CITY NEWS

Former Albanyite—

Claire Ketchum, a former resident of this city, and his wife, are in the city on their way from their home in Oroville, Wash., to California, where they will visit. They are making the trip in their auto. While here they are visiting old friends and will remain over until Wednesday to attend the Hallowe'en formal dancing party Tuesday evening.

Formal is Popular—

The ladies who are managing the Hallowe'en Formal dancing party which will be held in Moose Hall Tuesday evening, struck a popular note and the affair is being anticipated with more than ordinary interest. From present indications a large number of Albany elite will be present and many will be here from Salem, Corvallis, Eugene, Lebanon, Brownsville and other nearby cities. The music will be supplied by Booth's string orchestra, of Salem.

Returned to Gates—

John Schroeder, one of the best known residents of the Gates country, returned to his home at that place this morning after having been to Salem where his sister underwent an operation. She was considered in grave danger, but is thought to be on the safe side now.

Twins? No!

This morning Charles Monson, well known salesman for the Pacific Paper Co., who makes his headquarters in Albany, and Ben Rybke, who peddles drygoods and notions for the Fleischner-Mayer Co., of Portland, met in the store of M. Sternberg & Co. and almost came to blows—good naturedly. It seems that all along the line each is mistaken for the other by their customers, and this morning they got before a looking glass and compared "physiognomies." The compliments that each handed the reflections of the other as they stood before the glass would not do to print.

Ballot Boxes—

Sheriff D. H. Bodine has received the official ballot boxes and election supplies from County Clerk R. M. Russell, and has them ready to deliver to the chairman of the election boards Wednesday. Those living near the city will save the county the expense of sending the boxes out by registered mail. They are to be had by the proper officials calling at the sheriff's office any time after Wednesday. The boxes are sent to the more remote places by registered mail.

Rock Crusher Busy—

The county rock crusher, which is located on the river bank between the Red Crown and Albany Mill & Elevator Co. flouring mills, is running again, getting out gravel for use on the county roads during the coming winter. The plant has been moved a little east from the former site, making it more convenient. Much work will be done this winter on roads close to the railroads, where rock can be shipped on cars. The court went to Saddle Butte Saturday to look over a quarry site.

Long Auto Trip—

A party of nine were at the St. Francis, with their two automobiles, while on their way from their homes at Davenport, Iowa, thru California. They were Mr. and Mrs. William Livingstone, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hacks, Bertha Hueson and girl and some children. They had made the trip so far in safety.

Wilson Ahead—

The Rexall straw vote at Fred Dawson's last week resulted as follows: Wilson 168, Hughes 116. Only one day did Hughes lead, Saturday by two votes.

Returned to the Bay—

B. R. Forbes returned to Newport today, after being out on his farm looking after matters for a few days. Mr. Forbes was reported ill.

From Vancouver—

Another One—

A straw vote at Eagles cigar store showed 18 for Hughes and 58 for Wilson. It was a republican crowd, for only 26 voted for Turner Oliver, dem., to 32 for Burnett, 15 for Moore and 5 for Hofner, for supreme judge.

In the matter of the investigation of rules, orders and regulations relating to demurrage and reciprocal demurrage, on motion of the public service commission a hearing has been ordered on Nov. 24, at the court house in Portland. The notice is addressed to thirty-two railroads doing business, with tracks in Oregon.

Burns Is Home—

W. C. Burns has returned from his eastern trip greatly pleased with what he saw. He was as far east as Washington and New York. Some time was spent in his former home town, Tekamah, Neb. The Journal spoke of his visit as follows: "Charles Burns, of Albany, Ore., is here visiting his sister, Mrs. A. Littel. Charles has been in the shoe store business and made good at it. Some years ago he ran a store near the site of the present Journal building.

Went to Brownsville—

Mrs. W. B. Chance and son accompanied by Mrs. A. J. Chance, of Stayton, left for Brownsville this morning to attend the funeral of Peter Chance, who died late Saturday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. N. H. Bateman.

Idaho to Albany—

Mr. and Mrs. Legall and family have moved from Idaho to Albany to make their home. Mr. Legall is an expert window decorator.

A Good Sign—

An old house on Baker street next the canal is being repaired and put in shape for use, after an era of broken windows and dilapidation.

Time Lock Men—

H. C. Stockwell and son, E. C. Stockwell, of Los Angeles, have been in the city today looking after the time locks of three of the banks here. Once a year as experts they go over the locks seeing that they are in first class running condition.

Rustling for Votes—

DAINTY AND CLEVER SINGER AT THE GLOBE TONIGHT

At the Globe theatre tonight and all this week Albany theatre patrons will be given a treat out of the ordinary run of entertainment with the addition of Bess Moore to the bill. This talented little singer, who weighs but a scant 90 pounds, has a surprise in store for her audiences. She sings in two voices, light and mezzo soprano, and completely captivates her hearers. She appears in evening dress and sings all her songs in costume.

Miss Moore comes here from the Pantages circuit, and will soon return to the vaudeville stage. The past week she delighted Corvallis people and was pronounced one of the best attractions that has appeared in the college city for some time. In past of her size she puts loads of life into her work, and her voice, which is of beautiful quality, has an exceptionally wide range and ample volume.

Her program tonight will consist of "Sing, Sing, Birds on the Wing," by Godfrey Nutting, sung in light soprano; and "The Rosary," by Ethelbert Nevin, sung in mezzo soprano. The picture bill is headed by Blanche Sweet in "The Thousand Dollar Husband."

J. Whitney, Clark Price and John Neeley went over into the Alsea country on a hunting trip. They went to the neighborhood of Fall Creek, some 60 miles west of Albany, and enjoyed a fine four days hunt, even though they were soaked most of the time with orrenching rains. They secured one buck and a big black bear, which weighed 280 pounds. It is said that Mr. Whitney, who bagged the bruin, became greatly excited, and for a time was troubled with the buck fever.

Associated Charities—

Although only formally organized last Tuesday evening, the Albany Associated Charities has already found work and is giving good account of itself. One unfortunate lady, whose family is very poor and greatly in need, fell last week when she was thrown by a defective sidewalk and broke her arm. She is unable to work and her children are greatly in need. It is said that the city is responsible for the accident, the walk being in bad condition. However, she is being cared for and her children supplied with food and clothes. Another case that is receiving attention is one of a family which just came here from a homestead in Eastern Oregon. They are in very poor circumstances, and the man had the misfortune to break his leg.
