ENGLISH MUNITIONS

Demands Britain "Come From Under the Table" With Its Naval Policy

Manchester, Eng., Jan. 16.—(By Mail)—The British Government's cancellation of the American $60,000,000 munitions contract justifies a stern British naval policy, the Manchester Daily Dispatch suggests editorially.

The cancellation means more than that Great Britain has overtaken her requirements in the way of becoming independent of American aid, the paper says.

"We do not undervalue American help in this war," it says. "Without it we should have been at a serious disadvantage. But America has provided us with munitions for the sake of our good graces. Every shell, every gun and every machine tool has had to be paid for, or will inevitably have to be, in goods or gold."

"But that is not all. Almost from the beginning of the war we have had it dinned into our ears that we must adopt a 'pusyfooted' gait in our exercise of seapower, lest we put up the backs of the Americans and cause them to cut down their supply of munitions. Now that we are getting into a position in which we can do without American help, it is to be hoped that our diplomacy will pluck up enough courage to come from under the table."

DEATH RUDOLPH SCHULTZ OLD ALBANY RESIDENT

Was Native of Germany, Coming to Albany About Thirty Years Ago.

Rudolph Schultz, an old and highly respected resident of the city, died this afternoon at his home on West Seventh street, at the age of 85 years, six months. He was born in Germany and came to the United States when a young man, residing for a number of years in the middle east, near Omaha. He came to Albany with his family about 30 years ago, and for a number of years was actively engaged in the meat business, afterwards carried on by his sons. For several years he has been retired, living a quiet life. He was a member of the Catholic church most of his life.

He leaves three sons, H. R. and E. W. Schultz of near Mitchell, Eastern Oregon, and Will Schultz of near Forest Grove, and two daughters, Mrs. Goff and Miss Anna Schultz, with whom he resided, and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

At press time arrangements had not been made for the funeral.

"THE LILAC DOMINO" MUSICAL EXTRAVAGANCE

Andreas Dippel presents "The Lilac Domino" at the Majestic Theatre, Corvallis, one night, Monday, Jan. 22. This production is conceded to be the most elaborate and altogether charming musical entertainment of many seasons. It is superlatively bright, breezy and clean, with a magnetic attraction for all ranks of society. In New York, Boston and Chicago prominent leaders of society engaged boxes for the entire engagement last season and theater parties were of nightly occurrence. It has been said that the customers are a fashion show in themselves, being up to date in style and magnificent in quality. There is a great dancing exhibit. The whole gamut is run from the Russian ballet to the modern society steps. In fact, every approved and tested element of musical production has been included in this one stupendous production; yet no feature is allowed such prominence as to detract from the exquisite score and the genuine musical excellence of the piece. No music lover can afford to miss it and no lover of brisk, mirth provoking comedy will.

Mrs. Harry M. Hawkins, of Salem, spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Taylor.

"It is up to the Willamette Valley to cultivate the Portland markets. It is certain that Portland will not come to the valley growers. They must convince the market that their produce is the equal or superior of anything that is being shipped in from California and other states, and when this is done there will be no trouble in selling close at hand."

"I know these things. You don't see the farmers around here picking up small change like the farmers around Baltimore and Washington when I was a boy, and as they are still doing. They let all of that stuff go to waste. There are too many hands for the products to pass through and when it leaves the farmers here the price is too low and when it reaches the consumer it is too high. It is simply up to the farmers to remedy these conditions by selling more direct, cutting off a lot of middle men and getting a reasonable price for what they grow and getting it to the consumer at a price that they can afford to pay.

"These are some of the things that Mr. Paulhamus does. You can tell your readers for me that I have seen his work, our company can judge it by actual freight receipts, which mean greater profits in the hands of the producers, and if Albany has a chance to grab him and let him go it will be the mistake of a lifetime."
