WAR HEROINES

The big war is said to be producing many heroines. The following story is about a new kind of one, one entitled to all the good things said about her:

Katherine Mary Davies of London is heralded throughout England as the greatest heroine in the European war! France is proud of Emmeine Moreau, Belgium of Edith Cavell, Austria-Hungary of "Sister Stephanie," Russia of Zoya Smirnov, women, who they say, distinguished themselves more than any man in the interest of their countries.

But the heroine whose name will go down in European history as the name of Molly Pitcher is recorded in American history as Mary Davies, who risked her life not on the battlefield, but in the little Ris-Orangeis hospital in France.

Miss Davies has won her place in history by saving life, not destroying it. Two acts stand out in her career. She perfected a system of sterilizing the dirt-stained, germ filled soldiers' uniforms to prevent infection of wounds. This has saved thousands of lives.

Then she risked her life to test a newly-invented antidote for the deadly gangrene poisoning that resulted from German gas bombs.

Edith Cavell was martyred, shot by the Germans on a charge of being a spy. Emmeine Moreau, 17-year-old "heroine of Loos," killed five Germans single-handed.

Zoya Smirnov of Russia served in the trenches. "Sister Stephanie," Countess Stephanie Lonyay spent a fortune for war widows and orphans.

And Molly Pitcher, of revolutionary war fame, manned a gun, at which her husband had been shot, to keep off the British.

But no heroine, until Miss Davies came along did anything directly to SAVE the lives of the soldiers at the front. Sterilizing soldiers' uniforms was big enough.

Now comes what is called the biggest thing a woman has ever done in the war.

Dr. Taylor of the American hospital in France, had been working on an antidote for the deadly gangrene poisoning that entered the body of soldiers exposed to the fire of German gas bombs. He had tested it on rats and other small animals, but he had to have a human volunteer to be sure of the antidote's effect on a person.

Miss Davies heard of Dr. Taylor's want. Silently, without telling anyone about her plans, she inoculated herself with the deadly poison and called for Dr. Taylor.

She was his first human subject and she voluntarily staked her life on an experiment.

She recovered and the experiment is a success.

WINNING A HUSBAND

How to win a husband is told in Rev. John H. Pierce's "ten commandments" for girls seeking the royal road to matrimony, just out.

First—Plan your campaign with the wisdom of the serpent, conceal it with the silence of the clam, execute it with the strategy of Machiavelli. Second—Avoid all witticism about marriage.

Third—Veil with alluring helplessness the iron of self-sufficiency.

Fourth—When a man declares "I shall never marry!" mark him for easy prey.

Fifth—Be inwardly bold as a lion, outwardly timid as a fawn.

Sixth—The loudest flattery is the silence of attention. When he speaks, listen. It is incense to his pride.

Seventh—Shun the rouge pot and the powder puff, for many a maid has lost out by sailing under false colors. Eighth—Pick out a chemical affinity. Remember, oil won't mix with water, but it will with myrrh. Ninth—Copy the cat, for it is squeezable, and the dove, for it coos carressingly, and the whippoorwill, for it seems elusive. Tenth—Remember that the supreme test of a man is a kiss. If he will not yield under its pressure, scorn him; he is either brute or idiot.

MISFITS

The state fair board, which was so miserly it could not treat the newspapers even with courtesy, giving them a single ticket of admission to the fair and no advertising, now will go to the legislature after numerous big appropriations, and want the newspapers to help. The next legislature will undoubtedly keep the board down with the other appropriations.

Several have said that the great need of the Y. M. C. A. here is a swimming tank. They are a fine thing theoretically, but sometime fierce in experience. Two or three in Portland, including the Y.M.C.A. have been found to be breeding places of disease, nasty tanks. Unless there can be a system of changing the water constantly there is danger. One place in Seattle was found to be a pest hole and was condemned. If sanitary they are great, if unsanitary, bad.

That's like a good many other things in the world.

Even the churches sometimes have about as much bad as good in 'em.

Where they ought to be examples they frequently get as loose as a bowery—only in a different way.

Trimming gradually leads to disaster in religion.

A big Standard Oil magnate has just died leaving all his oil.

Wonder what kind of fuel is used where he has gone?

Office under the national government seems to be principally a reward for services done politicians.

Again the weather is a little worse elsewhere.

Postoffice people are looking for an enormous Christmas business this year, called for by the prosperity of the country. Drummers report very conservative buyers in this valley, cautious because of the uncertainty of the general readjustment of prices. G. the poor egg, center of all attacks, a scapegoat for the real high cost of living things, women will throw away in extravagance more in a day than their eggs cost them in a month.

It isn't eggs, it is other things, and other things won't bother the person who watches the corners closely, so far as living goes.

Some people would do well to stuff less, eating healthy food according to the needs of the body, not giving up to abnormal appetites.

HOW APPENDICITIS CAN BE PREVENTED

Albany people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika, often relieve or prevent appendicitis. This simple mixture removes such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. Adler-ika has easiest and most thorough action of anything we ever sold. The Woodworth Drug Co.
