Chautauqua is attracting Albany folk this week and again teas and bridge are forgotten in the attraction of the splendid lectures and musical numbers on the Chautauqua program. Many are taking advantage of the delightful camping places under the trees and are domiciled in tents for Chautauqua week. Those enjoying the Chautauqua camping are the Beta Gamma's including Ruth Rawlings, Fay King, Edda Pettibone, La Verne Hofflich, Velma Anthony, Aletha Cummings, and Frances Pettibone, the W. C. T. U., the Ladies of the Methodist church, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Briggs, the Jack Minton, Mrs. Walter B. Chance and family, and Mrs. Edith Robnett (Halsey).

The George T. Hockinsmith home on Ferry and Ninth streets, was the scene of an exceptionally pretty wedding on Sunday when Miss Hazel Alene, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hockinsmith, was given in marriage to James Ewing of Heppner. The wedding was solemnized at one o'clock, Rev. George Henry Young of the First Baptist church performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Ewing is one of the most charming girls in the younger set of Albany and is an accomplished musician, being proficient both on the piano and as an organist.

Mr. Ewing is a graduate of Willamette Law school at Salem and was admitted to the bar shortly after his graduation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewing are making their home in La Grande where Mr. Ewing is stationed with Company M, of Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cusick, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ralston, Mrs. Alton Coates, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, Miss Flora Mason, Miss Carolyn Cannon and Miss Isabelle Young motored to Nehalem on Sunday where they met Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts of Salem. A picnic dinner was enjoyed under the trees.

Miss Margaret Cathey was hostess for one of the most attractive affairs of the week at a dancing party on Wednesday night honoring her house guest, Miss Ardath Greene of Portland. The spacious rooms were artistically adorned with roses and other garden blooms of delicate pink, and the vine-covered veranda was hung with Japanese lanterns. Guests invited to meet the charming honoree were Miss Marion Anderson, Miss Isabelle Young, Miss Carolyn Cannon, Miss Beatrice Sanders, Miss Florence Fortmiller, Miss Rita Medin, Miss Dorothy Walker, Miss Sally Cusick, Miss Virginia Rathbone, Miss Wilma Junkin, Miss Eleanor Robson, Miss Anne Dawson, Mr. Hubert Fortmiller, Mr. Ralph Hecker, Mr. Elmo Robnett, Mr. Beverly Taylor, Mr. Bernard Kropp, Mr. Will Bowden, Mr. Albert Rousseau, Mr. Ray Taylor, Mr. Roy Harris, Mr. Elwood Anderson and Mr. Lee Hulbert.

Miss Gladys Gilbert was hostess to the Queen Esther girls of the Methodist church on Monday evening at her home on Fourth street. The time was spent in games and fancy work after which a dainty lunch was served, by the hostess.

The meeting of the Pythian Sisters was held at the lodge hall on Tuesday afternoon. After a pleasant social dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Roland Hackleman delightfully entertained the members of the Neos Nymph club Wednesday afternoon at her attractive home near Hackle man's grove. The rooms were attractively decked in roses and other garden flowers and during the afternoon ices were served on the lawn under the oaks.

Mrs. Victor Yates of Oakville, was hostess for a delightful party Thursday afternoon. The rooms were artistically decorated with roses and sweet peas carrying out a lovely color scheme of pink. During the afternoon the hostess announced that a mystery was hidden somewhere and a search of the rooms revealed a little doll bride in a bouquet of roses and on her dress a card announcing the engagement of Bertha Lois Yates and Elmer Shearer. The musical program included piano solos by Mesdames Booth, Cunningham and Yates, and Miss Meda Brown, vocal solos by Mrs. G. G. Wilson and Miss Lois Yates. Miss Gertrude Swank assisted by Alice Wachendorf, Amanda Wiberg, and Madeline Shibley served delicious refreshments after which the guests each wrote a favorite recipe for the bride-elect.

The guests were Mesdames G. G. Wilson, J. McConnell, C. W. Yates, Robt. Lindley, Otto Stocton, E. P. Cunningham, Miles Booth, Trumper and Misses Gertrude Swank, Frances Kaker (Portland), Nell Holstein, Meda Brown, Susie Davis, Isabelle Hamilton, Ida and Jennie Viney and Alice and Erma Wachendorf, Lois Yates, Amanda Wiberg, Madeline Shibley.

The Misses Agnes and Dora Dickerson entertained for the Blue Flower Club of Grace church, Tuesday evening, at their home, two miles east of Albany. After a very delicious lunch a business meeting was held and the following officers were elected: President, Agnes Dickson; Vice President, Amy Ross; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. I. G. Knotts. The members attending rode out with Dora Dickerson at four o'clock and returned at about nine o'clock, after having had a most delightful time.

