and Ralph Kellard at the Globe Friday and Saturday.

Billie Burke's new play, a serial, "Gloria's Romance" will be shown in Portland May 15.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG.

Supported by Wilton Lackaye. Will Be Seen in Famous Play Tomorrow.

Patrons of the Hub Thursday and Friday will have their first opportunity of seeing the screen version of George Du Maurier's famous book and play, "Trilby," as produced by the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation, under the able direction of Maurice Tourneur, with the screen and stage's foremost dramatic stars, Clara Kimball Young and Wilton Lackaye, in the stellar roles.

"Trilby" is in five acts and over two hundred and fifty scenes.

To Settle Title.

A suit was filed in the circuit court today by John Daley and Maggie Sullivan, as guardian of Cornelius H. Sullivan, against Mable Trivith to settle ownership of 188.47 acres of land in this county. It is alleged by the plaintiff that C. Sullivan was the owner of this property and that he sold a one-half interest in the land to H. Trivith and that the latter secured a deed to all of the land through an error. The principals of the transaction are both dead and their heirs have carried the matter into the courts for settlement. Weatherford and Weatherford are attorneys.—Salem Journal.

THEODA BARA TAKES NEW ROLE IN "THE GALLEY SLAVE"

Theoda Bara, Always a favorite in Albany, will be the attraction at the Rolfe today and Thursday in Bartley Campbell's latest success, "The Galley Slave," a William Fox production. In this play Miss Bara does justice to herself as the actress, she is known to be. Her role is not that of a vampire, exactly, and is new to Albany theatre goers.

The story revolves about Francesca Barabaut, who was the wife of a poor painter, but when the latter became rich through inheriting a title, he leaves his wife and home. Francesca is so poor that she is forced to steal to support her child.

A party of Americans, doing the continent meet Sydney Nortcut, an English artist, who falls in love with Cicily Blaine, the American heiress. The Baron Barabaut also loves Cicily, who repulses him. But he awaits his turn. Through a misunderstanding, and from revenge, Cicily marries the baron, which causes several things to happen. The results of the tangle give an excellent opportunity to display the powers of Miss Bara.

In the cast are also Stuart Holmes, Claire Whitney and little Jane Lee, the wonderful child actress.

"TANGLED HEARTS" IS BLUE BIRD GLOBE FEATURE TODAY

"Tangled Hearts," the latest Bluebird release, has an interesting story to tell, which treats of friendship from a new and very unusual point of view. The cast is a splendid one. In the stellar role is the new star, Louise Lovely. In the role of a rich young widow, she wears some remarkable creations and looks her best, which is simply radiant. She is supported by two other beauties, Agnes Vernon and Marjorie Ellison. Among the male characters are Lon Chaney, in the principal role, with Hayward Mackey and Jay Belasco in important roles. Little Georgia French does wonders with an appealing child part, which is most important to the plot. "Tangled Hearts" is the first Blue Bird play to be shown at the Globe for more than two weeks, and this excellent drama will be welcomed.
