CITY NEWS

First H. B.
The first bill in the house was for bone dry legislation, which should be passed promptly.

Has a Buick
W. F. Pfeiffer has just invested in a Buick at the Irvin garage, a 1917 Six, a fine car.

Car Runs Low
This new street car with its metropolitan appearance and modern make-up gets right down to business. In fact it got down so low that it knocked the blocks off the concrete sump-phore blocks, and also scraped the track at places, so that it has been necessary for a man to go over the road and lower some places.

Always Good
The Pathe Weeklies, shown at the Globe, are worth more than the price of admission, the real thing in current events. Those shown last night and being shown again today are especially good ones, including some scenes on the Somme.

Rev. Leggett Here
Rev. J. H. Leggett, of Eugene, is in the city in the interest of the publishing houses of the Christian church with headquarters at the Eugene Bible school. Rev. Leggett is a former Albany college student, leaving here eight years ago to enter the theological school at Eugene, from which he graduated. For two years he has been preaching at Coquille. He was married a year ago. Mrs. Leggett is now a student in the Bible school, while Rev. Leggett covers this field in the interest of the publishing house. He will be here for about a week.

Weather Report
Yesterday's temperature ranged between 37 and 53 degrees. The river fell to 7.1 feet.

Arm Broken in Fall
Last week when Mrs. E. W. Langdon, formerly of this city, was returning to the home of Edgar Piper in Portland, she slipped on the porch, falling in such a manner as to break her arm. She is said to be getting along nicely.

To Speak in Salem
Dr. W. P. White left this morning for Salem where he will address the Library Bible class this afternoon.

Returned to Olex
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips left this morning for Olex, in Eastern Oregon, after visiting at the home of Mrs. Phillips' brother, Mark V. Weatherford.

Shop Changed Hands
Ben Dietrich has sold his interest in the City Market, on Lyon street to W. C. Thielen, of Eugene. Mr. Dietrich will remain in this city, devoting his time to cattle buying.

Married
This noon, at the residence of and by Rev. G. H. Young, of the Baptist church, Edward A. Putnam and Julie Ann Wallace, of Halsey, were united in marriage. They are well known residents of Halsey, where they will have the best wishes of their many friends.

Arrived From Michigan
Miss Lelia Loring, of Owosso, Mich., arrived in the city today for an extended visit at the home of her uncle, T. P. Hackleman.

Answer Is Filed
In the case of Frank McCauley vs. R. W. Dorris, answer was filed today by defendant.

Three Couples Wed
Licenses to wed were issued today by County Clerk R. M. Russell to John A. Dumond, 46, farmer, and Dora Quimby, 37, both of Albany; Edward A. Putnam, 62, farmer, of Drain, Ore., and Julia A. Wallace, 60, of Halsey; and to Timothy A. Kelly, 23, farmer, of Jefferson, and Hazel Riley, over 18, of Crabtree.

Mr. H.'s Return
Hon. W. H. Hornbrook writes that he expects to be in Albany at the end of the second week in February, which will be the eighth or ninth. He will resume charge of the Democrat about the 20th of the month.

Smoke McCourt's Hand Made cigars, 5 cents.

FOR SALE—5 milk cows, 4 fresh in spring, other milking. Cheap if sold at once. 639 E. 3rd St. J9-15

VAUDEVILLE HEADLINER AT GLOBE THEATRE TONIGHT

First of Series of Weekly Offerings Start With Strong Attractions.

Upon the results of tonight's performance, judging from the attendance, Manager Conrad Meyer will base his decision of continuing a regular weekly vaudeville bill, bringing the Ackerman and Harris circuit attractions here every Wednesday night. The price has been made extremely popular, 25 cents admitting adults and 15 cents children to any seat in the house. A mistake was made regarding the prices in yesterday's advertisement.

There is a real good bill promised for tonight. Headed by Dan Kelly and Irene Outtrim, the comedy, music and dancing numbers start off with a zip. Both of these are high class artists and have been seen all over the country in America's best vaudeville houses.

Brown and Carbonette are seen in a mixture of grand opera, musical comedy, and popular songs, and have a snappy, brilliant act. Beeson and Harris put on sheer comedy that is guaranteed to drive all the blues away from the most chronic grouch.

All three teams are on their way from Australia back to New York, and are playing a misfit circuit on their way to headquarters. In this way, Albany and numerous other smaller cities are getting better acts than the regular Hippodrome Vaudeville circuit in Portland, Seattle, and other coast cities at present.

Preceding the vaudeville is a beautiful five-act Paramount play, "The Stronger Love," in which is featured pretty little Miss Vivian Martin, who was seen here last year with Harry Hillard in "Merely Mary Ann." The play is different from the ordinary. It is the story of a spirited girl, born and raised in the wild, wooded peak of nature's garden spot, who finds education only through flowers and animals, until the spirit of progress reaches out its long arm and touches her life. Then she rebels at the sordidness and limited scope of her existence. Then comes the change, and here is where the interesting part begins.

