TENNESSEE'S PARTNER.

The famous San Fernando mission, one of the earliest houses of worship on the Pacific coast, is shown as "Tennessee's" early home in the Jesse L. Lasky production "Tennessee's Partner," which will be the Paramount Picture at the Globe today and tomorrow.

This wonderful mission with its many rooms and outbuildings, was built by the Jesuit priests, with the assistance of the Indians in the early days of the nineteenth century. The plan of this famous order was to erect these missions one day's journey from Mexico to Monterey, and in the early days, thousands of travelers were welcomed under these hospitable roofs.

WORKED THE WRONG WAY.

His Efforts to Be Famed For Courtesy Met With a Check.

"You read in the papers now and then," said the sad faced street car conductor as a deeper shade of sadness crossed his face, "that some rich person had left a policeman or a conductor a fine legacy for being courteous to them. After I had read two or three of such things I made up my mind to put on an extra touch of courtesy in cases of old women and old men. I, too, had a chance offered me. A fine old lady took my car, and I helped her to find a seat and answered all the questions about how to reach Mercy street. She had to change from my car to another, and I tenderly helped her off the platform and gave her the most minute directions. For the next two days I felt that I would be named in her will, but then something happened that made me believe that I would not."

"And what happened?" was asked. "I was called to headquarters on a complaint made by that very old woman I had used so nicely. She had entered a complaint of negligence against me, and I was called up to explain."

"But what cause had she?" "It was that I did not raise my cap to her when turning to get on my car after directing her. I have given up all hope of a legacy and gone back to my usual politeness and no more. I guess all the grateful old women died off before I took this job."—Baltimore American.

M. P. Briggs went to Salem this morning.

DISTURB AUDIENCES.

Owing to the fact that the motors in launches disturb the audience and interfere with hearing in the Chautauqua auditorium, it is hoped that owners of motorboats will not run in the neighborhood of Bryant's Park after 8 o'clock in the evening during Chautauqua assembly.

Gullotta Trio to Appear In Concert

Trio of Soloists to Present Strong Musical Program at Chautauqua

THE Gullotta Trio, concert ensemble, presenting a repertoire of instrumental and vocal numbers, sound the quality keynote of the musical portion of the Chautauqua. This is their second western Chautauqua tour, the ovations accorded them last year rendering a return engagement imperative. Each member of this trio alone has been considered by Chautauqua patrons a star attraction. The combination is immense.

It was of Vincenzo Gullotta, the violinist, that the famous Mary Anderson wrote: "I shall never forget your most wonderful playing. With the Ionian sea before us and the roses of Taormina around us, your playing was a dream of beauty."
