CONCERNING TIGHTWADS

Salem Journal: Under the caption: "Tightwad Committee," the Oregon Voter indulges in a light vein in some comments on the individual characteristics of the makeup of the Ways and Means committees of the senate and house. As an example of persiflage and badinage it is as is most of the Voter's comments in that line, both instructive and amusing. However, some injustice is done Marion county's hard headed Senator Alec LaFollette. After discussing that senator's ideas of economy it says of him that: "in fact he objects to paying any taxes at all." As a matter of fact LaFollette is one of the heaviest taxpayers in the county, and he looks upon the paying of taxes just as he does on money he spends in his private business. It is not the paying of taxes that Alec objects to, but the paying of unnecessary taxes. He wants the people to get a real equivalent for the money they pay in the shape of taxes, just as he wants value received for money he expends himself.

Anyone who will take a look at the splendid peach orchards, the well kept barns and buildings on the LaFollette farms will realize that he spends his money freely to get the best, and to produce the best. At the same time he does not waste a dollar. When he spends a dollar he wants 100 cents in return. He has the same old fashioned ideas about public business. He wants the state to get value received for every dollar it expends especially if it expends it on his advice and with his help.

As to this trait the state would be better off if there were more legislators as careful about state expenditures as is Alec LaFollette. It is possible the other members of the senate committee on Ways and Means are as "tight wads" as LaFollette, but the picture of the committee with: "medals for stinginess adorning their chests, trophies of defunct institutions ornamenting their triumphs, scalps of assassinated salaries dangling from their belts and the blood of slaughtered appropriations dripping from their busy knives," is as Mark Twain said about the statement that he was dead: "Slightly exaggerated." It may be a correct picture of what will be at the end of the session, but at present it is premature. So far there are no scalps and no signs of blood, while the dead institutions and slaughtered appropriations are not in evidence. Instead the institutions are not only alive but clamorous; the salaries so far have not been touched and the appropriations are going to take every cent the law allows the legislature to make, even with the six per cent increase over last year. The truth of the matter is that the ways and means committees of the two houses are up against the real thing. They have the job of paring, cutting down and perhaps doing some assassinating on the side, that they are not hankering for. They have the job of cutting somewhere and no matter where it is the institution, board, commission or even useless graft that feels the knife or gets the axe, will become vociferous in condemnation, and soul-barrowing in its ululations. Whatever the committees do they will be the target for all the dead cats and rotten eggs, so to speak, of the English language. The committees are up against it and no matter what they do they will be in the condition described in the old rhyme: "You shall and you shant, You must and you cant, You will and you wont, You'll be damned if you do, And be damned if you don't."

MISFITS

Billy Sunday and his corps of 20 or 30 helpers received an offering at Boston of $50,828.64, which will cause some people to hang their tongue out. Genius is entitled to pay. Henry Ford makes that every day, and Rockefeller in less than a day; but if a man with the power to help save souls gets a few thousand dollars for working like a fiend for a month or two, it is awful.

The number of trail hitters was 33,716.

Sunday is a great man, dead in earnest. He uses some slang, to secure an audience; but he delivers the Gospel goods and gets results.

He whacks booze at full speed, and that doesn't suit some.

Speaking of money the Schwab works, called Bethlehem, why, we give 't up, have just cut a $30,000,000 plum, some of it made by helping to promote a great European war.

A little while ago Schwab was sending out letters all over the country, several a week, appealing for aid to stop the government making its own armament, else he would be ruined.

On the side Schwab writes magazine articles telling young men how to get on in the world.

He started down and acroplaned thru executive genius, and other young men have a chance to do the same.

It is easy to put things on paper. Any chump can tell others how to do things; but a certain nerve is necessary for success, a something it is difficult to explain, for which there can be laid down no rule.

Corvallis Fire Alarms

Corvallis has already had nine fire alarms this year. The G-T says the firemen are earning their pay. They serve for nothing.
