OAK CREEK DRAINAGE DISTRICT HOLDS MEETING

Objections Heard by County Court This Afternoon to Proposed Improvement

A meeting of the property owners of the Oak Creek drainage district met with the county court this afternoon to present arguments for and objections to the proposed improvement.

The meeting held this afternoon was called by the court according to law for the purpose named. They will take the evidence under consideration and investigate the feasibility thoroughly.

Upon their decision will depend whether or not the project which will drain some 10,000 acres of land, will be put through. The full text of the improvement was published in Saturday's Democrat.

The sentiment of the majority of those attending the meeting seemed to be against the improvement. Many state that they would be willing to see it go through, but that under present plans the project stops too soon and would allow the drained water to stop on level land and back up on other property.

RECRUITING METHODS DIFFER FROM FORMER YEARS

Washington, August 13.—A letter dated in 1799 from the Marine Corps recruiting officer to the then Commandant of that Corps, setting forth some of the recruiting methods of that time, was made public at Marine Corps headquarters today. Comparison of present day recruiting activities with those of the 18th century is interesting.

Lieut. Hall's letter reads: "I purpose this week to open rendezvous in different parts of the country and make frolic to draw the people together which I think will have a good effect. There are some in jail whom I could get out by paying the sum of $12. Do you think I would be safe in advancing it?"

Present day recruiting officers require declarations from accepted men that they have never been convicted of any crime.

Kansas Car that Has Traveled
268,646 Miles Passes on Exhibition Run

Running right on the dot on a schedule prepared four months ago at Detroit, the Hyatt Roller, the old Buick touring car which is making a tour of the country from Detroit, arrived in the city this morning. The car put in at the Irvin garage on Broadalbin street, took on a little gas and oil and left precisely 11 o'clock, for Salem, the hour stated on the schedule.

Driving the car is H. E. Armstrong, partner of F. E. Slason of Plainville, Kansas, owner of the car, and is in charge of W. E. Bigger of Detroit, advertising manager of the Hyatt-Detroit Roller Bearing Co.

Up to the time of its arrival at the Irvin garage the sturdy old car had traveled a total of 268,646 miles, equal to about 33 years of ordinary service, and equal to more than 10 times around the earth. It has worn out over 300 tires valued at more than $800, and has used at least 18,000 gallons of gasoline. It has done all kinds of service, starting as a touring car, then being in the express and service, motor livery, trucking and other lines of occupation. It has also won many stock car races at county fairs and has a record of 70 miles an hour.

Messrs Biggs and Armstrong left over the Pacific Highway for Salem, and were met on the road by Otto Wilson, Salem dealer for the Buick auto.

The police were sent after him and it was found that the horse was badly cut and bruised and was bleeding from the effects of the treatment.

In the absence of Justice of the Peace L. L. Swan the man was taken before Judge Lewelling, ex-officio Justice, and given a fine of $7.50 and costs. He refused to pay the fine and was placed in the county jail for three days to reflect on the treatment given the horse.
