C. M. Kendall For Sheriff

I have supported the republican party for over 25 years—have never held a public office and never asked for a single political favor until I made the race for sheriff in 1916.

I stand squarely on the right side of all moral questions and I shall sacrifice neither principle nor patriotism nor the interests of Linn county for politics.

We are in this war and no one can forecast the probable cost to this country in men and money. Every American citizen is expected to "make good" and, as I am past the draft age I must do my part here.

I am in this campaign, primarily for the purpose of giving my boy a high school education and doing everything that I can for the boys who are in the service.

I want to win this time, if I can do so honorably, and I am prepared to do my duty as an officer of the law.

I was chief deputy in the office for over 18 months and I have served as a peace officer and outside deputy at different times for 10 years.

My record is clean. My accounts were accurate. I never made a false arrest, never failed to get the man I went after and never lost a prisoner.

In case of my election in November I shall run the office strictly according to law.

I shall give prompt, efficient and accommodating service at all times.

I shall keep the office expenditures as low as possible and I shall turn over to the Linn County Red Cross all rewards collected for the arrest of slackers.

WHY WE ARE AT WAR WITH GERMANY

By
EPHRAIM DOUGLASS ADAMS
Executive Head, History Department
Leland Stanford Junior University

"The object of this war is to deliver the free peoples of the world from the menace and the actual power of a vast military establishment controlled by an irresponsible government, which, having secretly planned to dominate the world, proceeded to carry out the plan without regard either to the sacred obligations of treaty or the long-established practices and long-cherished principles of international action and honor. This power is not the German people. It is the ruthless master of the German people. . . . It is our business to see to it that the history of the rest of the world is no longer left to its handling." —President Wilson, August 22, 1917.

THIS WAR IS ONE OF SELF-PRESERVATION

"Here," says Everyman, "was a Kaiserdom seeking world domination—and perilously near encompassing it unless the world united to repel him." Thus the radical land reformer sees the issue. Is there any one still blind to it?

But were we in America directly threatened? We were, and we are threatened. A German book published in the United States in 1914, and called "Truth About Germany," sought to inflame us against England and France and to persuade us that America and Germany had common ideals, characteristics, and methods. (May God save us!) It argued smoothly: "Two nations united by such common inclinations and ideals, boldness of enterprise, far-sightedness, quickness of decision, admiration for intellectual achievements, can not help being exceedingly congenial to each other. Pleasant words—but a lying tongue. Would Germany, once master of Europe, remember our 'congeniality,' and be a good neighbor in the Americas?"

The Germans when writing for home consumption hold a different language about world relations and "neighbors." "Formerly German thought was shut up in her German corner, but now the world shall have its coat cut according to German measure, and as far as our swords flash and German blood flows, the circle of the earth shall come under the tutelage of German activity." "A sturdy German egoism must characterize all political action. . . . The first principle of our policy, both at home and abroad, must be that in everything that happens the Germans should come off best, and the others should have a bad time of it." A nice, congenial

CAPTAIN MOON TO LECTURE ON AFRICA

At the Christian church next Friday night Capt. E. R. Moon, recently returned missionary from Central African jungles, will deliver a popular lecture on that most interesting country. For nine years he has been on the Congo as a missionary; five years of that time he has been captain of the mission steamer "Oregon" plying on the Congo and its tributaries. In 1916 he went on a 3,000-mile exploration trip through the tall swamplands of the open country; has shot game of every kind from pigeons to elephants, and will exhibit a large tusk from an elephant which he killed.

He will show a large number of curios, tell interesting folklore tales of the natives, terrible tales of cannibalism; and how the Kaiser tried to get possession of the Congo country, and how the Huns were driven from that land—all in a most fascinating manner. It is likely that a series of views will be shown.

Neighbors!

But Germany, when honest, directly avows her purpose, ultimately, against America. We must "wake up," or we will be the easy "next step" in her ambitions. "Germany . . . may in less than two centuries succeed in dominating the whole globe. . . . If only it can in time strike out a 'new course,' and definitely break with Anglo-American methods of government, and with the state-destroying ideals of the Revolution." She is trying out her "new course" now. "One thing alone can profit the German people: the acquisition of new territory. . . . that alone can really promote the diffusion, the growth, and the deepening of Germanism." "Before seeking to found a Greater Germany in other continents, we must seek to create a Greater Germany in Central Europe." "We must . . . see to it that the outcome of our next successful war must be the acquisition of colonies." "We must make room for an empire of Germanic race which shall number 100,000,000 inhabitants, in order that we may hold our own against masses such as those of Russia and the United States."

Still further, it is no longer a secret that Germany, while we were still unprepared—were neutral—and while Germany still ostensibly sought our friendship, secretly planned, when victorious in Europe, to pick a quarrel with us and wring from us part of the costs of her European war.

If the American "easy chair" is still too comfortable for serious thought of what Germany means to do to us, then America deserves the fate in store for her. This is the material side of our peril, but there is another and deeper side.

This war is our war, to secure our purposes in national and in international development. If Germany should win, her principles must triumph and force alone must rule the world, with the strong exploiting the earth. If the war ends in a drawn battle, with Germany unchanged in ideals and purposes, all that is left of the world will be compelled to engage in the race of military preparedness, and the world will be forced to adopt Germany's methods—now so hateful to us. A Germany undefeated would force us to destroy the very basis of our government, our policy, our social and industrial life—to devote ourselves, capital and labor, persons and property, to one object—a mighty militarism. Unless we win this war the mightiest, most upsetting, most far-reaching change this nation has ever known is upon us. We are fighting for liberty to continue in our accustomed line of progress.

This is the sixth of a series of ten articles by Professor Adams.

Funeral Services Are Held for Mrs. Leigh

Funeral services for Mrs. Joanna Leigh were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Anderson. Interment was in Riverside cemetery.

Mrs. Leigh would have been 90 years old the day following her death. She came to Oregon ten years ago from her home in Iowa, where she had lived for many years. She was a native of the Guernsey Islands, England and came to America when she was 22 years old.
