18 COUNTIES TO HAVE EXHIBITS AT STATE FAIR

McElroy's Band Will Play Again; Mrs. Powell and Blanche Hammell to Sing.

Eighteen Oregon counties will have exhibits at the state fair, September 25 to 30, Secretary-Manager A. H. Lea announced at a meeting of the board yesterday, says the Statesman. It is believed that this will be the largest representation from the counties of the state in the history of the fair, which came in yesterday.

Good progress has been made in preparing the exhibits of the several departments, according to reports of the members of the board, who are also department heads.

The board yesterday rejected the offer of Ferrello's Italian band of Portland to play during fair week for $1300 on the grounds that it is not an Oregon institution. McElroy's band has again been selected as the official band of the state fair. Other musical organizations that will be used are the Oregon Veterans' Fife and Drum Corps, which has headquarters at Oregon City; The Harney County Juvenile Symphony orchestra, the Newberg band, the Elks' band of Portland, which will play on Elks' day, and the Shriners' band of Portland, which will furnish music on Shriners' day.

Soloists with whom arrangements have been made to sing during fair week are Hallie Parish Hinges, Florence Halliday-Haight, both of Salem; Mrs. Frank Powell, of Albany, Mrs. A. Van Buren, of La Grande, Blanche Hammell, of Corvallis, Stuart McGuire, of Portland, and Tom Ordman, of Salem.

M. P. Burnett, of Corvallis, was re-elected chief of the fair grounds police. Mr. Burnett and Secretary-Manager Lea will select the other police officers from applications that are now on file in the office of Mr. Lea.

Gateman and ticket sellers will be chosen by Mr. Lea from applications received. The secretary was authorized by the board to put under bonds all employees of the fair who handle money.

PORTLAND READY.

In Case of a Strike in a Situation to Meet the Emergency for Long Time.

A dispatch from Portland reads: A general railroad tie-up of a week or two duration would not seriously affect Portland's food supply. If a strike is to occur, it is fortunate for the city that it comes at this time of year when Portland is not dependent on distant places for its necessities.

At the present time the larger portion of the fruits, vegetables and other perishables are produced in near by territory. California contributes but a small part of the green produce, and it will very soon be replaced by home-grown articles. Portland obtains most of its daily supply of produce from points within wagon haul of the city, or from sections reached by the river boat lines, and these points can be depended on to feed the city for many weeks yet.

Portland produce brokers received wires from California shippers that yesterday was the last day the railroads would accept shipments of perishable articles for the Northwestern cities. But little is coming by rail from the Southern states now except grapes and cantaloupes, and local producers are beginning to supply these lines. Citrus fruits for many months have been coming north by steamer, and they will not be affected. The banana movement, however, will be shut off.

The agricultural sections close in, or along the rivers also supply the city with a large part of its eggs, poultry and dressed meat. Of the livestock receipts, less than 10 per cent have come by boat or been driven in, but with the railroads tied up, a larger part of the arrivals will come by the water lines or be driven here.

Much of the milk and cream supply is also hauled or brought by boat. As for butter, there is enough in storage in Portland to run the city through the winter, and the same applies to eggs. Grocery stocks are also held to be adequate for a considerable period. Several of the leading lines of staple groceries have always been brought to Portland by steamer from California.

In the event of a strike, there would, of course, be more or less fluctuating of prices and the changes might be extreme in some lines.

In the grain trade, the view is taken that a stoppage of traffic at this time would work no serious hardship on either farmers or dealers, unless the tie-up were prolonged. The wheat crop has not yet begun to move in volume, in fact, the harvest is not much more than well under way. A vast amount of wheat has been contracted for, but nearly all the shipments are to be made in later months some not until November.

The apple movement also has not started and the hop shipping season is more than a month distant.

CITY NEWS

To Go to Montana—Prof. and Mrs. C. P. Stevens will soon leave for Anaconda, Mont., where Prof. Stevens will teach in the science department of the high school.

Public Market—The public market is about ready for opening on Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock, with four meat stalls and seven vegetable and fruit stalls for the business. It is thought all of them will be occupied. The experiment will be watched with interest.

Cal. Auto—An auto passed thru the city this forenoon, on which the state license plate read 138,817, Cal. Numerous autos in that state, evidently.

Sam Veatch One of Them—One of the men back east in the negotiations between the railroads and the trainmen and engineers, is Sam Veatch, a former well-known conductor, who years ago was on a passenger train thru the valley. He also once conducted the Lebanon train for awhile.

Weather Report—Yesterday's temperature ranged between 46 and 89 degrees. The river fell to 14 feet.

Home From Newport—Miss Mae Lewis is home from Newport, where she has been spending the summer.

Returned to Albany—Miss Anne Dawson returned to Albany yesterday after spending the greater part of the summer at Nye Beach. She will be the house guest of Miss Greta Fortmiller for the rest of the week.

