REMARKABLE INVENTION BOON FOR HOUSEWIVES

For over thirty years housewives have been using coal and wood ranges with the oven built in the range body—thus requiring a great deal of stooping. To eliminate this uncomfortable stooping J. E. Leonard of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, conceived the idea of placing the oven above the range body so as to make it easily accessible.

The heat from the body flue is carried to the oven flues through a large asbestos insulated pipe. Thus the heat travels its natural way—upward—which makes the oven heat quickly and evenly.

Fourteen different styles of these ranges are now made, known as the Leonard Hi-Oven ranges. Fisher-Bradford Co. have secured the agency for these remarkable ranges and they invite the housewives of this community to call and inspect the line.

"The Escape" Tonight.
Manager Conrad Meyers of the Rolfe theatre announces that he has secured for his patrons, D. W. Griffith's famous success "The Escape" and will show same tonight only.

leased.
The story is said to be one that appeals to both old and young. It is a strong protest against the marriage of people who are physically unfit, and shows the results of such unions. Six stars of "Birth of a Nation" fame, and Blanche Sweet take leading roles.

FORMER ALBANIANS.

People Told About Who Formerly Resided Here, Going Elsewhere.

Mrs. W. H. Mennelley, nee Miss Lee Prather, a teacher in Albany College twenty-four years ago, was the guest of Mrs. Anna Houck of Portland the past week. She was on her way to her new home in St. Paul.

Mrs. Christine Cumming, mother of J. A. Cumming, a former Albany druggist, died at her home in Los Angeles, Oct. 9. Her remains were taken to her old home in Dewitt, Iowa, for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bagnell left Portland last week for Kansas City, Mo., where they will make their home. Mrs. Bagnell was formerly Miss Vesta Henton, of Albany, whose father was city recorder for about 20 years.

Dr. Stone's Heave Drops cures headaches. Price $1; for sale by all druggists.
