MUST SAVE FOODS

More wheat, more sugar, and more pork must be saved.

This is the edict of the U. S. food administration, and the new "Home Card," which will be sent out from Washington within the next few days will outline a new schedule, with further restrictions on the use of these three staples. The new card is to replace, in some 13,000,000 kitchens of the United States, the original home card which was given out when 43,000,000 housewives signed the food administration's conservation pledge about two months ago.

W. B. Ayer, Federal Food Administrator for Oregon, announces that these new "Home Cards" will be ready for distribution in this state next month, and that simultaneously with the adoption of the new schedule of wheatless and porkless days in the home, the new restrictions will apply to all hotels, restaurants, cafeterias and boarding houses.

REAL PROGRESS

America, Great Britain, France and Italy are now for the first time in complete agreement as to their big war aims. The smaller allies are heartened by definite pledges of what their big brothers in the fight mean to obtain for them. Russia's recent hostility to her former allies has been modified a little by the president's attitude, and is likely to change into more friendly understanding and some degree of cooperation as the lesson sinks home.

Thus it is clear that President Wilson's pronouncement of peace terms has been a notable success. The allies are now a unit diplomatically. It remains only to bring about complete unity economically and militarily. The allied governments are working hard to that purpose. When it is effected, the victorious end will be in sight.

And meanwhile in Germany itself we may be sure that the leaven of our democratic principles and purposes is working. Present suffering and discontent tend to hasten the process. It may be that the new ferment of freedom will be found permeating the German nation by the time the allies are ready for their most effective effort. And when conditions are thus ripe without and within Germany, there will soon be a conclusion of the war, freeing the world definitely from fear of any repetition of the nightmare.

We are now moving toward that happy conclusion.

PRESIDENT WILSON

Hailed as the greatest statesman and greatest diplomat of ancient or modern times, President Wilson occupies today a unique position in the affairs of the world. His leadership has been without a flaw. His statesmanship has been without a blemish. His tenure of office has been the brightest spot in American history.

The Old World today looks to the new for a guiding hand. The hand that is stretched out to bleeding France and suffering Belgium is the hand of Woodrow Wilson and it is clasped in friendship, in respect and in admiration.

America should be proud of its President, and the World should be proud of America for its wisdom in selecting a man of his attainments to lead them through the greatest tragedy of the century.
