LAST OF SEASON'S VAUDEVILLE AT GLOBE TONIGHT

With tonight's vaudeville offering at the Globe Theatre, the season for Hippodrome Tour B will close in Albany. Sixteen bills have been presented here in the last four months, and the manner in which the theatre-going public hastened to Manager Meyer's offerings bespeaks their approval.

Tour B has been a success. Plans are already under way for a bigger and better tour next year, and the acts which will be sent out of Chicago for a tour of the smaller cities of the West will be even better than the ones this year. And yet, many of the acts which have appeared in this city this winter have gone on to the Orpheum, Pantages and other circuits after leaving here.

Tonight Manager Meyer offers three sparkling acts with a five-reel Paramount picture and a two-reel L-Ko comedy. DeFay and Alfredo, the two hicks from Hickville, are an infectious pair with pleasing rural comedy. It is a novelty creation with a delightful blending of mirth and music. Miss DeFay's imitations are a special feature and assure a hearty laugh.

Miss Lee Yoke, Chinese character singer, will render a number of popular and classical vocal numbers. There is much to admire in her volume and flexibility of the singer's upper register and precision of delivery.

There is an air of finish and class to the offering of the Misses La Varde and Wilson. Their opening number, the Blue Bird, is done to harmony and graceful action. Miss Wilson follows with an artistic dance and Miss La Varde with a solo. The concluding number, a medley with saxophone and voice, is decidedly pleasing.

Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgeley in "The Yellow Pawn" will delight in the five reel Paramount picture, which has to do with the artist life in the fashionable Bohemian set in New York City, and deals with the love affair between the wife of a district attorney and a famous painter.

Defendants in the case of William Schneider against M. Keel has been filed.
