CORVALLIS MAN REPORTED DEAD TWICE CONTINUES ALIVE

Willis Vidito, a pioneer of Corvallis, has the distinction of having been reported dead twice by the Corvallis Gazette Times. The first time was June 7, 1866, just fifty years ago, when Vidito met with an accident in a saw mill, and was literally cut to pieces, losing his left arm; but he lived, though reported dead. On Oct. 15, 1914, he fell from a train at Corvallis and the Gazette-Times reported him killed. Once he went to Nome and lived through. Before he went he had the visions of many others, for in a poem he said:

Yet, we'll return, you may depend. It never will be our lot To leave our bones where polar bear Will ever find the spot.

We'll bring a schooner load of gold From the Alaskan hills, We'll doff our boots and corduroys Then you can put on frills.

We'll take a trip around the world And through the foreign lands, And wonder neath Italian bowers By lone Arcadian strands.

Some Trout— Last Sunday A. E. Edwards, of The Tribune office, caught what is believed to be the largest trout ever brought into Scio. The monster was caught a short distance below the Green bridge, in the North Santiam. The fish measured 24 1-2 inches and after being brought to Scio weighed 3 1-2 pounds. When first caught it undoubtedly would have weighed 1-2 pound more. He was a redside trout and made a hard fight to stay in the water.—Tribune.

Has Auto Delivery— The Albany Creamery has new delivery auto, a fine vehicle. The horse and wagon have disappeared. Doing an annual business of over $200,000 the creamery is entitled to have the latest in equipment. Every month on the 10th the patrons of the creamery receive pay for their butter fat, putting in circulation monthly about $20,000, mostly coming here from outside points, a big item in the industrial progress of the city.

Brother of Judge Galloway. Judge Galloway received notice of the death of his brother, Thomas C. Galloway at his home in Wieser, Idaho. He was 78 years old, coming with his parents to Oregon in 1852, they locating in Yamhill county. In 1862 he moved to Idaho, preempting the land upon which the city of Wieser now stands. He built the first saw mill in Idaho territory, and was always a leader in public enterprises. He was a member of the constitutional convention, and served several years in the state senate. He had been in poor health for some time and his death was not unexpected.—Salem Journal.

Remarkable Record. Eugene, Or., June 8.—Beatrice Yoran, daughter of ex-Mayor D. A. Yoran, today completed a remarkable school record. When the high school closed this afternoon this student had rounded out 12 years without once being reported absent or tardy.

As a child, before entering the grammar school, she had been in delicate health. During her school life, however, she never has been ill.

box of regulation size and shape. The front bears on the upper curve the word "Letters" and at the bottom "U. S. Mail." The handlebar and letters slide are similar to those on the boxes now in use, but care was taken to provide more effective action.

The design for the sides was an American eagle with wide spreading wings but without the feathers, this being practically impossible in pressed steel, of which the boxes are to be constructed.

The design for the front of the boxes proved acceptable, but the eagle was deemed rather conventional, despite the contention of the art commissioners, among whom were Mayor Mitchel, Robert W. de Forest, president of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and John Quincy Adams, assistant secretary, that the design was highly artistic and should be adopted.

The post office department subsequently prepared a substitute design for the ends showing a shield with the letters "U. S." and a wing above it.

The art commissioners disapproved of the substitute design, and Mr. Kech went to Washington and urged the acceptance of the eagle design. The new boxes, of which several hundred thousand are to be placed in all the cities of the country, will cost approximately $6 each.

SCIO PROUD OF HIGH SCHOOL

Under Prof. White Has Had the Best Year in the History of the School.

All Scio was proud of the splendid closing exercises of our high school last Friday evening. Proud because everything passed off without a hitch; proud of the eloquent address of Editor B. F. Irvine to the graduating class, and proud of the closing of a most successful school year under the leadership of Principal O. V. White.

Scio's public schools and especially the high school, is rated among the best in the county. And it is right that it should be so rated, for Scio is the foster home of the high schools for Linn county. Scio sprung the idea and engineered the campaign which resulted in the adoption of the same.

GETTING NEW LETTER BOXES.

Uncle Sam Has Been Hunting for a New Design for Boxes.

(By United Press)

Washington, June 9.—About the last of this month Uncle Sam will begin putting up the first of several hundred thousand new design letter boxes all over the country.

The new design is the joint product of the post office department at Washington and the art commission of New York. While the design for the front was accepted by the post office department, the design for the ends is still subject to some modification, the design as a whole being termed somewhat conventional by post office officials.

The preparation for a design for the boxes was taken up by the art commission in April, 1914.

It was at first proposed to mount these boxes on pedestals, but this was disapproved by the commission and the conclusion was reached to affix them to electric light poles.

The Edison Company of New York offered a design, but it was so ornate that the post office department declined, on economical grounds, to consider it.

The art commission then asked that the post office department appoint a committee to confer with the commission regarding a design for the box, and this was done.

There were frequent conferences, with the result that Charles Kech, a sculptor, was commissioned to make a design.

Upon suggestions made by J. A. Edgerton, purchasing agent for the post office department, Mr. Kech made a model of the proposed letter box and it was the subject of several prolonged conferences.

Mr. Kech's design provides for a
