THE UNIVERSAL CAR

It's no longer necessary to go into the details describing the practical merits of the Ford car—everybody knows all about "The Universal Car." How it goes and comes day after day and year after year at an operating expense so small that it's wonderful. This advertisement is to urge orders without delay prospective buyers to plan as the war has produced conditions which may interfere with normal production. Buy a Ford car when you can get one. We'll take good care of your order—get your Ford to you soon as possible—and give the best in "after-service" when required.

ELSIE FERGUSON SCORES HIT IN "BARBARY SHEEP"

Local theatregoers who saw Elsie Ferguson in "Barbary Sheep" at the Globe last night were delighted with this well known stage star's first screen appearance. The play will be repeated tonight for the last time.

In addition to its other merits, "Barbary Sheep" is undoubtedly one of the most lavish photo productions of the season. Luxurious sets depicting the elaborate Algerian interiors together with several complete villages were especially built for this picture. Every detail has been passed upon by experts so that the background and general atmosphere of the production is absolutely correct. Many of these fascinating scenes, lighted with new effects in photo-production, present views of splendor never before attained in film technique, and enhance the general qualities of this stirring romance. The supporting cast includes such exceptional artists as Pedro de Cordoba, Lumsden Hare, Macy Harlam, Alex Shannon and Mande Ford.

Corvallis Man Has Gone to Europe

N. R. Moore left today on the 2540 train for New York where he will await passage abroad to commence his work with the Y. M. C. A. He has no idea as to what branch of the work he will be assigned to and it will make no difference, for he says he is perfectly willing to do anything from cleaning cuspidors to conducting prayer meetings. He hopes, however, to have time to do a little writing for the good of the cause and the benefit of the folks back home and has taken a typewriter with him and several reams of paper. Inasmuch as it may be a month before he lands on the other side, it will probably be March before his letters from abroad will appear in this paper, tho he will probably send us something before he goes abroad. Mrs. Moore who was going to accompany him changed her mind as she didn't like the looks of the long trip back. While he is over there he expects to call on George V and find out who really started this war, anyway.—Gazette-Times.

Do You Know That—

—in order to be successful, to improve efficiency and strength that is necessary in business or in any other enterprise, you must first eliminate waste? The J. C. Penney Co. 175 Busy Stores conceived this idea years ago to eliminate all things wasteful, doing away with unnecessary frills such as delivering merchandise, buying in small quantities from traveling salesmen, music, flowers, etc. We stand today one of the strongest organizations of its kind in the world.

We stand today one of the strongest large quantities direct from the manufacturer in carload lots, eliminating the middleman, thereby getting rock-bottom prices, which means that we can sell you merchandise far below all competition; in fact, WE HAVE NO COMPETITION. Stop and Think! The enormous amount of merchandise it requires to operate 175 stores(and you will readily see why we can sell cheaper than the one-store merchant. We carry no inferior brands but merchandise of merit only, such as Stetson Hats, Crossett Shoes, Arrow and Tryangle Collars—in fact, all the leading brands you will find here. If you are from Missouri, we will be glad to show you. With money you can do many things, but you can do more things with your money at the J. C. Penney Co. 175 Busy Stores. Come in and try it—YOU WILL SAVE MONEY BY DOING SO.

"PAY ME" JEWEL FEATURE AT THE ROLFE FRIDAY

Dorothy Phillips, the star of "Pay Me," the Jewel Production which is appearing at the Rolfe Theatre on Friday-Saturday, has the distinction of having outdrawn both Billy Sunday and Doug Fairbanks in the opening day of the big photoplay in Los Angeles.

The rise of Dorothy Phillips to recognition as one of the foremost emotional actresses on the screen has been meteoric, and "Pay Me" marks one of the great achievements in her career.

Not more than a year ago she appeared in "Hell Morgan's Girl," a big red-blooded play that jumped her into instant popularity and has put her name on every film fan's lips in its brilliant run throughout the country.

The plot of "Pay Me" is as vigorous and as full of the appeal of elemental emotions as the drama which first made her famous, but is built up on a far greater scale.

The scene is laid in the camps of the North and the characters are all of the rugged, two-fisted type of men and striking type of women that tradition gives to this land of romance.

It is the story of a blood feud between two strong men, a strangely mixed thread of destiny that brings the son of one and the daughter of the other to love one another, neither knowing the history of their parents.

In the climax of the play, when the wronged father of the girl appears at last before his old enemy and demands: "Pay Me!" all the whirl of conflicting passions that has run through the play rushes into one of the most powerful dramatic scenes imaginable.

At the very last the hand that finally avenges the wrong done by "Killer" is that of a woman who followed him through life with dog-like devotion and not the hand of the man who has pursued him for all the years.

The goods have had a big local sale.

Poor Yarn—

Portland had a wild rumpus in all the newspapers over poor yarn for knitting. Manufacturers are charged with profiteering, and one store withdrew thousands of dollars' worth of yarn from the market. "We'll have plenty of the best yarn mighty soon," the Red Cross told the newspapers.
