DOWN IN MEXICO.

Occasionally a person is heard to growl because the U. S. has not captured Villa and numerous other things down in Mexico. As a matter of fact the government has done all it could do. It made prompt effort to get Villa, but he escaped, and the chances were decidedly that he would escape, familiar as he was with the country. Then another raid came, and some wanted the bandits punished before they were captured, which is impossible. The Mexicans are a bush-whacking lot of people, and fight from a sneaking standpoint, so it can be expected that the U. S. will not have an easy time settling matters with them; but it is doing as well as anyone has a right to expect under such circumstances, and in the end will produce a change in the situation that will work for the good of the country.

PRE-ELECTION PROMISES.

One would think to read the promises of candidates for the legislature that the next session will be the most economical in the history of the state; but wait and see. Previous to the past legislatures the same promises were made, followed by enough broken promises to look like a junk pile. It will be so again unless men are sent to Salem with reputations absolutely established. One would think that all the commissions going will be abolished, but it is just as likely that more will be established, and depend upon it, there will be efforts made to secure more.

Men from all over the state will be present with bills making big appropriations for their part of the state, and, in order to get them through will support like bills from other parts. It has always been so, and probably will be this time, unless fearless men are sent, who are not professional back scratchers. It takes a whole lot of sand to make a first-class law maker in the interest of the people. Oregon wants improvements, but it wants only those that it is the business of the state to promote, and not those that are merely sentiments.

GOOD AND BAD.

There may be a good many villains in real life, but when it comes to moving picture shows the average person fakes a story full of good will and sweetness, for instance like Peggy, so that when it is done a good taste is left in the brain, and one doesn't go home feeling that things are awry. In reality there are a good many divorces and broken up families, but it is a good deal better to portray other things, as a rule in the shows. It takes a little of the sensational once in awhile to satisfy some people, and the sensational often draws; but what's finer than harmony and pleasant surroundings, with good deeds and an end with the proper settings. While realizing this we must appreciate that there must be variety. The big point in the future is, above it all, to secure clean films, whose influence will be good, and not bad, ones devoid of coarseness and sensuality, with a sentiment that shall help and not retard.

MISFITS

Some of the movie plots are simply rotten. In one recently a man, a regular rake, succeeded in separating a man and his wife, and she ran off with him. After awhile he got tired of her and having made a stake at gambling, left her and returned to N. Y., where he met the daughter of his wife, by her first husband, and, not knowing her identity, fell in love with her, and was about to marry her when his wife appeared and he jumped into an auto and ran over a precipice. Could anything be more demoralizing.

Fortunately many are not like that; but there are too many in which families are broken up.

Unless you are an experienced judge of whiskey do not buy at random and take chances, declares a San Francisco liquor house to the Misfits man, in a letter in which the Oregon law is enclosed. We admit candidly we are not experienced, never having tasted liquor of any kind.
