OUR FOREST FIRES

Work of Uncle Sam in Preventing and Fighting Them.

RIGID RULES FOR CAMPERS.

The Permit System Has Been a Big Factor in Checking the Destruction of Trees—How the Alert Rangers Discover and Locate a Blaze.

Eternal vigilance is the watchword of the forest service of the United States in preventing and fighting forest fires. August and September are rated the critical time when forest fires are most numerous and disastrous. These are the driest months of the year on the Pacific slope, and in consequence the grass and brush in the forests are tinder dry and offer the least resistance to fire.

Throughout the dry season, which begins about April and extends through the early part of November, according to the latitude of the different states, the forest service of the department of agriculture increases its working forces until it has a host of men throughout the ranges over on the alert for fires. These additional forces augment the regular range force, which is on duty the year round.

High up on some lonely peak, far from the centers of civilization, stands a high watchtower that daily is the post of a forest ranger, who, with powerful binoculars and telescope, is on the lookout for the thin, telltale banner of vapor that tells his own story of the fight ahead to the watcher. On other peaks there are similar watchtowers, and the watchers here, too, may mark the rising column of smoke from afar. All report to a central station, where the fire is accurately located.

At each watchtower there is a circular map of the district within the view of that particular tower. By triangulation on this map the watcher notes the direction of the fire from his tower. The other watchtowers do the same, and all report to the central station these various directions. Where the triangulation lines meet on the great map of the central station there the fire is. It is a simple and yet a most effective method. The fire located, the fighting forces of the district are mobilized and the battle begins. It may be short, and it may last for weeks, but it is fought none the less relentlessly.

Stretching in every direction from the central ranger stations are miles of telephone and telegraph wires that are used in time of danger to mobilize the fire fighting army. Once the call has been made they come from every direction prepared to combat the common enemy. Frequently these fires occur within a short distance from small villages and towns, and then the problem becomes more complex, in that the homes, once aflame, are extinguished with greater difficulty.

There is no use talking folks. Sale or no sale at The other stores, you can always do better at The Golden Rule. This remark was made by a customer in our store yesterday. And its true. All we ask is a chance to prove it. Why shouldn't it be? Buying for our 175 busy stores for spot cash, direct from the maker, eliminating all middle men's profits and our modern selling methods. Why not? Think it over.
