GERMAN-AMERICANS.

In view of the fact that German-Americans are supposed to be opposed to President Wilson's re-election, the following will be of great interest and of much significance:

President Wilson has received a telegram from General Frederick C. Winkler, Milwaukee, one of the leading German Republicans of the northwest, declaring that, though he has been a Republican voter since 1860, he will support President Wilson for re-election. The telegram sent to the president reads:

"Have read your New York Press club address with great satisfaction. A Republican voter since 1860, I hold that in the present crisis the party has no place. True Americanism must stand by the man who manfully stands at the helm. I support your re-election. F. C. WINKLER."

Milwaukee, Wis., July 15.—There is hardly a branch of public life in which General Winkler has not taken an active interest—in the military, in state affairs, in the politics of the nation, in municipal government, in civil service reform, and the practice of the law—in all he has played an active part. And his mark remains upon many important measures and successfully executed projects.

He had barely begun the practice of his profession when the civil war broke out. He stopped his work to go to the front; and he served continuously until after the downfall of the confederacy, the grand review at Washington had taken place, and his regiment had been mustered out on its return to the state. He went to the front as a captain, and returned to private life wearing the straps of a brigadier-general by brevet, based on a military career that more than once brought him honorable mention in official dispatches. At Gettysburg wounds of superiors put him in command of the regiment, and for nearly two years he led the Twenty-sixth Wisconsin on many a desperately disputed field.

General Winkler was a warm personal friend of Carl Schurz, the eminent German patriot and statesman, who found a refuge in America and made his home at Watertown, Wis., after being exiled from his native land.

WE'UNS WANT IN.

A correspondent signing himself "Bull Moose," writing to the Chicago Herald from Wheaton, Ill., asks some pertinent questions as to why the independent voter should cast his ballot for Hughes rather than Wilson:

"Recently you published a strong editorial commending Roosevelt to the G. O. P. convention because 'he has a program,' which, to your view, counter-matched Wilson's record. Now, the Republicans have nominated a high-grade candidate without any program in particular, excepting the cry 'Harmony' and the demand that the Democrats get out—'anything to beat Wilson.' One is reminded of the old Arkansas platform: 'Whereas, We'uns are out and you'uns are in; therefore what you'uns are for, we'uns are agin.' Resolved, That you'uns get out and let we'uns get in."

"Leslie M. Shaw of Iowa, standpatter, is authority for the statement recently that 'an ejection suit cannot be won in any court on the weakness of the defendant's title; the court promptly says: "That does not concern this issue; what is your title?" When we go to the polls in November the jury (the voters) will ask the same question. We must be prepared to answer it."

"Mr. Hughes may be a fine man, of sterling character and all that his friends say he is, but why should independent voters prefer him to Wilson? Let well enough alone, unless something better offers."

WARNING FROM FRIENDLY SOURCE.

From the New York Herald (Rep.): Handshaking and pleasant words are not sufficient to win for Mr. Hughes. Ineffectiveness, no matter how well meaning, never yet succeeded in campaign management.

Silence was all right when silence was justified, but Mr. Hughes can not much longer remain silent concerning the things about which the American people are thinking. They want real and tangible assurance that the election of Mr. Hughes will give to the country efficient government.

MISFITS

Different reasons are given for the cause of poverty. In many cases it is intemperance, bad management, and extravagance.

Many people have themselves to blame because very poor.

If the money and property of the world were divided up today in a year a few would have most of it. In a week some would be poverty-stricken.

It is a great problem to solve, but it can hardly be solved without a big allowance for man's weakness.

It is a selfish old world, and hence greed operates in the affairs of men.

In an old fashioned church service in Portland the men occupied one side of the church, the women and children the other. That would be considered ridiculous now.

Some people though think the world is not moving. It certainly is changing with the process of the suns.

A subscriber has handed the Democrat the following on the soldier, not as he is as a man, but as made by the government for which he works:

A GOOD SOLDIER.

By Jack London America's Greatest Novelist. Young man, the lowest aim in your life is to be a good soldier. The good soldier never tries to distinguish right from wrong. He never thinks; never reasons; he only obeys. If he is ordered to fire on his fellow citizens, on his friends, his neighbors, on his relatives, he obeys without hesitation. If he is ordered to fire down a crowded street when the poor are clanking for bread, he obeys, and sees the gray hairs of age stained with beer and the life-tide gushing from the breasts of women, feeling neither remorse nor sympathy. If he is ordered off as one of a firing squad to execute a hero or benefactor, he fires without hesitation, though he knows the bullet will pierce the noblest heart that ever beat in human breast.

A good soldier is a blind, heartless, soulless, murderous machine. He is not a man. He is not even a brute, for brutes only kill in self-defense. All that is human in him, all that is divine in him, all that constitutes the man, has been sworn away. His mind, conscious, eye, his very soul, are in keeping of his officer.
