SIX GENERATIONS PICTURED

Albany Family Has Half a Dozen Generations Living, a Remarkable Fact.

The Sunday Oregonian gave a picture of the Hogue family of this city, representing six generations, though as a matter of fact, only five generations in direct line are alive. They are Mrs. Jane Hogue, aged 91 years, a sister of the father of Mr. Hogue, father of Mrs. W. M. Powers, aged 79 years, who is mother of Mrs. H. B. Sprenger, aged 61 years, who is mother of Mrs. C. E. Powers, of this city, aged 41 years, who is mother of Mrs. Lenna Cornett, of Shedd, aged 21 years, who is mother of Helen Cornett, aged 9 months. The record is certainly a remarkable one.

While speaking in Oregon he will make an aggressive campaign for M. V. Weatherford for congress.

LEARN TO DECIDE QUICKLY.

It May Often Prove to Be a Great Help in Business Matters.

In the American Magazine is the story of a successful business man who attributes his success largely to his faculty for making quick decisions. "Once decided, you ought not to waste time. If a man decides rightly then he has a running start on rivals who hesitate. If he decides wrongly then he has discovered his blunder, backed up and is ready to start on even terms with the hesitating rival, for a man of decision can decide he is wrong as quickly as he can decide he is right. Also, in a great number of cases, the man who decides quickly may fall to decide the best way and still carry it through to success and even convince others he was right all the time. This has happened to me many times in cases where there were a number of ways in which a thing might be done.

"While we blunder inevitably I believe our batting average is higher than that of timid ones, and the rewards much greater. I do not think I have erred in 15 per cent of my decisions in business, and not in 5 per cent seriously.

"The great advantage of quick decision lies in the larger rewards that come to those who are bold, for it is bold to decide vital matters quickly. The timid and the hesitating get small profits."

THE PILOT FISH.

He's Just a Common Beggar and Not a Guide For the Shark.

People who named this fish believed he served as guide and pilot, whereas he is nothing more than a beggar. Because he is usually found swimming ahead of a shark people used to think he was serving as a sentry to warn the shark when danger approached. Now we know he is lingering around for crumbs of food he can beg or pick up from the shark, yet the old name sticks, and he's called the pilot fish.

There is another old story to the effect that the pilot fish warned sailors when their ships were nearing the rocks, and for that reason the fish was held sacred by the ancients. They thought the fish suddenly disappeared when the ship was approaching land, thereby giving the warning.

The shark phase of the story was that the pilot fish accompanied the shark continually, and when the shark was about to take a fisherman's hook the pilot went through such contortions that the shark was warned to leave the bait alone.

So instead of standing guard as a sentry the pilot fish keeps company with the shark to pick up the fragments of food which the larger fish ignores. —Philadelphia North American.

A Warning.

"What are you doing in my room?" asked the man who was awakened by a burglar.

"I'm robbing the place."

"You merely think you are. Everything here was bought on the installment plan, and if you take the property you'll be responsible for the balance. You're not robbing anybody. You're running into debt."—Washington Star

Passion Play Christ's Fate.

Persistent rumors from Germany fall to substantiate the one that Anton Lang, the famous Christus of the Passion Play at Oberammergau, has been killed in the fighting in Champagne. Lang, who is a potter by trade, was reported several months ago as having yet failed to join the German army, but as preparing for Red Cross work.

What is an Editor?

The editor is the man upon whom we rely to preserve the standard of literature. Without editors, orthography, etymology, syntax and punctuation would soon fall. The beauty about editors is that they are independent and uncompromising. They yield nothing to the rabble for the sake of profits. If they print blood and thunder stories, mushy love tales and platitudinous essays, it is not to make money, but merely because they know that if the public doesn't get this kind of reading it will find worse mischief elsewhere.—Life

Sour Milk.

Many people throw sour milk away. Wise ones utilize it. By draining off the water the curd remains as a solid. Put a cupful of curd in a cheesecloth and twist the loose ends together and hang it where it will drain overnight. In the morning place it in a dish and flake it with a fork and salt. Give it to the children and tell them it is the same thing that Miss Muffet was eating when along came the spider.—New York World

His Mistake.

"How did you lose your last job?" "I was fired for making a mistake." "That seems unfair. We are all liable to make mistakes." "Yes, but I told the boss that he couldn't get along without me."—Detroit Free Press

She'll Finish Him.

"Patience—Is she going to marry that man?" "Patience—I believe so." "He's a self made man, isn't he?" "Yes, but she is going to put the finishing touches to him."—Yonkers Statesman

Bark or Bleat?

It was a New England parson who announced to his congregation one Sunday, "You'll be sorry to hear that the little church of Jonesville is once more tossed upon the waves, a sheep without a shepherd."—Christian Register

This Life of Ours.

Our life is not a mutual helpfulness, but rather, cloaked under due laws of war, named "fair competition" and so forth. It is a mutual hostility.—Carlyle Imitating California and Oregon.

Lockport, N. Y., May 29.—To do for New York and the east what organization has done for Southern California orange growers and Oregon apple men, and to lay the foundation for the standardization, grading, packing and marketing of Western New York's famous apples and peaches, the Farmers' Congress will be held in Lockport, June 1, 2 and 3.

Several thousand farmers are expected. Parades will be featured. The 74th regiment of Buffalo will stage a sham battle. But the main purpose of the congress is to organize the farmers and guard against another year such as last, when millions of baskets of peaches were left unpicked because the growers did not know how to dispose of them.
