Neal Shedd went to Albany last night.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Haveland were visiting their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Marguson.

Owing to the frequent rains pastures are holding out well, and stock is doing fine. There are hundreds of acres of corn in this part of the valley which is making a wonderful growth; this will be put in the silos for winter feed, which will take the place of hay, which is usual winter feed for stock.

The blackberry and raspberry crop is immense, and of extra fine quality. If strong, healthy vines are any indication of a good crop there certainly will be a large yield of potatoes this year.

CITY NEWS

Mrs. Fitzsimmons—Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons, who was in Albany a few months ago, will be in Portland this week, speaking two or three times.

Artillery Men—

A company of artillery men passed through the city last night on their way to Ft. Warden, from the Philippines, where they had been a couple of years. They are a former Illinois company. One man said they were mighty glad to be back from the Philippines, where the heat gets very tiresome, unless one resides there long enough to become acclimated, which takes eight or ten years. Being in the artillery they did not expect to be in the border.

Returned from Outing—

Tom Humphreys, of the post office crew, wife and seven children, returned last night from their summer's outing up in the hills somewhere near Cascadia, where they had and outing of a couple of weeks. One could tell the length of time by the length of Mr. Humphreys' beard. They had a good time and got back without the loss of a single one of the fine company of children.

Mrs. Miller and Daughter—

Mrs. Dr. Howard Miller and daughter, of Portland, were in the city last night, the guests of Mrs. C. E. Sox, while on their way home from a visit at Corvallis, which was Mrs. Miller's former home, when she was Miss Louise Webber. The daughter, a fine looking girl of about ten, was recently adopted by her and Dr. Miller.

OREGON HORTICULTURE.

Representative of Norwegian Government Comes to Investigate Our Fruit Interest.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, July 31.—Impressed by the close relation between the science and practice of horticulture in Oregon, Olav Einset, municipal horticulturist of the government experiment station, of Norway, and supervisor of the fruit growers' association, has crossed the Atlantic ocean and the North American continent in order to make a close study of Oregon horticultural methods. Mr. Einset was sent by his government to make this investigation with a view to adopting here to the fruit growers of Norway.

The West he finds, especially the Pacific Coast states, has developed the orcharding industry much more scientifically than any other part of the country. Hence, it was to the west he came to pursue its studies. From Medford he will go to California to investigate California orchard practices. He will then go to Rochester, New York, where he will investigate the factory systems of the huge by-products plants at that place engaged in the manufacture of vinegar, fruit juices, evaporated fruits, and other by-products. In the latter part of the year he will return to his own country and next year begin the introduction of the methods learned here to the fruit growers of Norway.

Under the auspices of the German National Committee, an organization having the approval of the official censorship, fifty well known German orators will make the same speech in fifty German cities today. The speech is unofficially known to represent Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg's peace term views.

The speech is being awaited with the keenest interest by both friends and foes of Dr. Hollweg.

This propaganda may mark the beginning of re-established friendly relations between the chancellor and those with whom he has politically disagreed on the conduct of the war. Dr. Hollweg is the man who engineered the ousting of Grand Admiral von Tirpitz and his submarine warfare campaign and kept friendly relations with the United States when a break seemed imminent.

It is known that the Moderate, Conservative, National-Liberal and Catholic elements have been striving to make a reconciliation between the Chancellor and the Pan-German element.