There is also a comedy and a Real Life Weekly.

MIRIAM COOPER

Leading Woman of "The Honor System," to Star For William Fox.

Miriam Cooper, who was seen in "The Birth of a Nation," is the latest addition to William Fox's ever-increasing list of photoplay stars.

Miss Cooper will appear under the direction of R. A. Walsh, who staged "The Honor System," and who is, incidentally, Miss Cooper's husband.

In the role of "The Little Lady of the Flowers," the leading feminine part in "The Honor System," which will soon have its New York premiere, Miss Cooper gives a performance distinguished for its rare gentleness and delicacy.

It was while Mr. Walsh was filming this stupendous Fox picture that she and the director were wedded in Albuquerque, New Mexico, within the next fortnight, Miss Cooper—or Mrs. R. A. Walsh, if you choose, will begin work on the West coast on her first starring vehicle for Mr. Fox since "The Honor System."

The new Fox luminary enjoys the distinction of having had prominent parts in two other big productions, in each of which her splendid impersonations scored heavily.

She was the older sister in "Birth of a Nation" and the madalen in "Intolerance."

The most remarkable feature in Miss Cooper's career is probably the fact that she is entirely without any stage experience, despite the strength and the importance of the film roles she has had.

Miss Cooper was born in Baltimore, and divided her early years between habitation in her native city, in Virginia, and in western Maryland.

When she was twelve-years-old, her family moved to New York and Miss Cooper was educated at the Sacred Heart Convent and the Convent of the Holy Child.

In 1912, at the time so many of the big stars of today were undergoing their preliminary training, Miss Cooper made her affiliation with the screen. Her first production was "A Blot on the Scutcheon," for the old Reliance Majestic Company and she was only an extra.

In addition to the three big specials in which she has played, Miss Cooper has appeared in several subjects for Fine Arts.

Miss Cooper is considered one of the most attractive of all screen stars.

Mrs. F. E. Williams went to Detroit this morning to visit her aunt.

MARRIED

Timothy A. Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kelly, of near Crabtree, and Miss Hazel Reily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reily, of Crabtree, were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Miller on East First Street, just before noon today, by Rev. Schuster. After the ceremony they left for Portland and vicinity to be gone about a week.

Upon their return they expect to be at home to their friends on the Serling place near Thomas. The groom is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Miller of East First street.

Getting Most Out of the Storage Battery

The only way to get the most out of a storage battery in service and in length of life is to keep it fully charged, according to Mr. Preston of the local Willard Service Station.

"By far the greater number of repairs that we do on batteries," says Mr. Preston, "are necessary because the owners do not seem to have realized the necessity of keeping their batteries fully charged. It stands to reason that a half-charged battery cannot do work that requires the power of a fully charged battery and do it without doing some injury, any more than one man can do two men's work and do it regularly without hurting himself physically."

"A battery that is constantly half charged loses part of its capacity for renewal. The plates become hardened and no treatment will bring them back again to their first satisfactory condition."

"Keeping the battery undercharged, then, affects the owner in two ways. First, he does not get the satisfactory service from his battery that he would if it were fully charged, and second, the battery lasts much less than half as long as a fully charged one would. In other words, the owner is out in service and in money."

"The remedy is right in the car owner's own hands. He must have definite means of knowing whether his battery is being kept fully charged or not. This means that as regularly as he fills the battery with distilled water, he must test it with a hydrometer syringe. If he does this every two weeks at the outside, he knows enough about the condition of his battery to be able to have any trouble corrected in good season."

"For instance, if he is running his car under conditions that call for many stops, a great deal of energy for light and short runs, the battery is immediately affected for it must supply power for the cranking of the engine and for the lights, but the generator does not get a chance to return sufficient power to the battery to offset this drain."

"If the car owner does not make frequent tests of his battery he does not know this, and in a short time his battery is dead, or so exhausted that it is no longer able to perform its duties."

Full instructions on the care of batteries will be gladly given car owners at the Auto Electric Shop, 118 West Second St. (Adv.)

Mortgage Loans.

Have plenty of local money to loan on farms in amounts from $1000 to $2500; also have Eastern money, and can make loans in amounts ranging from $3500 to $10,000 on good cultivated farms in Linn or Benton counties for long time. No delays in obtaining the loan. See I. V. PIPE, 203 West First St.

A Mother's Sacrifice

Reconciles her with the daughter she has scarcely known. The mother is a calloused woman of the Alaskan dance-halls; the daughter an innocent convent girl of New England.
