WHY FOR WILSON.

By George Middleton (Noted Playwright and Son-in-Law of Senator LaFollette)

Though I am not a Democrat I shall vote for Wilson. No other president since Lincoln has been confronted with such international problems.

We are not crossing a stream, but a torrent, and I see only dangers in swapping horses now. Because Wilson, through four years of anguish, is more acquainted than Hughes with all the cross-currents of our foreign relations, he should be re-elected.

Such as I respect Mr. Hughes as a man, he goes before the country without an issue. He is merely a critic. He has shown no constructive alternatives. And, above all, he carries no conviction in his speeches that had he been president, taking other methods than Wilson, he would have kept the country out of war.

By Ellery Sedgwick (Editor of the Atlantic Monthly) Both for peace and prosperity, I feel a citizen's gratitude to President Wilson, but as an independent in politics, my paramount reasons for casting my vote in his favor is that, through his steady courage and dexterous management he has made the democratic party, after fifty years of opposition and flabby initiative, an efficient instrument of government, and has thus once more restored the party system in its full vigor to the American people.

Mr. Wilson's foreign policy of patience and of peace gives hope for the new world. Mr. Hughes' pale reflection of Colonel Roosevelt's demands reverts to the outworn code of the old. Despite fine talk of national honor, this has an evil significance. I solemnly believe that Mr. Hughes' election entails inevitable war with the Mexican people.

At home Mr. Wilson has kept every promise. Mr. Hughes will not even make promises to keep. The support behind him is composed of violent opposites. Such a campaign excites neither my sympathy nor my respect.

President F. D. Underwood of the Erie railroad is for President Wilson's election. Approving the same idea held by Judge Lovett of the Union Pacific, Underwood said that the Democratic party had "achieved the seemingly impossible and is worthy of a future trial."

While opposed to Wilson on the eight-hour law, Underwood declared the president had shown honest motives.

MISFITS

Because the Wilson women of Portland joshed the millionaires traveling over the country in a golden special in the interest of Hughes the republican press has been endeavoring to make capital out of it by referring to the prevention of riots, etc.

As a matter of fact these golden special women are as sure of a respectful hearing as anyone else in this land of the free.

What capital is made will be the other way. Their trip is undoubtedly working for the benefit of Mr. Wilson.

Speaking of boomerangs, have you noticed how Roosevelt is doing splendid work for Mr. Wilson. It is declared to be a fact that he has been asked to cease his speeches by the national republican committee.

One thing about this campaign is the fact that the movies have not had the start of it in specialties.

Those cow and horse sheeps up around the central part were a fly breeder for sure, and some of the people up that way have turned to be professional swatters.

A rep. paper gives Wilson the credit of getting the party out of the Taft-Roosevelt war.

Keep Changing the Scent. Irvin S. Cobb, a great writer, tells the following:

"Somehow, Hughes reminds me of the hunting hound old Judge Husband's grandfather imported to Paducah, Ky. It was the best dog ever bred down in North Carolina and brought to Kentucky. It had the stoutest heart and soundest lungs and the most willing legs in the world. But it couldn't concentrate.

"That dog would start out before sun-up and track a deer. It would go swooping along, giving that animal a run for its money, and just when you would expect the deer to be at bay, off would go Mr. Dog after a fox that it just couldn't resist. The fox is some runner, but that dog could run, too. And then just when the contest became interesting, Mr. Dog would sniff a rabbit, and make off after it. Result was, about sundown you would see that hound, after a day's hard work, barking like thunder because it had a chipmunk treed!"

Took the Count.

Pittsburg—Mrs. Lola Miller, 30, retired at 3 o'clock this morning, smoking a cigaret. Funeral services will be held Thursday.

We'll be glad when election is over so we can manufacture our misfits out of something else than politics. Everything we start on something else runs into the same channel, try as we will to prevent it. Not a politician, or caring much for politics, and owing no political debts, it's strange how our type keep getting into the prevailing channel everybody is swimming in.
