THE STORY OF BUCK

Buck was not his first name; people merely called him that because they liked him.

One day he called at the village postoffice and received a letter bearing a postage stamp with a portrait of George Washington, the father of his country.

So Buck and some of the boys got up a little party to be given on the banks of a majestic river which flows between cliffs three hundred feet high.

The incident was not entirely fruitful of no good. The United States got two cents out of it.

NORMAL SCHOOLS

The situation calls for two normal schools in Oregon. One should be in Eastern Oregon. This is the only fair solution of the matter.

In seeming despair efforts to solve the normal school problem the Portland Journal suggests that the normal courses be established at O. A. C. and at the state university at Eugene.

Through doubtless made from good motives the suggestion is absurd because it calls for disregarding the most important of the established rules governing the location of normal schools.

Every educator knows that these principles are sound. All educators know that the present trouble arises from the fact that Monmouth normal serves only the Willamette valley and does virtually nothing for eastern Oregon or for southern Oregon. The Journal's suggestion therefore is that portion of the state already well supplied on the score of normal institutions be given two additional schools, making three institutions within a radius of a few miles, while southern Oregon and eastern Oregon remain out in the cold.

What the East Oregonian thinks of that idea could be expressed more clearly were newspapers published on asbestos paper. In the meantime we will only mention that this section of the state is of volcanic origin and that there is still some brimstone lying around.

MISFITS

Some new coins are in circulation, coined at San Francisco. On the 50 cent piece is liberty walking toward the dawn of a new day, carrying branches of laurel and oak, on one side and on the other side an eagle, perched high on a mountain crag, with wings unfolded. The 25 cent piece is a little different, Liberty has a different pose, and the eagle is in full flight, and of course all around are olive branches.

As a matter of fact very few people know anything about what is on a coin, paying little attention to anything except the value of the coin.

Funny that such a thing as a caterpillar, an ordinary insect, could be the foundation of such an idea as the caterpillar tank, one of the most destructive instruments of war ever made.

The heart of a Marshfield young man recently throbbed so violently as to burst the buttons off his vest.

Lloyd George originally was simply David George. The Lloyd was tacked to his name after he was a young man.

A MODERN STORY

In "Cinderella Jane," the serial story running in the January American Magazine, Jane meets Althea, who is in love with her husband, and says to her:

"I don't really dislike you. I'm sorry for you. It is always pitiful to be the last of a type, like a lone Indian among civilized whites."

"I don't know what you're talking about."

"There is a new kind of feeling among women of brains in the world today, a sodality. No woman with self-respect sets herself to hurt another woman, not even to win a man they both care for. I belong to this group, Miss Morton. That is why you are able to take advantage of my hospitality."

"You fool! Don't you know Jerry cares for me?" cried Althea, sitting up, white with rage.

"That doesn't interest me," replied Jane.

"Whereupon a miracle occurred. Miss Althea Morton threw aside the silken coverlet, swung her feet to the floor, and walked quickly into the house."
