RAIN WILL HELP THE ROUND-UP SAYS "MAC"

Corvallis Merchants Will Close Stores on Friday; Albany to Go Thursday.

In spite of the rain the managers of the Philomath Round-Up are going merrily ahead putting the finishing touches on the big exhibition which opens Thursday and continues the rest of the week. The grandstand has been finished and made water tight, so people holding grand stand seats will be able to see the show in the dry. But R. P. McClelland, president of the round-up says that the rain will be a good thing and that it is going to stop before tonight. "It is just what we need," he said over the telephone this noon, "to make the track right. The rain will lay the dust and pack the roads and will bring hundreds from all over the valley who might not have cared to face the crowded, dusty roads."

"Buffalo" Vernon, world's champion steer bull-dogger arrived this morning along with nearly a dozen other well known cow boys. In the bunch coming today were Teetzle and Foster, expert ropers and bucking horse riders. There are now over 30 performers on the grounds at Philomath and every train brings more in.

Monday afternoon the Corvallis business men voted to close their stores Friday afternoon on Corvallis day and attend the Round-Up in a body. The Albany Commercial club Monday night took similar action and while the stores in this city will not be asked to close, everybody who can attend will be asked to go on Thursday, Albany Day. Salem and Eugene have been honored by having Saturday set aside for their day. Saturday is the last day, when the final events in the main contests will take place.

Thursday morning the big horse sale and stock exhibition will take place, and hundreds of fine head of horses will be sold to contractors, army and private bidders. Some very fine horses and cattle will be exhibited on this day.

THE COUNTRY GROCER.

To Be Portrayed in an Entertainment at the Hub Theatre Tonight.

At the Hub theatre tonight will be presented by the Ralston Country Grocery Co. the Trials and Triumphs of the Country Grocer, something full of interest, and as well containing a lesson all should see, being a hit on the big eastern mail order business and a boost for doing one's trading at home. It deserves a good house. The price of admission is so low it calls for a crowd. See advertisement elsewhere.

Contracting for Fruit—

W. A. Eastburn and Geo. G. Brown went to Brownsville today in the interest of the loganberry juice plant. They will meet with the growers and arrange to contract for the berries of the neighborhood.

THEY PUZZLED HUXLEY.

Terms in Which He Found It Difficult to Define His Belief.

Huxley once wondered whether he was a deist, an atheist, an agnostic, a pantheist, a materialist or a skeptic, an idealist, a Christian, an infidel or a freethinker. And the more he reflected the deeper his problem. What answer will any one make? Dr. James C. Fernald in his work "Synonyms and Antonyms" defines each according to his own belief, as follows: "The deist admits the existence of God, but denies that the Christian Scriptures are a revelation from Him. The atheist denies that there is a God. The agnostic denies either that we do know or that we can know whether there is a God. The skeptic doubts divine revelation.

"The infidel is an opprobrious term that might once almost have been said to be geographical in its range. The crusaders called all Mohammedans infidels and were so called by them in return. The word is commonly applied to any decided opponent of an accepted religion.

"A freethinker is inclined or addicted to free thinking, especially one who rejects authority or inspiration in religion. A materialist takes interest only in the material or bodily necessities and comforts of life. A pantheist accepts the doctrine of pantheism. An idealist idealizes or seeks an ideal or ideal conditions. A Christian is one whose profession and life conform to the teaching and example of Christ.

"Pantheism is the doctrine that God and the universe are identical. It contrasts with atheism as the positive denial and with agnosticism as the dogmatic doubt of the existence of God. It opposes that form of deism which denies the divine immanence and separates God from the world."

WILLARD MACK AND ENID MARKEY STAR IN PLAY

Spectacular effects that surpass anything ever achieved before in a photo play will be shown in the new Triangle production by Thomas H. Ince, "Aloha Oe," at the Rolfe today. There is a storm at sea, where the waves gradually rise higher and higher and finally surge over the ship, dashing men over its sides, and where the terrible blasts of wind tear the sails to shreds and demolish the spars and rigging.

Raymond Hitchcock as a gay and courtly trickster and Roscoe Arbuckle as a village fat boy have some amusing encounters in their attempts to win the affections of Flota Zabelle as Arbuckle's comedy sweetheart in "The Village Scandal," the Triangle-Keystone comedy.

BLANCHE SWEET WEARS SOME LOVELY GOWNS

Although the beautiful and charming Blanche Sweet will be seen as a girl of the slums in the Jessy L. Lasky production of Wm. De Mille's thrilling drama, "The Ragamuffin," many of the scenes are laid in fashionable New York society and ample opportunity is given to display many beautiful evening gowns. Minnette Barrett, the well known Lasky artist, as the wealthy society girl living beyond her income, has an opportunity to wear a number of beautiful evening gowns as well as the latest creations in feminine riding habits.
