BULLET MAKING REPLACES BISCUIT BAKING NOW

Maids Who Once Pushed Baby Carriages Are Now Pushing Gun Carriages

(By Margaret Mason. Written for the United Press)

Oh, Bridget is making munitions. And Hulda the mountains dot, roam. While Liza makes tracks for the sea shore.

We're left in a servantless home. This is the season of the year when newest styles in cooks and the latest effects in second maids and waitresses are agitating the female mind much more than the dernier cri in bonnets and blouses.

When Tilly begins to burn the griddle cakes and mope around with a misunderstanding expression in her lambent orbs then you may as well hit the trail to the Employment Agency at once. For Tilly has begun to feel the yearning for the Great Outdoors. She hears the sad sea waves calling and the whisper of the pines.

For ten years I have spent my so-called summers in my city flat. No one ever said to me "Wilt thou fly with me to some cool grove?" So I just had to stay put and do all by willing right in my happy little home. Not so Maggie, Minna or whoever happened to be breaking my china at the moment.

As soon as the first signs of spring were noticed they gave their notice. They packed their trunks and hid them to some mountain, field or seaside resort while I became queen of the home and serf of the stove and the sink as a last resort. Can you beat it? No, but they always did and still do.

Now that munition factories are added as an equal lure to the siren call of the summer resort, times are doubly hard for our erstwhile happy homes. Treasures of our domestic menage are now wrested from without the kitchen range of our affections to fill shrapnel shells instead of pastry shells. Biscuit making has given away to bullet making and the hands that once pushed the baby carriage are now busy doing the same for the gun carriage and making bombs to scream through the air while our heirs scream nameless at home.

To make the worst of it servant styles left to choose from never offered less diversity before. There are but few imported models being used this season owing to the difficulty of transportation. Some of our most servicable little German effects can no longer be obtained and there is only a scant showing of Swedish, County Clare and Hungarian model maids. Naturally a domestic isn't in it with the imported article but even a "made in America maid" is going at a premium these days.

Really the best all around model for general housework is a Santhero model. It is built on generous lines (Mason and Dixon mostly) and is worn very dark this season. It is excellent for cooking and really shouldn't mind the heat. One of this model let known as "The Virginian" is particularly smart, wears well and is guaranteed fast black.

Have you a little Finn in your home? If you contemplate getting one pick it young. A Finn is always much better at the flipper stage.

Finns are especially handy at handling round the hash and besides they sort of add an extra finish.

Swedish models are scarce, ay, there's the rub, but if you can succeed in snaring one you will find them great for massaging the dishes and rubbing down the furniture and up the silver.

We have gone in so extravagantly for everything Chinese this year that it seems only meet we should follow up Oriental lines to the chief cook and bottle washer. A Chinese servant is a chink through which one bright ray of light is let in on our dark servant problem. A Japanese is sure to please. With one of these you'll live at ease. A Japanese man and wife are a pair to draw to and two of a kind that are hard to beat.

But is really won't do to be too fussy about your maidservant or your man servant this season. You mustn't mind if their complexion doesn't go with your wall paper or their style conflicts with your period furniture.

You'll be lucky if you have any waiter except a dumb waiter or any cook but a fireless cooker.

Ruth Chatterton may think she is the only one who is starring in "Come Out of the Kitchen" this season—but there are others.

CONVICT SLEEPS ON JOB

Tacoma, Ore., July 23.—Because he went to sleep on the job, John Flynn, ex-convict and burglar, is in jail here today.

Flynn entered the home of Jock Ryan, and ransacked the house. Mrs. Ryan came home. She saw a pair of tan shoes sticking from the bed. Her husband's shoes are all black. She called the police and Flynn was put under arrest. The only loot found in Flynn's possession was a ring containing a small diamond.

CITY NEWS

Motors to Salem—

Frank Rhodes motored to Salem for a short visit with friends. While there Mr. Rhodes was the guest of the Lundy's of the Pacific Telephone company.

"Nigger George" Injured—

"Nigger" George Fletcher, who won the bucking horse championship saddle at the Albany Round-Up this month, was injured Saturday on the last day of the Western Round-Up at Centralia, Wash. He was thrown against a fence and for a time it was thought that he was seriously injured. The injuries proved to be cuts and bruises and Fletcher will be out of the hospital in a few days. George was one of the most skillful riders at the Albany Round-Up and the decision of the judges to give him the broncho buster saddle was a popular one. After the announcement the proud coon raced around the track with hat waving in the air amid the thunderous applause of the crowd.

Public Market Painted—

The public market, which adorns the corner of Fourth and Ferry St., has been improved with a coat of white paint put on through the courtesy of Cyrus Walker, one of Linn County's most public-spirited citizens. Mr. Walker, although nearly 79 years old, did the work himself, and received not only the thanks of the Grange, but of the neighbors in the vicinity of the building.

Motion to Modify—

Motion to modify Conclusions of Law and Decree in the case of Chas. Cawrac, Sr., et al. against Santiam Flour Colony et al. was filed today. Plaintiffs desire to have decision amended in order that they may sell mortgaged premises.
