DR. WHITE BEGINS BIBLE LECTURES IN JOSHUA

Dr. W. P. White last night delivered his first Bible lecture for the coming season, taking up the Bible where he left it last spring, giving his lesson from Joshua. In this book are found four blessings, possession, rest, victory and realization of promises.

He said: "The key to the spiritual teaching of Joshua is: 'Moses, my servant is dead.' The conflicts by which the land was to be gained required a commander and a leader, not a law-giver. The most rigid keeping of the law could never have brought in Israel and expelled the Canaanites. For this, superhuman power was required. The Jordan at the full flood was passed dry-shod, and the walls of Jericho fell at the mere blast of rams horns. This was not law work, but divine power displayed in grace. The seven nations in Canaan were greater and stronger than Israel.

"The same way the believer who is by title in Canaan now 'heavenly places in Christ Jesus'—and has been from the moment of his new birth, enters into a present heavenly experience by divine power and grace, and not by works of the law.

The man Joshua was a type of Jesus. "The secret of Joshua's victory is the secret of all victorious living. 'This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou shalt meditate therein, day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein.' We have a fuller revelation of God's will in the sixty-six books than Joshua had in five. The privilege and responsibility are correspondingly increased."

Register Now—

Only a few more days to register. Do it now. Don't be like one Chas. Hughes of New York, who did not register for six years. Every man and woman should vote, and registration has to precede it.

HUGHES SAYS: WORDS V.S. DEEDS WILSON DOES: A Chronological Contrast Compiled From Newspaper Reports

AUGUST 8.
CHICAGO: "If anything in this campaign is real it is the question whether we want words or action. * * * As I was 100 per cent judge I became 100 per cent candidate."

AUGUST 9.
St. Paul: "Reasonable, adequate preparedness is a primary national duty, and if I am elected I propose to see that that duty is discharged to the credit of the American people."

AUGUST 10.
Fargo, N. D.: "If elected I should devote my ability to serving the United States."

AUGUST 11.
BISMARCK, N. D.: "I am keenly aware of the importance of our agricultural prosperity, and I desire to do all that can be done to promote that prosperity."

AUGUST 12.
Helena, Mont.: "The present administration is to a very great extent a sectional administration."

AUGUST 13.
Spokane: Mr. Hughes rests from his arduous work of criticizing the deeds of President Wilson's administration.

AUGUST 14.
SPOKANE: "I am desirous that this matter of the tariff should be attended to without abuse."

AUGUST 15.
Seattle: "If we ever fall so low that we will not protect our citizens we might as well haul down the flag. I am not too proud to fight."

AUGUST 16.
Portland, Ore.: "It would be a breach of trust for the United States to abandon the Philippines at this time."

AUGUST 17.
Roseburg, Ore.: "We must be sure that we do not leave unused the national powers which will give us national prosperity."

AUGUST 18.
SAN FRANCISCO: "The people are entitled to the very best."

AUGUST 19.
Oakland: "Wherever we have the government represented in regulation and supervision it must be a regulation and supervision that is really expert and square with the facts of business life."

AUGUST 21.
San Diego: "I believe in preventing children from being drawn too early into the hardships of industrial life." (See Wilson's deeds of August 8 and 18.)

SOMEWHERE IN CALIFORNIA: "Mexico—Huerta—policy—recognition—intervention—shame—weak—conduct—American citizens—bullies—border—wrong—trouble—Administration—Huerta—"

AUGUST 23.
Reno, Nev.: "We can have peace without trouble in this country."

AUGUST 24.
Ogden, Utah: "Let us brace ourselves for the new era. Let us maintain the honor of the American name. Let us get the driving force of patriotic sentiment."

AUGUST 25.
Cheyenne, Wyo.: "I believe we ought to have compensation acts wisely and fairly provided—in order that those who work may be assured of proper protection"

AUGUST 26.
DENVER: "I do not think there has been in many years a campaign in which business men, solicitous for the future of the country, should feel or have so deep an interest."

AUGUST 27.
Estes Park, Colo.: Mr. Hughes goes into seclusion to rest from the arduous labors of his campaign of criticism.

AUGUST 28.
Estes Park, Colo.: —Still resting—a game of golf—posing for the moving picture men—a musicale in the evening—resting.

AUGUST 29.
Estes Park, Colo.: Mr. Hughes takes an automobile ride to Long's Peak Inn, 10,000 feet above the level of the sea, where he might obtain a bird's eye view of the "inactivity" of President Wilson's administration.

AUGUST 30.
Estes Park, Colo.: Mr. Hughes, refreshed by his four days' rest and silence, prepares to resume his task of being a 100 per cent candidate.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson wins his fight for a bigger navy at a White House conference with heads of Senate and House committees. Senate passes Child Labor Bill.

WASHINGTON: The Democratic House of Representatives adopts the conference report on the Army Appropriation Bill, the first of the President's defense measures.

WASHINGTON: The White House announces that the President will not take any of the government's time to answer Mr. Hughes' attacks.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson signs the bill making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture and containing three measures designed to improve market practices and the storage and financing of crops.

WASHINGTON: Secretary of Commerce Redfield makes public figures showing that half his staff is composed of Taft appointees.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson, to avoid a nationwide railroad strike, calls representatives of the unions and employers to the White House.

WASHINGTON: The Senate approves the administration's revenue bill providing for the creation of a non-partisan tariff commission.

WASHINGTON: The House of Representatives adopts the Senate amendments to the Navy Bill calling for the building of sixteen capital ships within three years.

WASHINGTON: The United States Senate passes the Philippine Bill on franchising 600,000 men and retaining guardianship over the islands until they can establish a stable government.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson, finding the railroad managers have not full authority, summons the railroad presidents.

WASHINGTON: The Child Labor Bill is adopted by the House and goes to the President, who had urged its passage. Senate passes Shipping Bill.

WASHINGTON: The House passes the Administration Shipping Bill designed to create a naval auxiliary and naval reserve and build up an American merchant marine to meet the requirements of the nation's commerce.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson receives hundreds of letters commending him for his successful fight against child labor.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson names Secretary of the Interior Lane, Ex-Judge George Gray and Dr. John R. Mott as members of the joint American-Mexican commission to settle peacefully the differences between the countries.

WASHINGTON: The United States Senate repasses the Army Appropriation Bill amended to meet the President's wishes.

WASHINGTON: At President Wilson's urging the Democrats in the House resolve to push the fight for a non-partisan tariff board in order to be prepared to meet new trade conditions arising after the war.

WASHINGTON: The House concurs in the Senate amendments to the bill providing for compensation of work men injured while in government service.

WASHINGTON: The Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement shows an increase of more than $2,400,000 in the total earning assets of the member banks.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson confers with Democratic leaders about plans to save the country from a railroad strike.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson, still laboring to avert a railroad strike, decides to go before Congress and ask for arbitration and eight-hour laws.

WASHINGTON: President Wilson appears at a joint session of Congress and asks for immediate legislation to avert a railroad strike and prevent such a crisis arising in the future. The President completes the Administration's preparedness legislative program by signing the Army and Navy Appropriation Bills. He also signs the Philippine Bill and the new Bill of Lading measure.

WASHINGTON: Woodrow Wilson still "on the job" in Washington—a 100 per cent President.
