LOYAL LABOR

The employes of the League Island Navy Yard in New York have set a fine example to American labor. There were urgent efforts made to get them to strike, at a time when such action would have seriously crippled the government's war preparations. Instead of striking, they addressed to the secretary of the navy a manifesto which as an expression of industrial patriotism is a model. "We desire," they said, "to stimulate all others to the fullest performance of their duty to the country at this time. We promise to stand by you shoulder to shoulder in carrying out measures for the development of our navy. We promise to notify our superiors of any indication of disloyalty on the part of any employee working for the government. With the fullest confidence that our country is in the right in this war, and relying on the wisdom of President Wilson, we earnestly pray for a speedy success for our cause, and we pledge you by our work to do our full share toward the victory which will ultimately be ours."

This utterance no doubt breathes the spirit of the great majority of workmen in every important industry connected with the war. Many bodies of workmen however, have let themselves be misrepresented or misled by unwise or unpatriotic leaders. For their own interests, as well as the interests of the nation, they should heed the inspiring words of their New York brethren. Strikes at this time are not only treacherous, but suicidal. They help the enemy, they prevent or postpone the triumph of principles which nearly all workmen profess to believe in, and they threaten the existence of the very unionism in whose name they are called.

We want no labor wars dragging the nation down in the midst of its great war for human freedom and opportunity. We want loyal service from all classes of citizens.

Friendly adjustment of industrial disputes is easily possible when workmen are seeking no undue privilege or advantage. The government, which has almost limitless authority, does not want to use its authority harshly. It is ready to deal fairly with all who deal fairly with it. But fairness there must be, on the part of labor just as on the part of capital. The capitalists are now being forced to do their part. Their wealth is not allowed to go on strike. Their profits are being confiscated for war expenses. Their plants are commandeered. Their personal services are requisitioned. The cry that "wealth must serve" has been met. There must be no holding back now on the part of labor.

HOLLEY FARMER MAKES MODERN METHODS PAY

That modern methods and hard work will make Linn county farm land pay a good rate of interest on the investment is indicated by the experience of Chas. Hand of Holley. Mr. Hand purchased the old Wright place located near Holley some time ago when it was earning its owner practically no revenue. He took short courses at the Oregon Agricultural College and adopted the methods taught in that institution in handling his land. The rotation of crops was one of his hobbies and he is now cleaning up the sum of $2500 per annum. He is a great believer in the money value of a crop of rape. He asserts that one acre of rape will fatten 400 pounds of pork which at present prices is worth $60 thus making a good profit on an acre of land.

Two Causes.

Of course unhappiness is the cause of divorce, and much of the unhappiness is due to the circumstance that the wife has nothing to do at home in the daytime and the husband has entirely too much to do downtown at night.—Houston Post.

Counting a Billion.

An expert money counter of the United States treasury can count 4,000 silver dollars an hour, or 32,000 a day. At that rate it is figured that it would take him 102 years to count a billion.
