THE HOME MERCHANT

Who is he?
He is the chap who gives you credit when you are financially broke, and carries your account until you are able to pay—

He is the chap who gives you back your money, or makes exchange when you are not satisfied with what you have bought—

He is the chap who stands behind his guaranty and makes restoration of all losses that you may sustain on the goods you buy—

He is the chap who meets you at the door with a handshake, and lets you out with a message to the kids and a real come-back again goodbye—

He is the chap who greets you on the street every day in the year and takes a neighborly interest in your family and your affairs—

He is the chap whose clerks and bookkeepers and other employees live in your town and spend their money with you and with other home town people—

He is the chap who pays heavy taxes to help support your town schools and build your streets, and maintain your fire departments and police departments, and parks, and fighting and water service—

He is the chap who helps support your cities, churches and hospitals and charity organizations and your lodges and commercial clubs, and who talks for your town, and boosts for your town every day in the year—

He is the chap who visits you when you are sick, sends flowers to your family when you die, and follows your body out among the trees and tombs, as far as human feet may tread with the dead—

He is the Home Merchant—your neighbor—your friend—your helper in time of need—

Don't you think you ought to trade with him, and be his friends and helper in HIS time of need?

Don't you know that every dollar that you send out of your town for merchandise is sent to strangers—to men who have never spent a dollar in your town?

You don't save much, frequently nothing, when you send your money out of town, and don't you know that the growth and prosperity of your town depends very largely upon the success and prosperity of the home merchants? Out-of-town people judge our city by the appearance of our stores and the degree of enterprise shown by our merchants, and our home merchants cannot succeed unless home folks give them loyal support.—Oregon Voter.

"REDSKIN REMBRANDT" IS FOUND AMONG BLACKFEET

A "Redskin Rembrandt" is said to have been discovered in the person of Lone Wolf, a young Blackfoot Indian, whose paintings depicting the wonders of the Apache country are declared by New York critics to be worthy of a place in the galleries of the Nation. Roland Conklin of New York is the Indian's latest patron and recently purchased a series of studies in oil made from Roosevelt Lodge, the new hotel which is being constructed by the Southern Pacific company for the purpose of enabling tourists to see this Arizona wonderland.

Lone Wolf is highly educated and has spent his life in preparing himself to perpetuate on canvas the American Indian and God's color room. It is said that his original paints were made from natural color clays. He still uses his thumb in lieu of a brush for obtaining remarkable cloud effects.
