DISFITS

By F. P. Nutting

A very pleasant experience along the way was a visit with Dr. and Mrs. N. E. Winnard's son Norton, who was born in Albany almost 17 years ago, and daughter, Charlotte, including a fine Sunday dinner at their home. The Doctor is enjoying a large practice, with a splendid reputation in surgical work. He has made five or six trips East for special work and leave again this week for Rochester, Minn. Mrs. Winnard will be remembered by older Albany residents as a member of the famous Ladies' Octet of fifteen years or more ago, and continues to be interested in musical affairs. Certainly a charming family as well as hospitable people.

I have seen the path of the noted flood, and have made up my mind I would not enjoy being in one.

Passed over the bridge Saturday which was the cause of two railroad men being drowned, or rather killed last week. Men were dragging the small muddy stream at the time for the body of one of them, not yet found.

Other former people from Albany who have prospered there are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Huston, and Mr. and Mrs. Case. Mrs. Case was formerly Miss Winnie Stafford. There are also five young cases.

Van Martin, a former prominent U. O. athlete, friend of the Bigbee boys, was there, and will leave in a few days for Ketchikan, Alaska, to work for the Standard Oil company.

AND A SIX-YEAR OLD LED THEM

Last evening a member of the O. A. C. faculty lectured before the Crabtree Community club in Linn county. Inasmuch as the lecture took place in the Methodist church, it was decided to open the exercises with scriptural reading. But there was no Bible, the pastor was away, and only one present who volunteered to repeat a chapter from the Bible. He was one of the youngest Sunday school pupils. He arose and repeated the twenty-first Psalm much to the surprise and delight of the audience. This six-year-old was little Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Hollenberg, formerly of Corvallis. He is a neighbor of Prof. J. H. Belknap, and the grandson of the late Edwin M. Belknap, the first instructor of Mechanical Arts in the Oregon Agricultural College. And if we guess right, this representative of the third generation—at the rate he is going—will some day be connected with the College also.—Corvallis Times.

UNDER THE FLAG WE LOVE

By D. F. Newland, Shedd
Don't stand against the land that feeds you
With manna from above,
We live in the land of brave and true
Under the flag we love.
The fathers fought to make men free
The sons will fight again
To live in a land of liberty
With dear old Uncle Sam.
No King shall tower above the world
To be our boss for life
The flag of Free men is unfurled
And we are in the strife.
No man shall call us cowards here,
Red blood flows in each vein;
So like boldly at the growing fear
No King o'er the world to reign.

Germany's characteristic thoroughness is best demonstrated in its overwhelming onslaught against a defenseless landscape.—Newark News.
