

WAR DARE DEVILS

First of the American Heroes to Storm No Man's Land.

News of United States' Declaration of War on Germany Signal for Bound Over the Top.

It was night in the trenches of France, and the Canadian contingent lay watchful for the foe, on duty at the listening posts, and night patrols crept stealthily about in No Man's Land. Their bayonets were rubbed with lamp black so that the sudden bursting of a star bomb would not betray their presence.

In this particular Canadian section, writes Henry James Burton, were one hundred or more stalwarts from the United States—men who went over the international boundary into Canada so they could enlist. These Americans were together in one section of the trench. One of these was Private "Scotty" Anderson, farmer, telegraph operator, who had tapped the key from Boston to "Prisco."

Scotty was long, lean and lank, with arms like bean poles. But his muscles were steel, and his courage without a blemish. Said Scotty to his pal, Jack Murdoch:

"This is too slow for me; why can't we go over the top once in a while, and take a slam at the Boches?"

"Time apparently ain't ripe," replied Murdoch.

"Ripe," snorted Scotty disgustedly. "We'd soon make the Boches ripe if we got at 'em with our bayonets."

Just then a sergeant hurried into the trench from a communicating passage.

"Boys!" he cried excitedly. "The United States has declared war with Germany."

Scotty was on his feet with a whoop. He grabbed the sergeant and said: "Say that again." The sergeant repeated the message.

Scotty grabbed an American flag with one hand and seized his gun with the other.

"Come on, Yanks," he yelled, "over the top for us; we've got to celebrate this!"

With a whoop 100 Americans followed Scotty over the top. The sergeant yelled something about orders, but he was brushed aside.

Yelling, the Americans rushed over No Man's Land, and leaped into the German first line trench. The onslaught was so sudden that the Germans were taken by surprise. A score or more were shot down before they were aware what had happened, and nearly a score more surrendered. The Americans returned to their own trench with their prisoners and they were greeted as heroes by their Canadian comrades.

"We had to do something to celebrate the entrance of Uncle Sam on the job," Scotty explained to a superior.

ELBERT BEDE IS OUT FOR JOINT SENATOR

COTTAGE GROVE, Feb. 18.—Elbert Bede, of this city, editor of the Cottage Grove Sentinel, will be a candidate for the joint senatorship of Lane and Linn counties. So far he has no opposition.

Mr. Bede was president of the local Hughes club, and his paper has taken a prominent part in politics of the county and state. He has served as president of the State Editorial association and has been secretary of the Willamette Valley Editorial association ever since its organization. He has been both secretary and president of the Cottage Grove Commercial club, and has a large acquaintance throughout the counties which he hopes to represent. His announcement is brief:

"I am a candidate because I think I can serve the state well in that position. I believe in doing what I say, and in keeping my promises, and will, therefore, make few of them, although I will not hesitate to say how I stand on any subject with which I am familiar. I believe that a public office is a public trust and that a candidate who can't be trusted to serve without making a promise on every subject likely to come before the legislature couldn't be trusted to keep the promises if he made them."
