LABOR FOR WILSON.

The advice of Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to laborers to vote for President Wilson, and advising all organizations to meet and consider the matter, is a striking and significant thing in the campaign, and many republicans freely admit it means the reelection of President Wilson, without doubt.

He says: "Never at any time within the last 50 years have the workers had more at stake in any political campaign than in the one that is to be decided in the election November 7."

"During the present administration and particularly this campaign there has been developed a clear-cut issue between the workers, the producers, and those who manipulate the products of the labor of others, the exploiters. The issue is represented in the campaign by the conflicting interests represented by labor and Wall Street."

"Though half of the world has been involved in a terrific conflict, and it seemed at times as though our Nation must be drawn into the vortex of human slaughter, yet the chief executive of our land has been able to manage the affairs of the nation and the interests of our citizens so that without the horrors of war he had established and maintained protection of human life and human rights in the somewhat vague domain of international law. Without involving this nation in war, he has secured for us all of the protection and all of the benefits that would have accrued from a successful international war, and by diplomatic correspondence has achieved the victory of embodying concepts of humanity in international activity, insofar as America is concerned."

"What has been true in the case of the European war also is true in the case with the relations between our country and Mexico."

"The interests that have been seeking to plunge our country into war not only with European countries but also with Mexico are the interests that are represented by the most selfish and most conscienceless element of Wall Street."

"During the past four years there has been enacted by congress and signed by President Wilson humanitarian protective legislation unprecedented in amount and scope. Legislative enactment has secured to wage-earners fundamental rights necessary for the very existence of the organization of labor without which wage-earners would have nothing of freedom and no real opportunity for self-etterment."

"On November 7—election day—a decision will be made which will determine the future development of our country and the spirit of our national life for years to come."

"As representatives of the organized labor movement, which is the militant protective organization of all the workers, and which stands primarily for human rights, we urge that the issues be considered at a regular or special meeting held by your organization."

"The meeting should be a general one, and, if necessary, called specially for the purpose of seeing that those who have so much at stake should go to the polls to protect their interests."

"There is no doubt that the interests all over the country are, and will continue their activity to retain the special privileges and power that they have secretly and corruptly stolen from the people."

"While property must be protected and respected, man—men, women and children—human beings—must be the first consideration."

"Wage-earners cannot afford to lose their rights and opportunities thru negligence and inaction."

"Meet, discuss the great issues to be decided on election day, November 7, and then go to the polls, cast your vote as your conscience dictates for labor, justice, freedom and humanity."

MISFITS

The papers, which dare to do almost anything, haven't even dared to attack President Wilson's personal character, as clean a one as there is in the U. S.; but people privately have helped circulate a story as rotten as a five year old apple. It is an old one, which wasn't even rung into the president's former campaign for governor and president.

About the worst of all venom is scandal, and the worst of all scandal is the kind without a foundation.

Wall street is in a desperate trench this year, and it finds plenty of emissaries.

Turning from politics to religion an old saying of Spurgeon comes up: "The most empty-headed person sees himself up as a judge of religion."

People as lean as a race horse get as fat as a percheron after a few doses of criticism.

There's a golden mean in the great world of observation. The person all sugar is easily sucked to pieces, the one all vinegar is quickly spit out.

According to the Oregonian,

Hughes is already elected, only needing the announcement. According to the straw votes of the country, everywhere, and the private opinions of even republicans from the east, Wilson will be elected by a big majority of states.

We once knew a woman so unselfish that she ate the chicken wing every time.

One can run upon good advice all around: On the mail boxes are the words, "Lift up"; on the semaphores, "Keep to the right."

How ignorant we are, the proper way to spell review is revue, the French of it.

A paper the other day said a couple were separated by religion. Never; but by the lack of it.

"Jaz" is the latest addition to the vocabularies of University of Oregon students.

When greater racket is besought, the yell leader cries for "jaz." When student perusal is urgently desired, campus posters put "jaz" in big type. Everybody's saying "jaz" except the disgruntled faculty.

"Jaz" seems indigenous to the U. O. campus. Its derivation is puzzling even the professor of Philology. It appears to be autochthonous. The

The words that seem most nearly synonymous are "pep" and "ginger." "Let's go" is a predecessor that also is again.

"Jaz" is what is to be instilled into the crowd November 4, the day when the football teams of Oregon and Washington get together after two years' separation.
