COLLEGE BULLETIN FOR MARCH IS PUBLISHED

The March number of the Albany College Bulletin is just off the press and is being distributed to the students, faculty, alumni and friends of the college throughout the country.

An extract of an article in Scribner's magazine regarding the college man in the war, and the bulletin takes occasion to encourage the young man in high school to stay with his studies and complete his education that he may be more useful for leadership when he finishes.

The friends of the college who have signed notes for the endowment fund are asked to do more than paying the interest at this time. The college needs the principal in the endowment fund for the purpose of making a better showing to those on the outside.

Quite an article is printed on the status of Albany college, which has already been treated in this paper. The article ends with an appeal for the friends to help out in any of the following ways:

1. Send us your personal check.

2. Assign to Albany college one of your Liberty Bonds.

3. Arrange with college to get an annuity bond of the college upon which you receive interest during your lifetime.

Secure aid for our work from some of your friends.

5. Help us in a whirlwind campaign at once for new students to enter next September. Assure every one that the college is going right on, and that we shall open on time in September. Commend the college to your high school graduates, and remember that we also have a school of music second to none. The campaign for new students must begin right away. Do not wait for anyone to lead out. Be the first to report a new student, to enter in the fall. The college can arrange a visit to your field by someone connected with the college in case you think it advisable. Write us and let us talk it over.

BROADWAY NOT COMPARED WITH WASHINGTON

"They can talk about Broadway in New York," writes Jack Hammel Jr., who is in the big city on his way to France, "but give me Washington street in Portland. I have been all over the city and she is 'some place,' but Portland for mine. We won't be here long. We are here every night, the fare is $1.19 from the camp."

The above information was contained on a postcard received by the Democrat this noon. Jack Jr. is with the aviation section of the signal corps and may be on his way across by this time.

DAIRYMEN TO HAVE MEETING HERE MARCH 19

Better Teamwork Among Dairy Owners Will Be Encouraged.

The big strides ahead along dairy lines both in production and manufacturing have come as a result of cooperation or team work on the part of the dairymen combined with application of accurate knowledge. Better stock has been secured, poor cows weeded out, yields increased, better products made, creameries and cheese factories started and more money secured for products through dairy farmers getting together and acting as a unit in carrying out constructive plans. The interests of one dairyman in a community is, in the essentials, the interest of all. The dairy industry in any community where dairying has a place can be developed and made more profitable through team work.

The Linn County Jersey Cattle club has secured J. D. Mickle, state dairy and food commissioner, and Professor E. B. Fitts, extension specialist of the O. A. C., for a special meeting to be held in Albany March 19. Both Mr. Mickle and Prof. Fitts will discuss cooperation and marketing, two of the biggest problems confronting the dairymen.

The feeding and handling of dairy cattle will also be discussed by Professor Fitts. The meetings which will be held in the Commercial club rooms March 19, will begin at 10:30 a. m. and continue until 3:30 p. m.

This is the first program of a series of dairy programs offered by the extension service of the Agricultural college. Judge H. M. Palmer, president of the Linn County Jersey Cattle club, has charge of the local arrangements and further information may be obtained from him.

Program for Albany, March 19 10:30-12—Marketing Dairy Products—E. B. Fitts, O. A. C. Marketing as important as production. Essentials in securing the greatest returns. How the individual dairyman can help. The importance of by-products.
