Safety First.
I was returning home the other evening about 6:20 o'clock when I saw Tommy, my neighbor's boy, playing with a crowd of other boys. I knew that his family always had supper at 6 o'clock sharp, so I said, "If you 5 cents you'll find your supper, Tommy."
He grinned up at me slyly and replied: "Then you lose your bet, 'cause I got the chops right here with me Ma sent me for 'em at 5 o'clock." Everybody's Magazine.

Too Mean a Trick.
"See here: I wrote and asked you when you were going to pay that old account and even enclosed a stamp, but you never answered."
"My dear sir, wouldn't it have been a mean trick to use your own stamp to disappoint you?"

A Warning.
"Don't be too ready to lundy wit with a chemist."
"Why not with a chemist?"
"Because he always has a ready report."—Baltimore American

OUR FIRST WATER WAGON.

A Prohibition Petition That Saw the Light Here in 1881.

The water wagon started on its journey through this country longer ago than most persons realize. I offer you as a proof of this assertion a copy of a quaint document that had its birth in the month of April in the year 1881, says Girard in the Philadelphia Ledger.

This old document is in the form of a petition to a royal governor signed by twelve men who were determined that the brewers' big horses shouldn't run over them and reads as follows:

"Whereas, we, ye inhabitants of ye new Seated Towne near ye falls of Delaware called Crevecoeur, finding our selves aggrieved by ye Indians when drunk, informed that wee be and have been in great danger of our lives, of our houses burning, of our goods stealing and of our Wives and Children affrighting inasmuch that wee are afeard to go about our Lawful affairs lest when we come home we finde yon and our conveniences damaged.

"These things considered, wee doe humbly & jointly desire that the selling of brandy and strong liquors to ye Indians may be wholly suppressed, when if dothe wee hope wee shall live peaceably."

A Bit of Human Nature.
The other day a husky and rather rough looking driver was having trouble with his horse and, suddenly losing his temper, started to beat him. A number of men rushed toward him with the intention of stopping him when his arms were suddenly arrested in midair. The would be rescuers closed, too, and looked. Standing close by the man was a little girl, of not more than four years—just looking—looking. Not a word was spoken, no ten could describe the look on the little one's face, but the heavy driver stopped his beating and spoke kindly to his horse. Strangely, too, the horse moved, and there was no trace of the driver's tan, a few damp eyes among the spectators and a happy smile on the little girl's face.—Philadelphia Press.