The Ladies' Rural Club spent a very enjoyable afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jim Cochran. The house was prettily decked with roses and other attractive garden flowers and the spacious veranda screened in with vines made a particularly delightful and cool place for the serving of the delicious ices and cakes. Those enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Cochran were Mrs. U. G. Smith, Mrs. Bob Fisher, Mrs. D. W. Shirley, Mrs. V. May, Mrs. Ed School, Mrs. Nathan Barber, Mrs. N. Schrode, Mrs. Urban Schrode, Mrs. Gordon Pike, Mrs. Gordon Pike, Mrs. Robert Conn, Mrs. Elma McFarland, Mrs. Charles Shon, Miss Mary Jordan, Miss Gladys May, Miss Nora Ashton, Miss Hazel Ashton, Mrs. Ralph Floop, Miss Marion Floop.

Mrs. E. E. Warford who has her house guest, her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. F. Baker, of Des Moines, Iowa, was the recipient of a pleasant surprise Tuesday evening when a number of friends called to spend the evening. "500" was played at three tables and at a late hour refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake and fruit punch were served. Those enjoying Mrs. Warford's hospitality were Mrs. J. F. Baker (Des Moines, Iowa), Mrs. F. C. Pate, Mrs. A. Austin, Mrs. A. Bowers, Mrs. Frank Horsky, Mrs. G. C. McClure, Mrs. C. W. Sears, Mrs. E. M. Merrill and daughter, and the Misses Emma and Clara Buchner.

One of the most delightful affairs of the week was the party honoring Mrs. Clara Clark for which Mrs. John Neely and Miss Eva Hughes were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Neely Wednesday evening. The rooms were attractively decorated with brilliantly colored garden blossoms and the spacious veranda was transformed into a Japanese Garden where tables were arranged for bridge and 500. The guests enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Neely and Miss Hughes were Mr. and Mrs. M. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Essey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ward, Miss Bessie Morris, Miss Zora Trask, Miss Zella Burkhardt, Mrs. Clara Clark, Mr. Ed Barrett, Mr. E. F. Goetting.

Miss Irene Barrett was hostess for an attractive party on Tuesday night when she entertained some of the younger set at a buffet supper in honor of her house-guest, Miss Lucille Lauchary of Dallas. The guest list included Miss Dorothy Lee, Miss Helen Livengood, Miss Ethel Bussard, Miss Anna Hofflich, Miss Lucille Longbottom, Mrciel Austin.

Charming in every detail was the party on Friday night for which Miss Greta Fortmiller was hostess at the William Fortmiller home on West Fifth streets. Pink sweet peas and maiden-hair fern in baskets and Shasta daisies arranged in graceful bouquets decked the attractive rooms where Sally Cusick, Florence Fortmiller, and Virginia Rathbone, served a delicious repast at small tables which were graced with pink garden blossoms. Hidden in tiny gold baskets topped with tulle-bows were tiny cards bearing the announcement of Miss Greta Fortmiller's engagement to Raloh R. Cronise, the marriage to take place sometime in September.

PROHIBITION IN RUSSIA

By William G. Shepherd
United Press Staff Correspondent
Petrograd, June 12.—(By Mail)—
Russia never has been dry.

Under the old censorship days of czarism no correspondent would have been permitted to send this fact to the outside world. But now the truth may be told.

The Russian government officials discovered that it pleased the czar greatly to be placed before the outside world as being the sponsor of prohibition in Russia and they did all they could in the way of giving out erroneous impressions as to the extent of the dry wave in Russia.

Russia did go dry—for the peasants. But the czar's famous prohibition law was so arranged that any man with money enough could get all the liquor he desired. The government manufacture of vodka was stopped and a law was passed prohibiting the sale of any liquor containing more than 3 per cent of alcohol. The importation of wine did not cease.

The price of champagne went up to $25 a bottle with other prices in proportion. The popular cabarets, hotels, and restaurants served wines and China pitchers and China cups, but everywhere the man with money was able to have all his liquor orders filled to his smallest whim.

Foreigners were permitted to purchase all liquors in the shops provided they presented permits to purchase issued by their embassies. There was no law of any kind that prevented a citizen from having liquor on his premises or from drinking it.

The revolution, which put the Workmen and Soldiers committee in to power, practically made Russia dry for the first time. Today a few daring hotel keepers will sell a bottle of cognac for from twenty-five to forty-dollars or a small bottle of ordinary claret for from ten to fifteen. The importation of any sort of potable alcohol has ceased and the high price of liquor is really due to its scarcity in the country. Russia is rapidly becoming "bone dry."

There is no doubt in the minds of Russians that their revolution was practically bloodless because it was practically boozeless. There are some Russian leaders who say that it was the absence of alcohol that made the revolution possible. A drunken sodden Russia of the old type could never have aroused itself to real revolt as this Russia has done. A socialist leader said to me:

"One of the greatest mistakes the czar ever made was to force the peasants to sober up. He took the peasants and made them sober; he gave them good clothes in the way of military uniforms and he gave each peasant a rifle and taught him how to shoot. He thought he was turning the peasants into soldiers but they remained peasants at heart. When the right time came these sobered peasants turned their guns on him."