Will Show Stock—F. H. Porter, of Shedd, passed thru the city this morning enroute to Portland. Mr. Porter has a fine herd of cattle which he will exhibit at the coming Harvest Festival in October.

Horses Ran Away—Becoming frightened at the street car yesterday afternoon a team of horses hitched to a hay rack started to run from in front of the M. Senders & Co. feed store and collided with a telephone pole a block away. The team, belonging to Dr. W. T. Wilson, whose farm is in Benton County, was standing in front of Senders when the car approached from the rear. They dashed off down the street towards the bridge and when nearly to the approach they turned towards the walk, a horse going on each side of a telephone pole. The tongue of the wagon was splintered, the harness torn from the horses, but no other damage was done. A large watermelon stood the ride very well, receiving only a cracked side.

Soldiers to Return—Orders for the return to their state mobilization camps of 15,000 national guardsmen now on the Mexican border were issued by the war department last night. General Fuston was directed to return three regiments from New York, two from New Jersey, two from Illinois, two from Missouri and one each from California, Oregon, Washington and Louisiana.

185 Miles in a Day—An auto party this week consisted of Dr. and Mrs. B. R. Wallace, Miss Josephine Hall, Miss Zona Haight and Johnny Tait, the last named as exchange driver. They left here in the morning, immediately went up the Columbia highway after getting their lunch, in all the first day covering 185 miles, which was pretty good travelling for one day. They used the Wallace Packard. Dr. Wallace and party will remain. They will be joined on Tuesday by Miss Gladys Davis, Frances McCourt and Mary Hall, who will visit in Portland awhile, making the Columbia highway trip, returning later.

Reply is Filed—A reply to answer of defendant was filed today in the case of W. H. Gillard vs. Ezra Weaver.

Final Account—The final account in the estate of Francis A. Woodcock was filed today.

SWEEPING INVESTIGATIONS BY THE GRAND JURY

Many Witnesses Examined By Jury This Time and Several Indictments Expected.

The grand jury is expected to report this afternoon. The jurors have been at work all week examining a large number of cases. A sweeping investigation of conditions in all parts of the county has been carried on this time and an unusually large number of witnesses have been examined. Among the indictments expected to be returned will be those against the two men now being held in the county jail in connection with the theft of beef hides, materials from the Weatherford boat house and other articles; Virgil Alice, of Holley, who is wanted for illegal practices on his two-step daughters and some of the cases now out on bail. There will also be others of which there has been no intimation.

O. A. C. IS MAKING AN INVESTIGATION OF WALNUTS

Corvallis, Aug. 31.—A walnut variety that more nearly meets the commercial and producing conditions in Oregon is wanted by the Oregon State Walnut Growers' association, which has appointed a committee to investigate walnut varieties with a view to making selection.

"Although the walnut industry in Oregon is making rapid progress as it is," says Professor C. I. Lewis, chief of the horticultural division at O. A. C. and chairman of the committee, "we have not yet succeeded in getting the most profitable variety. First of all it must be a good commercial nut of good uniform size, medium thickness of shell, with a light colored well flavored kernel. The shell should be close about the kernels, without cracking between the two halves."

"In order to make the production of this type of nut most profitable it should be grown on vigorous, heavy bearing trees. The variety should also be blight resistant. There are probably 5000 acres or more of walnuts growing in Oregon at this time and doubtless among the many seedlings being grown are some that very nearly meet all these requirements. If the committee is able to select this variety the walnut industry in Oregon will become more profitable."

The committee has already found three promising varieties near three different towns in Oregon. These will be investigated more fully along the latter part of September, at which time the committee will also visit other promising trees if notified by the growers. All growers who have trees approaching these requirements are asked to send notification to the chairman of the committee at Corvallis, Oregon.

Fine Gowns Are Shown.

Fedor Kaskolnikoff, for a number of years costumer to the Imperial Russian Court of Petrograd, was especially engaged by the Lasky Company to design the costumes worn in the brilliant court functions which are seen in the Lasky production of "The Sowers," at the Globe tonight, with Blanche Sweet in the stellar role. For three months prior to the production of "The Sowers," Kaskolnikoff was at the Lasky studio with a corps of assistants preparing not only the gowns, but the uniforms of the nobility represented. Miss Sweet is surrounded by a cast of unusual excellence, consisting of such distinguished artists as Thomas Meighan, Theodore Roberts, Mable Van Buren, H. B. Carpenter, and Ernest Joy.

Kittens Had Measles.

Kittens Reichert—yes, that is her real front name—was prevented from acting with Mme. Bertha Kalich in Madame's first William Fox photodrama, "Slander," Measles was the reason. And all during the filming of "Ambition," the new Fox picture for Mme. Kalich—and kittens, everybody watched the child's face to see if chicken pox or something worse wouldn't develop. But it didn't, and the juvenile artist did her part as the child of Madame—the child which, in "Ambition," as in "Slander," serves to prevent a family tragedy. She will be seen at the Rolfe Friday.
